

TAFT MAY FIGHT AGAINST CANNON

But, if "Uncle Joe" Blocks Way, He Will Be Opposed.

TAFT PREFERS HARMONY

Burton States Position After Interview With President-elect—Vigorous Determination to Prevent Obstruction.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 22.—President-elect Taft and Representative Burton, of Ohio, had another extended conference today, at which the Speaker's question was discussed, as well as "near-by everything else," as Mr. Taft put it afterward.

Must Have Honest Revision.

"In discussing the question of the Speaker's I am not assuming to speak for Mr. Taft, but only to express what seems to me to be a correct view of the situation. The President-elect made certain promises during the campaign. One was for a thorough and honest revision of the tariff. This does not necessarily mean that rates in all schedules will be lowered, nor that any legitimate right or interest of either capital or labor will be disregarded. It does mean a careful reconsideration of the whole subject. Besides the tariff there were other promises contained in the party platform and reiterated by the President-elect.

Will Fight Obstruction.

"No doubt Mr. Taft would oppose Mr. Cannon very reluctantly, but, as the head of his party as well as the President-elect of the Nation, he is bound to meet the expectations of the people and to insist upon the observance of party pledges.

"The Speaker has great power in representing legislation. If this representative influence should stand in the way of the President-elect to pursue, and that is to exert his influence against obstruction.

"It is to be hoped there will be such harmony and concert of action between the President-elect and Speaker Cannon that a contest will be avoided. It does mean a careful reconsideration of the whole subject. Those who have talked with him say that his determination to 'prevent obstruction' is in no way intended to mean that he will make no provision as to what the outcome of this determination would be, saying that the whole situation as he saw it was contained in his statement.

Regarding the possibility of his being a candidate for Speaker, Mr. Burton's answer was that he was "more the less a candidate for Speaker, because of his visit here."

TRIES TO KILL HIS ENEMY

Deckhand Runs Amuck in Saloon, Snaps Gun at Proprietor.

Crazed with liquor, Frank Jagdmann, a deckhand on one of the river steamers plying between Portland and The Dalles, ran amuck last night at 10 o'clock in the saloon of Jacob Kober, at 49 North Third street, drew a revolver and attempted to shoot the proprietor, Kober, who was leaning over the bar.

Kober was behind the bar and reached over and felled Jagdmann to the floor with a blow. People in the saloon rushed to the proprietor's aid and pinned the prostrate man to the floor. Patrolman Murray was attracted by the commotion and, taking charge of the loaded weapon, took the belligerent deckhand to the police station.

The enemy between the two men is said to have arisen because Kober had ordered Jagdmann to keep away from his rear, owing to Jagdmann's violent conduct when under the influence of liquor.

The killing was the outcome of a family quarrel, which started at the breakfast table over the invalid wife of the aged man, whom the young woman, Mrs. Brown, had just killed.

Mrs. George Brown had been very popular in Manson. She was a leader in the Congregational Church work.

ASKS ORDER FOR REBATE

Lumber Company's Strange Petition to Interstate Board.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A curious request is made of the Interstate Commerce Commission in a petition filed by the National Lumber Company of Los Angeles against the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad Company. The complaint says that in the past it has been granted on shipments of lumber and building material a yarding-in-transit rebate to enable it to meet the competition of companies having their yards at San Pedro on the Pacific coast.

The defendant railroad is willing to grant the rebate, but holds that it cannot do so under the law. The commission is requested to direct the railway company to pay the rebate on certain shipments already amounting to $771,000.

CZAR MARCHES AT FUNERAL

Great Care to Protect Russian Despot at Uncle's Funeral.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 22.—The body of Grand Duke Alexis, an uncle of the Emperor of Russia, who died recently in Paris, was interred today in the new mausoleum of the Romanoffs within the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. Emperor Nicholas followed the coffin on foot through the crowded and silent streets of his capital. His Majesty walked thus from the railroad station to the fortress, a distance of three miles.

In spite of apprehensions for the safety of the Emperor, there was no untoward incident. The Emperor was accompanied by a suite of 13 Grand Dukes and 100 Generals and Admirals. The metropolitans of St. Petersburg and Moscow and the archbishops of the Russian Empire participated in the services. The two Emperesses and a number of the Grand Duchesses met the body at the railroad station on its arrival.

Long before daylight the streets of St. Petersburg were alive with troops, proceeding in the direction of the station. The entire guard corps, including the American Legion of Peterhof and Gatchina, turned out for the occasion. As a precautionary measure the spectators were kept at least 20 feet behind the troops.

Route Walled With Troops.

The police and military authorities had taken extreme precautions to prevent any terrorist attempt. Troops for the entire distance on either side were walled with troops, which made any attempt on his majesty virtually impossible.

The funeral train from the frontier arrived punctually on time. The Emperor and the Grand Dukes entered the railroad station together and shortly afterward emerged, bearing the casket on their shoulders. After a short survey the casket was placed on an open hearse and the cortege started.

A delegation of officers from the Prussian regiment of which Grand Duke Alexis was honorary member, accompanied by the Emperor and his suite. The escort of honor was composed of detachments from various Russian regiments and it was followed by the carriages of the two Emperesses and the Grand Duchesses. The streets of the city were white with snow and along the line of march they were lined with troops, emblematic of the resurrection. Brief halts were made before four churches, where the clergy and choirs chanted the requiem. The guns of the fortress were fired in honor of the procession across the frozen Neva.

After the services the members of the imperial family had luncheon at the Winter palace and then returned to Tsarskoye-Selo.

OUT IN RAIN, FRIENDLESS

Woman Out of Work Contemplates Her Doleful Future.

Standing on the steps of the Jewish synagogue at Twelfth and Main streets for several hours in the rain Saturday night, the figure of a frail little woman attracted the attention of people living in the neighborhood, who reported her presence to the police. A police officer went from the station to make an investigation and found her wet and cold and exposed to the weather.

The woman, who was out of work, had no money, and had no place to stay last night, and she was just contemplating what move next to make. She was somewhat nervous, and she had been thinking of the weather, which was growing steadily worse, as she thought to be responsible for the queer belief held by him.

The facts in the case were known only today, having been kept secret by the congregation. The pastor has been taken to the home of friends. His case is considered hopeless, as his physicians state that he is in the last stages of mental aberration.

Before being put under restraint the pastor repeated his attempts to perform a funeral service held the same afternoon. He is also said to have addressed the mourners at the funeral to "Come with him and discover the center of the universe."

Members of the congregation declare that the paralytic was at last broken out in a violent form has affected Rev. Mr. Brooks' mind for several months, and that its effects have been shown in his untimely method of conducting church services.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(Special.)—Without going to the trouble of hunting savages in the Rocky Mountains, a Bourbon prince has found an opportunity of chasing Apache in Paris. One night this week Prince Jean was returning home after 2 o'clock when he heard cries for help in the Rue de Faubourg Saint-Honore.

Two apaches had waylaid a cafe waiter, and, alone and friendless, were plundering him of all he possessed and threatening his life. The prince came to the rescue, and on seeing him the two assailants took to flight. Prince Jean and the Bourbon thorough went to the nearest police station and gave as near a description as possible of the two apaches. Later in the night another man was attacked and robbed almost at the same spot, probably by the same individuals. He was found unconscious in the morning, with his ribs broken and his face swollen.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—The most ambitious observance in the history of Annapolis opened today when this ancient city by the Severn began the celebration with a three-day jollification the 300th anniversary of the granting of her charter from her namesake, Queen Anne.

Invitations were sent out by Annapolitans to friends and former residents of the town in all parts of the country, and there is a home-coming time of no small dimensions.

A feature of the celebration will be the erection of a memorial fountain in the small circle adjoining the market place in the lower part of Main street. An artisan was to supply the fountain, and the model of the fountain has arrived in Annapolis. The work of this permanent memorial is being supervised by a committee of prominent citizens of Annapolis. John Wirt Randall, president of the Farmers National Bank, is the chairman.

The historic old Senate Chamber in the State House, which was restored to its original condition under the administration of former Governor Warfield, the famous old treaty tree on St. John's College campus, and the ancient Treasury building, on State House Hill, will all come in for their share of the return to olden times. The last two are both active part in the celebrations.

The observances began with welcoming exercises in the State House. The program for this, as arranged by the committee, included music by the Naval Academy Orchestra, invocation and benediction by prominent clergy, welcoming address by Mayor Gordon H. Claude, of Annapolis; address by Governor Crothers and an oration by Dr. Bernard C. Steiner.

Today there will be special thanksgiving services in historic old St. Anne's Church.

Monday will be the big jollification day. There will be a military parade at 2 o'clock. In the afternoon the details of United States marines, and sailors from the Academy and the government ships here, representatives of the Maryland militia, the corps of St. John's College cadets in full-dress uniform, the Fire Department of the city, school children, and the general public will participate in the observances.
