Officers Believe Fugitive Is Doubling Back to Portland Haunts.

SELLS COAT; HAS NO FUNDS

That Murderer Suspect Will Try to Reach Sait Water Is Belief of Men Making Search in Linn County

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 24.-(Special.)-That P. Theyrien, wanted for the murder of Watchmen Rusmussen in Portland, may he doubling back toward Portland is one of the theories on which officers now on gaged in the man-hunt are working. "Colonial Jack," the man who is walking around the country with a wheel-barrow and who is in Albany tonight, met a man answering Theorien's description a 10 o'clock this morning, between the towns 19 o'clock this morning, between the towns of Marion and Turner. The suspent was walking northward and carried a satchel like that known to be in the possession of the supposed murderer.

The officers are not depending on this one clew, however, and are scouring the surrounding country. A man answering Theorien's description was reported at Brownsville early this morning, but he has not been located.

Sells Overcoat to Barber.

The officers have established the fact that Theorien is without money. He sold like overcost, the same one he wore when he was seen on the dock of the schooner Washington the day of the nurder to H. L. Cooper, a local barber. When he left the Pranklin House yesterday morning, Theorien left his satelyel, saying he ing. Theorien left his satebel, saying he had no money, but would get some. He later returned and paid for his room. When the officers learned of this occurrence they thought it was a bluff, but the sale of the coat was learned today. The fact that he is without money enhances the chances for his capture. It was evidently Theoriem's intention to go to Yaquina Bay and he stopped in Albany for that purpose. Hefore he was seen by the $\frac{\psi}{\psi}\psi$ vo Yaquina sailors he saked W. A. Eastburn, a local merchant, about the boat service out of Yaquina.

"Don't Tell," Theorien's Request.

"Don't Tell," Theorien's Request.

It was learned today that Captain Jacobsen of the steamer Newport, which piles between Taquiria and Newport, talked to Theorien here yesterday. Jacobsen was one of the nem who told Sheriff Smith of Theorien's presence here, but was so anxious not to be mentioned in connection with the affair that he did not disclose the fact of his conversation. The two men talked on Pirat street and Theorien is said to have remarked:

"For Geof's sake don't tell any one you saw me here. I'm an innocent man."

Officers believe that slace his discovery bere he will not attempt to go to Yaquina, but will try to reach some other scaport. They cling to the theory that he will endeayor to reach salt water as fast as possible.

Portland Officers in Albany.

Deputy Sheriffs Beatty and Huckabay, of Portland, are yet in Albany. The latter accompanied by ex-Sheriff Munkers took a drive about the surrounding country today in search of clews, white Beatty remained here and directed the search at other points by telephone. Sheriff Smith, Chief of Police Ries and other local officers are assisting in the search.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. Nov. S.—The largest individual shipment of raw sotton ever taken from the Unilted States learned through the Puget Sound Customs District today with the sailing of the Great Northern Steamship Company's Ociental liner Minnesota, with a cargo aggregating 18,000 fons of baled cotton, smoonthing to 300 carboads.

The freight disproves recent predictions that a revised interstate Commerce ruling which became effective November 1 and equires publication of tariffs would demoralize American foreign commerce that involved rail and ocean hauls. A definite statement by officers of the Minnesota denies stories infimating that the Minnesota would be operated under foreign register. Future voyages of the liner will be extended to include Manifia.

NEW TRIAL FOR HORSEMAN

Prisoner Convicted of Manslaughter Hopes Yet to Go Free.

SALEM, Or. Nov. 24.—(Special.)—
Decisions in the Supreme Court were rendered foday as follows:
State of Oregon, respondent, vs. George L. Horseman, appellant, from Umatilla County, H. J. Bean, Judge, recersed and new trial ordered. Opinion by Justice Moore, Horseman was tried for the killing of Chrence McBroom in Umatilla County, May 11, 1987, and was convicted of manshaughter. He pleaded self-defense, It appears that Horseman was ill at the time of the trouble: that McBroom and a man mamed Cartwright had threatened Horseman, and that on the day of the killing McBroom, while accompanied by several friends, attacked Horseman and boat him immercifully, causing internal injuries, as well as knocking two feeth loose, cutting his lip nearly in two, lacerating his haid and breaking his nose. McBroom's friends at direct refused to interfere, but finally state.

While Horseman was at the creek washing the blood off his face. McBroom and Cartwright approached, cursing him and making threats of continued violence. As they came at Horseman the latter stepped back a few paces and told them to keep away. McBroom had his hand in his pocket and attempted to withdraw it, at the same time acting as if he were going to run at Horseman.

Horseman then drew his revolver and killed McBroom. Tals is a synopsis of the evidence offered by the defense. The state's theory was that after giving Horseman the beating McBroom was leaving the place, when smarting under the punishment and instigated by taunts of cowardice, Horseman pointed his revolver at McBroom's back and the latter turnéd just in time to receive the shot in the face.

New Commission Announces That Boats Will at Once Be Secured for Operation on Willamette and Columbia.

SALEM. Or., Nov. 24 .- (Special.)-The of the Port of Portland charter amend-ment, adopted by the people of the Port ment, adopted by the people of the Port-last June. The decision was rendered in the case of Sylvester Farrell, appellant, vs. Port of Portland, respondent, in which Judge C. U. Gantenbein is affirmed in an optnion by Chief Justice Beam. The suit was brought to restrain the Port of Portland Commission from carry-ing into effect the provisions of the act authorizing the mulntenance and opera-tion of tugs and pilot boats. The Port of Portland amendment was attacked on three grounds:

three grounds:

First—That the people of Portland have no power under the constitution to prepose and adopt at the polts amendments to the act incorporating the Port.

Second—That if they have such power it cannot be exercised bacept in pursuance of a general law providing the manner and method of sugh exercise and such law has not been enacted; and Third—That the law as adopted and now in question is not in fact an amendment to the act incorporating the Port of Portland, but is an attempt to confer powers not germans to or connected with the original.

Hypon these points the Supreme Court Upon these points the Supreme Cour-olds that when all the direct legislatio holds that when all the direct legislation amendments are construed together it appears that "the manifest purpose, so far as it concerns the question now under consideration was to take from the legislature and vest in the people the power to amend municipal charters," though a strict construction of the language would limit the amendments in this respect to clifes and towns only. The court also noids that the act of 1997 nutting the inlimit the amendments in this respect to cities and towns only. The court also holds that the act of 1997 putting the initiative and referendum into effect as to municipalities applies to the Port of Portland and that maintaining tugs and pilot boats is within the expressed purpose "to promote the maritime, shipping and commercial interests of the Port of Portland."
