SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, who was shot down in Judge Lawior's courtwas shot down in Judge Lawior's courtroom Friday afternoon during a brief recess in the trial of Abraham Ruef, was successfully operated upon this morning and his condition is regarded as being most favorable for his recovery. The built fired by Morris Haas, the ex-convict and a rejected juror in Ruef's previcus trial, was removed at 10:20 this morning from the muscles of the lower left maxillary. The built had entered the right side of Mr. Heney's face just forward from the sar, ranged downwards across the palate and was located in the lower jaw by means of an X-ray,

The operation was performed by Dr. Wallace L Terrey, chief surgeon of the Central Emergency Hospital, assisted by Doctors Stillman, Huntington, Moffatt and several other prominent surgeons. Mr. Heney was etherized and was under the proper to be put to be presented to the proper to be presented. e anaesthetic for one hour. The builet as found imbedded in the muscular part was found imbedded in the miscular part of the Jaw near important blood vessels, which required great care and delicacy in operating and was responsible for con-suming so much time in the operation. The actual work of removing the piece of lead, when the surgeons finally reached it, took but 20 minutes. The left jawoone had not been broken, this afternoon his pulse and respiration were normal, but his temperature was a little high.

Mrs. Heney, who has been in constant attendance upon her husband since the day of the shooting, was at the hospital with several friends and relatives awaiting the result of the operation. She bore herself bravely during the suspense, but was greatly relieved by the outlimptor to the operation surgeons predict that Mr. Heney's recovery will be quite rapid.

In dozens of churches in this city and elsewhere throughout the state preachers made reference yesterday to the attempt upon Mr. Heney's life and affirmed need of a municipal cleansing in San Francisco. At various places in the state messmeetings were held where the sympathy of the people in attendance was extended to the wounded prosecutor and his work indorsed. At the hospital where he is confined there has been read an ever-increasing stream of telegrams from all parts of the world asking for news of his grogress and expressing regret for the act that so nearly cost him his life.

Mystery of Hans' Pistol.

No date has yet been set for the inquest over the remains of Morris Haas, nor has any new light been thrown on the mystery surrounding the manner in which he obtained the pistol with which he ended his life. The police continue to assert that it was concealed in his shoe, while Detective Burns and District Attorney Learnedon are equally positive that it was given to him at the juil.

It was she who housed the Hass family on the night of the prisoner's solf-destruction after his wife, according to Detective Burns, had manacred to snuggle a derringer into his cell, and the investigators believe it was she who sent the note to Hency warning him to be on his guard, which, unfortunality, was not opened until after he had been shot. When interviewed, Mrs. Cohen said:

"It is true that Morris Hans told me he would seek the life of Hency. He told me immediately after Hency had exposed his criminal record in opin court, declaring that his life was ruined and the Estate who winder that he had no further desire to live. The confidence frightened me. At first I made up my mind to tell my husband what Hass had told me, but I could not summen courage to do so. I thought the myself Hass did not mean what he said.

It is thought that Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Hans, the widow, both know a great deal more than they have told. They are reticent, and answer questions only after the utmost persuasion. Heney was shot down in the courtroom by Morris Haas. As was expected, the defense asked the court immediately for a change of venue, declaring that Ruef could not obtain in this city the fair and impartial trial which was his right under the law, and supporting the declaration with affidavits signed by Ruef and his attorneys, to which were attached clippings from the newspapers describing the mass meetings and other gatherings and utterances that followed the attack upon Mr. Heney. These, the defense alleged, were sufficient evidence of the public feeling that would prevent the impartial trial of the defense had completed its statement, the prosecution asked for a continuous in order that it might have

Police Out in Strong Force.

As the hour set for the opening of court approached squads of police began to arrive at the hall and the mounted officers appeared on the streets. Every passerby was subjected to the closest scrutiny and no one was allowed to enscrutiny and no one was allowed to enter the courtroom without proving his right to do so. Beyond the line maintained by the officers a jam of curious people packed the street so closely that when the prison van in which Ruef was driven to the court from the County Jail arrived, the police escort was forced to part the crowd to make a way for the wagon. Everywhere throughout the courtroom were policemen and detectives armed and ready for any emergency. Behind the tables of counsel and directly in front of the press tables, sat four detectives with their backs to the court and jury, their eyes constantly

Abraham Ruef was the first of those directly interested in the trial to arrive.
With five policemen and five Deputy Sheriffs riding inside with him and escorted by five mounted policemen, Ruef reached the court from the County Jail at Ingleside at 930. Ruef's pallor was marked and although he was cahn and to make, and, the jury being dismissed, he made application for a change of venue. The affidavit consumed about 20 minutes in reading. By far the greater part of the affidavit consisted of a relation of all the circumstances connected with the Ruef trial since its commencement. The abooting in the courtroom Friday, the subsequent excitement, the mass meetings and other assemblages held throughout the city and elsewhere since that time, are described in full, and every allegation set forth is calculated to show an excited state of the public mind, calculated to injure the cause of the defendant. In part, it is said that a conspiracy has been charged involving the defendant in responsibility for the shooting, and that the jury not having been informed of all the circumstances, has drawn erroneous inferences as to the actual happenings. It is said that the jury will or has learned that Ruef is in custody, and that he is supposed to have been in some way connected with the shooting; that the appearance of three new attorneys in the case will lead the jury to believe that they have been employed by the people of San Francisco. Another point made is that the defense has not had an opportunity to examine the jury or or any of them as to their acquaintance or relations with any of the three attorneys now of record. In conclusion the principal affidavit affirms:

"Affiant is informed and believes that there exists in the City of San Francisco a fierce and burning bias and prejudice against him, sod that his life is in constant danger; that there will probably occur during his journeys to and from the couriroom scenes of violence and turbulence caused to still further prejudice his cause; that the lives of his counsel are in danger, and that they are not in a proper frame of mind to give to his case the attention it demands."

For years China has suffered from a malady for which it has long been believed assassination was the only cure and the death of the Dowager Empress, for this reason, has given rise to various conjectures among the foreigners. In the last ten years both natives and foreigners have offered bribes to those who make murder their business, by fixing a price on the Dowager's head. It is no small number, therefor, who speak of her death as a providential riddance. Few rulers have passed away so generally hated and blasphemed.

There are rumors among the revolutionaries that some of their leaders are about to return to Pekin. This is the first boast that the late Dowager's enemines have made since her famous coup d'etat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Elaborate services were held in the famous Chinese quarter of this city today under the direction of Chinese Consul-General Hu Ling Shi, at which the sorrow of the expatriated celestials over the death of the Emperor of China was expressed. The streets in front of the building as well as the room in which the altar was located and passages leading to it were crowded with Chinese. The Chinese officials donned the habiliments of their nationality for the service, which lasted but five minutes, but was extremely impressive.

The altar, before which stood two gigantic sliver candlesticks with burning tapers, was decorated in blue and white, the mourning colors of the Chinese. Behind it was a sign in Chinese characters composing one word, which announced the death of the Chinese ruler. When the officials approached the altar, they bent they burst into tears.

S. P. CAUGHT FOR TAXES

Company Must Pay Levy Against $8,000,000 of Kentucky Property.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 18 .- County Judge Arthur Peter today handed down an opinion in the long-standing-litigation of the Commonwealth against the Southern Pacific Company involving taxes on $300,000,000 worth of property, Judge Peter decides in the cases for taxes for 1907 and 1908 that the franchise tax assessed by the State Board of Valuation and Assessnents covers all the intangible property, and the company must pay taxes in Kentucky, and that the County Board of Equalization cannot go back of that and assess intangible property. In short, the tax paid on the franchise covers all the taxes collectable in this state except as to tangible property.

On the second question, Judge Peter holds that the steamships statement of the defendant company, which are set out by name in the suit and which aggre-gate $8,000,000 in value, are taxable in Kentucky and must be paid here.

owing to the piano business in the East having fallen off, a number of the leading manufacturers found themselves overstocked. We explained how they made the Ellers Plano House a really unbellevable offer, far the lowest in the history of this concern, in their eagerness to have us take a part of this overstock off their hands.

All told, we contracted to take off their hands is carloads of pianos—approximately 300 instruments. This immense extra shipment on top of our regular contracted orders—means that we've got to sell planos and lots of them in the quickest possible time.

Must Find Homes Quickly.

We fully realize that only the most extraordinary price-cutting will move so many planos within the allotted time. But they're going to move-they've got to move, we predict that this sale will be the biggest—and the shortest ever held. Give the people a real bargain and they're always buyers, glad to seize the opportunity. The manufacturers' loss is your gain. If yours is a musicless home, and you have any idea of securing a fine highgrade plano within the next two years, don't under any circumstances, let this opportunity get by you.
