Complexing Sewer Conduct in the turned for the Brooklyn sewer system between East Tenth street and the Willamette River, remains to be built. The conduit through the tunnel would have been completed some time ago but for the caveln between East Sixth street and Grand avenue, where several men lost their lives, and this is the part that remains unfinished. At this point above the tunnel the material is loose sand, with very little clay, which adds to the difficulties of construction. This tunnel is the longest yet used for such purposes in the city. The other part to be completed is the south conduit from East Sixteenth to Holgate street, and for most of the distance this branch is already finished. However, the contractors are finding construction on this branch very difficult, and they can only make headway by blasting out the material. As yet it cannot be said when the big Brooklyn sewer system will be finished. Chinese Gamelers Fined.—Five Chinames, who said they were playing an innocent game of dominoces when the police broke in on them and arrested them for gambling, protested against what they said was an outrage, in Municipal Court, resterday afternoon. The jury put so much credence in their story that nearly five minutes was required in which to reach a verdict of guilty. Judge Van Zante then fined them ED each. They were arrested at 29 Second street. At the time they were playing behind closed doors and the police had to resort to strategy to get in. Patrolman Craddock testified that he climbed over a partition and that the instant the players saw him they put out the lights and scrambled for cover. He put his flash light into play and located them as well as several coins which had fallen from the gambling table to the froor. The Chinese were represented by B. S. Pague, while the case was prosecuted by Deputy City Attorney Sullivan.

DESPONDENT MAN MISSING.—G. B. Woodward, a man formerly in well-to-do circumstances, was reported to the police last night as missing since early morning, and owing to his having been deepondent for some time, his relatives and friends fear for his safety. The missing man is desoribed as 45 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches tell, and has black hair and mustache. He is a Mason and Shriner and is also affiliated with the Knights of Pythias and the Order of Railway Conductors. He arrived here recently from Denver, and according to his wife, has been despondent of late over his inability to secure employment.

Polace Think They Have Hold-up.—

Police Think Ther Have Hold-up-Earl Priest, a young man of many aliases and a hard countenance, is now believed to have been operating extensively in Portland in his profession of burgiary and highway robbery. His identification has been perfected as the man who held-up F. W. Lutkemeler's saloon, at 49 Union avenue, last week, where, after shooting the saloomman's St. Bernard, which barked at him, he rifled the cash till. His arrest Saturday night, by Patrolman Ellis, is looked upon as an important capture, and his record will be thorough-ly looked into. Priest is being held at he City Jaif during the investigation.

PININGULA ROSE MEETING TONIGHT.—An entertaining programme has been arranged by the Peningula Rose Carnival Association for the mass meeting which will be held under its auspices at the North Albina car hall tonight. Among the attractions the Peningula brass band will furnish music. One of the principal objects of this association is to encourage the residents of the Peningula district to add to the attractiveness of their homes by planting rose bushes. The organization has effected an arrangement by which rose bushes will be furnished at cost. It is desired that tonight's mass meeting be largely attanded.

WILL BUILD FOUR-STORY HOTEL-Work WILL BUILD FOUR-STORY HOTEL—Work will soon be begun on a four-story hotel, to be erected by F. J. Sechtem, one of the proprietors of the Quelle, on the cast side of Sixth street, between Everett and Flanders streets. He recently purchased the lot from Isldore Goldsmith for 33,999. The cost of the structure will be $9,000. This portion of Sixth street has been much improved during the past few years with new and modern buildings, as a result of the thoroughfare being in a direct line between the Union Depot and the business district.

Harry Kenny, Saloonman, Injured by Harry Daly.

QUARREL BEFORE SHOOTING

Daly, Refused Job as Bartender, Draws Gun and Fires Bullet Into Kenny's Shoulder as He Is Seated-Wound Not Serious.

Harry Kenny, a saloonkeeper who conducts a resort at the southeast corner of Sixth and Ankony streets, was shot in the left shoulder about $:30 o'clock last night by Harry Daly, a bartender formerly employed by Kenny. The would-be murderer made his escape but was captured at 19 o'clock in Blazier's saloon by Sergeant Golts and Patrolman Small, who were among the officers detailed to hunt for the assailant.

His victim was immediately removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital where it was announced that his wound would not result fatally unless it is accompanied by bloodpoisoning.

result fatally unless it is accompanied by bloodpoisoning.

The shooting was the result of a quarrel between the discharged bartender and the proprietor and took place in Kenny's saloon. Kenny had been arguing with Daly at the bar just prior to the episode, and after having refused to take the fellow back into his employ, the saloonman walked to a table and sat down. He had commenced playing a game of casino with Thomas Lyons, a hangeron at the resort, and no attention was paid to Daly, who remained standing at the bar.

According to the wounded man, and Lyons, as well as Charles Miller, a customer who stood at the bar. Daly pulled a gun out of his pocket and before any one could interfere, walked deliberately to the side of Kenny's chair, and fired a shot at the defenseless man. Backing away from his victim, who fell out of the chair to the flort, Daly pointed the gun at Miller, and paying no attention to Lyons, who is a feeble old man, backed out of the resort, and hurried down Ankeny street toward Fifth.

Daly was formerly employed on the Vancouver ferry, and while there was nigured in a wagon wreck, which caused him to use a cane when walking. Since that time he has been employed as bartender and "swamper" in a number of North End saloons. About two months ago he was employed by Harry Kenny, but two weeks ago Kenny discharged him. The wounded man has been engaged in the saloon business in Portland for over 9 years, and at one time was rated as well to do. He has a family residing on the East Side. He is about 90 years of age.

Daly, after being taken to the City Jail, refused to discuss the affair. He was considerably under the influence of liquir.

New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

Orpheum.

BY NANCY LEE. FROM a novelty standpoint one of the most unique acts which has been given at the Orpheum since the initial week comes under the head of the Phantastic Phantoms. The turn consists of an aggregation of seven people who display remarkable nerve and versatility play remarkable nerve and versatility in a melange of acrobatic dancing. The two principal live wires are Hilarion and Rosalia Ceballos, although the remaining man and four pretty women have a superabundance of dynamic enthusiasm. The entire stage is set in somber black, which, with the assistance of the calcium lights and the pure white costumes of the performers, makes a striking foil. Aside from the many new features offered by the Phantoms, their dancing is fered by the Phantoms, their dancing is unusually graceful, their costumes picturesque (with the exception of the one suggesting the Ypsilanti advertisement), while the act from a to z has on the

A refreshing planologue is another in-teresting feature, given by the attrac-tive Miss Augusta Glose, who needs no introduction to vaudevillians. Her work shows innate culture and talent. She is the descendant of a long line of musi-cians of note, her grandfather having hear Carl Webs. the famous tenor who been Carl Welse, the famous tenor who sang with Jenny Lind and Patti. Miss Glose has not inherited the vocal talent, although she is an accomplished planist. She lays no claim, however, to being a singer, but talks her songs in a thoroughly fascinating manner. Par-ticularly clever is her facial expression and her power of mimicry, which she shows to advantage in her varied reper-

Rogers and Deely for unknown reasons call their turn "The singer and his valet." Both have fairish voices, but their comedy borders on the pathetic. their comedy borders on the pathetic.
Old-timers were naturally interested in the first vaudeville performance of Miss Fellee Morris, the daughter of the late Fellx Morris, one of the greatest character comedians of the past generation, who for years was associated with the late Roeins Vokes. Considering Miss Morris' illustrious parentage and the fact that Francis Wilson, the distinguished actor and litterateur, was the author of the sketch, it is on the whole a trifle disappointing. Miss Morris, however, is a capable, actress and the sketch abounds with bright lines and interesting situations.

however, is a capable, actress and the sketch abounds with bright lines and interesting situations.

Castellane and brother, who have but recently come from the New York Hippodrome, give a skilful cycling novelty which has many sensational features. To the accompaniment of ague music, they give a double somersault in mid air, which is daring to the limit.

Jack Gardner, in a musical dark-face monologue, apparently finds favor with the audience, although one of his stories, that about the hen-pecked man being handed a chicken, instead of a horse, from its antiquity is entitled 40 a pension. While Gardner redeems himself later with some new songs, his fight with the baritone horn is genuinely inderous. Bissett and Scott, who are billed as the "Hello George" boys, give a decidedly neat terpsichorean number, in which are introduced a variety of new stops. Pathe films of a motor race are more than averagely entertaining.

AMARIONETTE show is no longer a novelty. In fact, that form of entertalnment is one of the oldest known to patrons of amusement whose memories go back to Punch and Judy. There is a turn of this character at the Grand this week, however, which makes the stereotyped automatom show seem exceedingly crude. Mme. Kessely and what she calls her fantoches afford a distinct novelty. Her skill at handling the little manikins is nothing short of marvelous. Those who go to the vaudeville every week were forced to admit that this was a distinct departure from the customary offering of its kind. The fantoches give a complete miniature vaudeville show of their own on a miniature etage, including the accessories of prescenium boxes and orchestra. It is a highly amusing act and one which mystifies patrons who are familiar with the method of giving such exhibitions.

one which mystifies patrons who are inmiliar with the method of giving such exhibitions.

A blood-freezing act is offered by the duo calling thmselves the Great Romanoffs. It consists of the familiar Mexican knife-throwing trick, with variations. A very attractive little woman stands against an easel and permits the man to throw life-sized battle-axes at her until she is completely surrounded by them.
It requires remarkable nerve on her part and marvellous skill on his.

The other acts presented this week are Grace Passmore, a singer of coon songs. Dick and Barney Ferguson, comedians and dancers, Sam Hood, a monologist; the musical McLarens, who do a creditable enough and certainly a diversified turn. Fred Bauer sings an illustrated comic song for a change,
The grandiscope offers some interesting French picture films.

Pantages.

THIS week's bill at Pantages has a tone decidedly above the average and a number of exceptionally good acts make the offering more than usually interesting. Derenzo and La Due present a comedy revolving-pole act, which has many startling and orisact, which has many startling and orig-inal features, chief among which is a clever series of acrobatic stunts per-formed in midair on a balanced pole, which cuts large, circular slices out of the atmosphere

McDonald and Campbell, as character singers, are individual, leasmuch as they can sing; their costumes are at-tractive. Their delineation of the Indian, Irish and Scotch characters, as well as their dancing, is artistic and finished.

Austin brothers present an the slap-stick variety that brings the usual quots of guffaws from the admirers of that sort of near-humor. They dress in shricking colors, pound each other with sticks and perform some an-cient tricks. Their dance, the Ameri-can Beauties, is only relieved from vul-garity by a miracle. Lillian Wright and the two Gordon boys are exceptionally the two Gordon boys are exceptionally good dancers—and present one of the best dancing acts ever seen here.

Rightfully, the stellar position on the bill belongs to Mile. Fregolia, a lightning-change artist, who more than deserves her reputation of being able to change her gowns more rapidly than a women changes her mind. Mile. Fregolia, the process of the stellar of the second change her gowns more rapidly than a woman changes her mind. Mile. Fregolia offers a one-act sketch in which she appears in amazing succession as eight different characters. The second part of her programme is given over to a small playlet, in which she appears as four entirely separate characters, maintaining the plot and conversation throughout the act. She alone is worth a visit to Pantages. Jean Wilson, in admirable voice, sings "I Miss You in a Thousand Different Ways," and the moving pictures are, as usual—moving pictures.

People of Milwaukie Wondering About Mayor's Intentions.

"Will Mayor Shindler be a candidate "Will Mayor Shindler be a candidate for re-election?" is the question that is being asked on every hand in Milwaukie, but there seems no answer as yet. It was supposed that he was entirely out of the race when he left for California, but it is now reported that he left his interests to be looked after by some of his friends, who will see to it that his name is placed on the ballot 10 days before the election. There is a considerable number who think that the Mayor's trip to California at this time on "business" is really to allow the Mayors trip to California at this time on "business" is really to allow his friends opportunity to place him in the field as an independent candidate, if he should not be nominated at the citizens' mass meeting November 24, without his consent or knowledge, so it cannot be said he had broken his promise, made two years ago, not to be
