CLUBS ARE RIVALS

East Side Bodies Gather Funds for Festival.

COMING WEEK A BUSY ONE

Peninsula Rose Association and East Side Business Men's Club Are Active in Campaign for Portland's Annual Show.

Earnest rivalry has been engendered between the Peninsular Rose Association and the East Side Business Men's Club as to which "booster" organization shall have the honor of contributing the largest sum to the Third Annual Rose Festival Fund. The Peninsular body is composed of nine sectional push clubs, which represent nine districts, while the East Side Business Men's Club is composed of the united mercantile interests of the East Side. The coming week will probably tell the story.

Today the soliciting committee of the East Side Business Men's Club will return to the field after having raised $400 for the fund last Thursday in a partial canvass of the retail interests. They have set a high mark and hope to secure close to $500 in subscriptions as against $700 last year. They declare themselves ready to glean the whole business district with a fine-tooth comb in their campaign. Meantime the Peninsular people will meet tomorrow night at the firehouse near Killingsworth avenue and perfect plans for making a cleanup in that territory. Two thousand dollars is what they expect to raise, besides conducting a general rose-planting campaign.

In which it is anticipated that fully 20,000 rose bushes will be set out in the district covered by the nine affiliated improvement clubs. At an average price of $2 a dozen for the bushes, this will mean an expenditure by the property and home-owners in that region of fully $10,000, solely in the interest of the plan to make Portland the greatest "Rose city" in the world. Thousands of the roses have already been planted and the Rose Association, which is handling this campaign and supplying the bushes at cost, expects that every yard in its jurisdiction will bloom like a rose garden during the festival next June.

The financial campaign on the Peninsula will begin within a few days and will be conducted by the executive committee of the organization, while special committees chosen by each of the nine affiliated clubs will take charge of the canvass in its particular territory. The plan of having the young women of the district conduct an information bureau, together with the distribution of bouquets of roses to every stranger arriving at the Union Depot, which proved such a success last June, will be continued during the next festival, with greater resources to draw from.

Man smokes but little here above. The sweetest rules below; There's only time for Sichel's whiffs 'Tween breakfast and the car.
A short Havana's now the thing; It smokes just long enough; Sichel has them at three stores; Just puff them; they're the stuff.

BOOTBLACK SELLS LIQUOR

WARES ARE OFFERED TO CITY DETECTIVE.
Jacob Johnson and Emil Borie Arrested for Lifting Sunday Lid.

Peddling liquor from a bootblack stand is the latest method adopted by the "lid-lifters" in the effort to quench the thirst of those desiring liquid refreshments on Sunday, and as a result of Jacob Johnson's effort to dispose of a flask of whiskey to Detective Douglas Leisy, he is languishing in jail and Emil Borie, proprietor of a saloon at Sixth and Burnside streets, is at liberty on $25 bail.

Johnson, who is a colored bootblack, conducts a stand in front of Borie's saloon, and yesterday afternoon Detective Leisy happened by and decided to have his shoes polished. Leisy is a dapper-looking individual, and would be taken for a traveling-man much quicker than for a guardian of the peace and dignity of the public, and the colored man made the mistake of taking the officer for a knight of the grip. "Mistah, dis town am gone plum to de dogs," said Johnson, by way of opening up a conversation with his customer.

front of the saloon, and soon this was opened, and in exchange for the quarter, the colored man was passed a flask of whiskey from the inside. Returning to his patron, the bootblack handed over the liquid joy, and almost fell in a faint when Detective Leisy flashed his star.

"Good Lord, massa; be you a piecement? For the Lord's sake, don't 'rust me. I wouldn't 'a done it if you had tole me yuh business," and protesting loudly against being arrested, the colored man and the saloonkeeper were escorted off to jail. Borie deposited bail and was released, while the "booster" was allowed to languish in a cell in default of cash. The case will be heard before Judge Van Zante this morning.
