LIFE OF SELF-DECEPTION

Members of Various Political Bodies in Strong Terms Take Decided Stand Against So-called "Personal Politics."

LEIPSIG. Nov. 22.—A strong stand against "personal politics" was taken here today in the course of an extraordinary session of the Imperial Pan-German Union, which is composed of members of most of the political parties of the Empire. President Heinrich Glass, in his opening address, sald:

Life of Self-Deception.

The public life of Germany exhibits everywhere lack of courage and sincerity and self-consciousness. The German Nation is leading a life of self-deception. It imagined it was making progress, where in reality it was retrogressing. Happily or both the people and the Emperor this raise life recently was disturbed. The personal intervention of the Emperor has not been confined to politics but it has brought about also serious international prejudices. The wealthy and priviliged flatterers are promoted and the weak and cowardly are indulged.

flatterers are promoted and the weak and cowardly are indulged.

"We set forth as loyal patriots and we declare that, in spite of denials, a system of favoritism has developed. If the nation declares itself satisfied with the imperial words, as the Conservative parties demand, it will be a sorry service for Germany. The best friends of the empire should insist that the vell of deception between the Emperor and the people that recently was torn assunder be not again drawn; truth must occupy its proper place.

Mation Easily Carried.

Motion Easily Carried.

"No change in the constitution is necessary. The rulers, the Chancellor, the Reichstag and the people need only to have confidence in each other and make full use of their right each to control the doings of the other."

Railroad Men Hold Stock.

Mr. Kellogg's first' inquiry was whether all the stockholders of the South Improvement Company, afterwards became holders of stock in the Standard Oil Company of Ohlo. Mr. Rockefeller said he did not think so, and when Mr. Kellogg read a list of the South Improvement Company's stockholders, Mr. Rockefellee named several of them, who he said, did not hold stock in the Standard.

Mr. Kellogg brought out the fact that Amasa Stone, then president of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern. Railway; Stillman W. Witt, a director of the Lake Shore and Big Four railroads, and J. P.

Stilman W. Witt, a director of the Lake Shore and Big Four railroads, and J. P. Handy, also a director of the Big Four road, were taken into the Standard Oll Company in the early days.

Mr. Rockefeller said that P. H. Watson seemed to have access to W. H. Vanderbilt, and the witness thought he afterwards became president of the Eric Railway.

"Then, in the early days, you had a president of the New York Central, a president of the Erie, directors of the Lake Shore, and all the stockholders of the South Improvement Company, except three, as stockholders of the Standard?" 'My testimony will show.'

Smaller Plants Dismantled.

From a list read by Mr. Kellogg, the witness identified 15 small companies which Mr. Rockefeller said were pur-chased by the Standard, and he said he believed 20 or 25 concerns were nught in Cleveland. "How many did you keep in opera-

Mr. Kellogg then read from Mr. Archbold's testimony, in which he stat-ed that the Acme Oil Company was an independent oil company, and not owned, controlled or affiliated with the Standard.

bold became a stockholder in the Standard. He had nothing to do with the negotiations for the purchase of the American Lubricating Oil Company and the Mica Axle Grease Company of Cleveland, but thought that none of the members of those companies became stockholders in the Standard. Whatever stock in the Empire Transportation Company was owned by Stone and Fleming was purchased by the Standard, but Stone and Fleming continued to operate as an independent concern. The witness said he thought the stock of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company was purchased by exchange of stock with the Standard, and stock of the Transfer Company was obtained from J. A. Bostwick in the same manner. The Standard also secured the stock of the Independent Pipe Line.

The trust agreement of 1879, Mr. Rockefeller said, was made for the purpose of holding those stocks for the benefit of the individuals for whom they had been acquired.

Mr. Kellogg asked whether these stocks companies in the Standard Oil Trust agreement, which was made in 1883, were managed as separate and independent corporations.

Recess was then declared and one of the reporters handed to Mr. Rockefeller the ollowing written question: "Do you think you should recei nunity from prosecution because of your estimony, in case proceedings are brought later?"

Mr. Rockefeller leaned over as if to whisper to the reporters and said in a loud tone:
"Please tell them I am not in."
"Are you tired of the examination." he was asked.
"It does not pay to complain. One will lea longer and better if he does not."

"It does not pay to companie the longer and better if he does not."

After the recess Mr. Kellogg began questioning Mr. Rockefeller about the trust agreement of 1882, and about the ownership of the stocks held by this trust. Mr. Rockefeller said that the total long of the 3 cornorations included in value of the 39 corporations included in the trust was approximately $70,000,000, and that each of the stockholders named
