FIGHT TO HOLD MEETINGS

POLICE TO MAKE ANOTHER EFFORT TO STOP SOCIALISTS.

Officers Say Since First Case Failed, Orders to "Move On" Are Disobeyed.

Portland Socialists must once more fight for the privilege of holding street meetings. Although Socialist street speil-holders beat the police in court several months ago on a technical point, the matter is to be threshed out again. The police say they are continually receiving complaints about the congestion of streets by Socialists. When ordered to "move on," the street speakers invariably refuse to do so.
E. J. Foot, placed under arrest by Patrolman Porter on a technical charge of "refusing to move on," is to be made the subject of the second test case, which comes up before Municipal Judge Van Zante today. C. E. S. Wood, who championed the Socialists in their first legal fight, has volunteered to defend Foot. In order that Mr. Wood might have more time to prepare his case, continuance was allowed from yesterday, when the case was to have been tried. The city will be represented by Deputy City Attorney Sullivan.
Since two Socialists were dismissed by the court after arrest on charges of refusing to move on when so ordered by the police, there has been no effort on the part of the department to interfere with the street speakers, but policemen on beats where the meetings occur say that frequently streets will be entirely blocked and when the speakers are asked

TO REMEDY THE EVIL THEY GROW SARCASTIC AND EVEN ABUSIVE, thus bringing out loud snuffans from the assemblages and causing the officer much embarrassment. The officers say they feel they can win their case this time.

The grounds for dismissal before were purely technical. The complaints had been irregularly drawn up. No actual interpretation of the law was made by the court. Great care has been taken this time in the drawing up of the complaint, and assurance is given of its technical accuracy, so that Foot's case will have to be threshed out to the end.
Mr. Wood contends that a policeman is a servant of the people and that when he approaches a man on the street and orders him to "move on," the officer is an arbitrary tyrant and is acting entirely beyond his authority or the requirements of duty.

COUNCIL TO HIRE EXPERT

WILL PASS ON EAST TWENTY-EIGHTH-STREET BRIDGE.

City Engineer and Committee Petition for Measure, Saying They Do Not Understand Concrete.

So perplexing is the situation in the matter of the East Twenty-eighth-street reinforced concrete bridge across Sullivan's Gulch, that City Engineer Taylor and the members of the bridge committee of the Executive Board yesterday afternoon petitioned the City Council, convened in an adjourned session, to authorize the employment of an expert to make a crucial examination of the structure. After considerable discussion, the Council passed the ordinance, carrying an appropriation of $500 to defray the expenses.

The bridge under consideration was constructed by the Northwest Bridge Company and cost $75,000. It was first recently completed and was first certified by the Engineer in charge for the city as having been built according to the plans and specifications, but when Mayor Lane, J. A. Newell, H. M. Esterly and John Montag, members of the committee, investigated, they found a crack in one of the abutment wings. This aroused suspicions, and they made closer observation and from what they could determine, feared to accept the structure.
It is the first reinforced bridge ever built in Portland, and City Engineer Taylor admitted, in answer to a question by Councilman Vaughn yesterday afternoon, that he is not an expert in this line of work and he strongly recommended the employment of an expert, who is to determine the question as to whether the work was done in accordance with the plans and specifications, as well as to report on the condition of the finished structure. If the work was according to plans, the city is bound to pay the contractor, but if it is improperly built, and anything is wrong that makes it necessary to reject it, the contractor will be the one to suffer the consequences. The contractor maintains that the bridge is all right; that it is properly built and is such a one as will last for many years.

Mayor Lane said that the expert to be engaged by the Executive Board will be required to report back as to the safety of the bridge, in addition to the question of whether it was built according to the plans and specifications.
