Ready Multnomah? Ready Oregon? When this query is uttered by the referee at Multnomah Field this afternoon, and the captains of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club and University of Oregon football elevens answer in the affirmative, the old-time gridiron rivals will commence their annual struggle for supremacy at the great college game.

Spokesmen for each eleven last night announced the teams as thoroughly fit for a grueling battle, and each team has its host of supporters who are confident of victory. The University of Oregon team returned to Portland yesterday at noon and during the afternoon worked out on Multnomah Field. Many of the club admirers attempted to gain access to the field to watch the Oregon boys at practice, but nearly all were denied admission. The few who were fortunate enough to witness the collegians at work were former Oregon men and therefore not under suspicion as having designs on learning Captain Moullen's signals.

The varsity team is full of confidence, and is prepared to go on Multnomah Field this afternoon imbued with that old Oregon spirit and determined to make it three straight victories over the clubmen. In the last two meetings between the two elevens Oregon has been victorious by close scores, and today's contest is expected to be equally close. Oregon has the advantage of possessing two great kickers, while Multnomah can only boast of one. Bud James is the old reliable booter to be relied upon by the clubmen, and he will do his best to hold his own with Dudley Clark this afternoon. James is a good man at place kicking, but Captain Moullen, of Oregon, is the acknowledged premier in this department in the entire Pacific Northwest, and for that reason the husky Multnomah fullback will have his work cut out for him thas afternoon when he goes against two such clever men as are represented in the Oregon line-up.

Coach Forbes Confident.

Coach Forbes, of the University of Oregon, for the first time this season, expressed himself as confident of victory. He is exceedingly pleased with the manner in which the Oregon boys have recovered from the bruises of last Saturday's contest, and also on account of the splendid manner in which they worked out at Seaside during their several days' stay at the beach. According to the coach every one of the Oregon regulars will be in the line-up this afternoon and they will be in the game to win. A victory over Multnomah means a great deal to the collegians, for it will instill the spirit of confidence in their ability, and make a splendid foundation for a successful team next year. Next year the Oregon team is scheduled to lose only one man, Captain Moullen, who graduates at the end of this term and has served his allotted four years on the team. That he has done his work well is known to all football followers, and when he leaves the team the varsity will be hard-pressed to secure as valuable a man to assume his position.

Today's game promises to see a record crowd on Multnomah Field, for the interest in the match is much greater than even last Saturday, when all Northwest records for football crowds were broken.

Fair Weather Is Predicted.

The gates will be thrown open at 1 o'clock and the game will start promptly at 2:30. R. N. Hockenberry will officiate as referee in this game, while Oliver M. Cutts, of Seattle, will act as umpire. Hugh J. Boyd will be field judge. All these officials are the same men who judged the Oregon-Corvallis game last Saturday, and whose work was all that could be asked.

Admission to Grounds.

In order to avoid confusion at this afternoon's game, the management announces that all tickets will be honored at the Chapman street gate, and while the Twentieth street entrances admit ticketholders direct to the grandstand, it will not be necessary to apply for admission at that entrance. General admission tickets will be honored only at the Chapman street gate. The teams will line up as follows:

Multnomah.	Position.	Oregon.
Alexander	L. E.	Kilts, Dodson
Oswald	L. T.	R. (Capt.) Moullen
Conant, Pratt	L. G.	R. McIntyre
Carlson, Callahan	C.	Means

Smithson	R. E.	L. Michael

HAS OUTLAWS CONVERTED

Henry Berry Declares State League Headed for Organized Baseball.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 25.—The California State League "outlaws" are to come into organized baseball January 1, 1909. This is the news brought back from Fresno by Henry Berry, of the Los Angeles baseball team, who returned yesterday. Berry declares that the outlaws will be with the Coast League from now on. With the possible exception of the Stockton team, they are ready to come into the fold now, but will await the coming of President Ban Johnson of the American League, and the other big league magnates about December 20.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Although the ceremony was performed on February 29 last, it has just become known that E. A. Dillon, captain and quarterback of the Princeton football team, married Miss Leidy in this city. Announcement of the marriage was made yesterday. Young Mrs. Dillon is a daughter of J. J. Leidy, editor of the Newark (N. J.) Star.

DODGES GAME WITH HILL

SEATTLE TEAM NOT ANXIOUS TO PLAY CADETS.

Lincoln High Meets Salem Today and Contest With Local Champions May Follow.

The Lincoln High School football team, of Seattle, passed through Portland yesterday afternoon on the way to Salem where the boys from Elliott Bay are scheduled to meet the Salem High School team this afternoon. For some reason or other the Seattle lads do not appear anxious for a game with the Hill Military Academy team of this city. The Hill Cadets have won the Interscholastic League championship of Portland and are anxious to have a fling at the Seattle boys for the Pacific Northwest championship, but instead of meeting Hill, the Seattle boys take on Salem, a team that has been beaten by a Portland High School eleven which had previously been defeated by the Cadets.

When seen at the depot yesterday by Captain Graham, of the Hill team, the Seattle management would not discuss a game with the Hill team. After dodging the issue for a long time, the Seattle captain said his men would play Hill here next Saturday, but as the time is so short, it is not believed that a game will be scheduled for that day. The Hill team desires to meet Seattle in that city on December 5, and such a proposition was extended. However, no definite agreement resulted, and it may be possible that the Cadets will take the Seattle team on for this Saturday in order to get the game.

The Hill players are indignant at the stalling tactics of the Lincoln boys, and declare that Seattle is afraid to play them, for fear of sustaining a defeat. This charge ought to bring the Seattle boys into line immediately, and, as Hill is willing to agree to almost any kind of a proposition, it seems likely that the two elevens will schedule a contest in the near future.

Hunt Club Paper Chase Today.

Bert Tongue, on his clever horse Oregon Kid, will endeavor to win for the third time the Portland Hunt Club's Thanksgiving Day trophy in the open paper chase to be held this morning. Mr. Tongue has twice captured the coveted trophy and if he wins today the cup will become his personal property. Several other of the Hunt Club riders are ambitious to defeat Tongue and keep the cup in competition for another year, and it is said that several of them stand a good chance of scoring. The start will be made from Rossmere at 10 o'clock and accommodations have been provided for spectators and the gallery.

Championship Teams Tie.

COLFAX, Wash., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The Colfax High School football team tied Waitsburg High School at Colfax today, 6 to 6. This ties up the championship of Eastern Washington. The game was the best ever played at Colfax.

SOCCER IS GAINING GROUND ON COAST

All-Pacific League Will Be Next Development of the Association Game.

HOT CONTEST FOR TODAY

New Multnomah Team and Portland Rangers Will Line-up This Morning on League Baseball Grounds.

When the crack picked team from the California Football Association comes north next April to meet the best that Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo and Ladysmith can put out, the games will demonstrate a good many things to an American public that has so far been a little slow to realize the merits and possibilities of soccer, but that is beginning this year to take to the game in a surprising way. The series with the Californians is expected to show that soccer can really draw good crowds, that the best northern teams, particularly those of British Columbia, are not at all inferior to the veteran Californians, and that soccer, played between two fine elevens, is as spectacular and exciting as Canadian ice hockey or Canadian lacrosse.

Soccer leagues are springing up all along the Coast. The two biggest are the Pacific Coast Association Football League and the California Football Association. The former is an international affair, made up of picked teams from Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle, Nanaimo and Ladysmith. Nanaimo at present leads. There are eight teams in the senior organization under the control of the California Football Association, but the jurisdiction of that powerful body extends up the Sacramento Valley to Sacramento and over a new league of high school teams. There are 1000 players on whose conduct it can pass. The game has spread all over Central California.

Big British Columbia Body.

In the secondary class of leagues comes the big British Columbia organization, which is so cumbrous it has been split into districts, the winners of which play off for the championship of the province. In the Vancouver and mainland district alone there are two dozen clubs. Nearly every small British Columbia town now has a good team, recruited largely from Eastern Canadians and from young men arriving from England and Scotland. A similar district organization exists on Vancouver Island, and the strong body of which Will Ellis, of Vancouver, is secretary, has jurisdiction over many hundred crack men.

Another prominent secondary league is the Northwestern, made up of four Seattle clubs, one from Tacoma and one from Valley City. This league plays a lengthy season, which has just started. The trophy is usually won by a Seattle club, though Tacoma got it two years ago. It is interesting to note that the Seattles proved only one goal better than Portland United a year ago today, and the Seattles were the best in the Northwestern League.

Third in the grades of soccer leagues come the city organizations. Victoria has one of five teams. Seattle and Tacoma teams are all affiliated with the Northwestern Football League. Portland has a five-team city league, and Spokane, having three teams this year, will doubtless be sufficiently strong another year to have a city schedule.

This being the material to draw from and an outline of the way it is lined up at present, the All-Pacific Coast League is the next step. Two years ago any one would have been laughed at who predicted that a united coast league was possible within ten years. Even last season, though mooted, it was regarded as visionary.

First Step Toward Coast League.

But the coming tour of the Californians is the first step in the immediate formation of a general Coast league. Of course, California teams will not come north constantly to play northern teams—distances are too great in the present state of soccer—but there will be a big northern and a big southern division, and the winners in each will play off annually for the championship of the trans-Rocky Mountain region. Portland will be invited into this organization when it first forms, and the ability of the city to enter a team and to make good depends largely on the showing this Winter in the game, the attendance it draws after the competition of college football is out of the way and the showing made by the local players against California next Spring.

The Thanksgiving morning soccer game here will count in the state championship series and will be between Multnomah's new team and the Portland Rangers. It will start at the league baseball grounds at 10:30. Multnomah at present leads the city league with four straight victories and no defeats, but the Thanksgiving holiday has enabled the Rangers to get out a heavy, fast and classy team, to which other teams in the league are looking to break Multnomah's string of wins. The line-up will be:

Multnomah.	Position.	Rangers
Barton	G.	Hutchinson
Crosby	R. B.	Nunn
Dyment	L. B.	Stewart
Bennett	L. H.	McKay
A. Matthew	C. H.	McCafferty
Sammons	R. H.	Coxon
Kydd	O. R. W.	Quarteman
Dick	I. R. W.	Douglas
Mills	C.	Stevenson
H. Matthew	I. L. W.	Kyle
Hanson	O. L. W.	Dean

CORVALLIS OFF FOR SEATTLE

Cady and Keck Will Be Unable to Play Washington.

The Oregon Agricultural College football team passed through Portland last night on its way to Seattle, where the Aggies are scheduled to meet the University of Washington team on Washington Field this afternoon. The Aggies, though crippled by illness and injuries, are full of confidence and determined to give the Washington huskies a hard battle. During the stay at Belcher's Mineral Springs, where the team has rested up since its game with Oregon last Saturday, the men have got in good condition for their hard contest.

Cady, left end, and Keck, fullback, in last Saturday's game, are disabled and cannot get into the game against Washington. The former sustained a sprained ankle and will not be able to play for some time, while the latter is suffering from an attack of tonsilitis. In addition, Cooper and Hastings are suffering from lame arms and bruises to such an extent that they also may be unable to compete against Washington. Coach Norcross said last night:

"This is not a hard-luck tale peddled just before a game, for we are going to try our hardest to beat Washington, and while the injuries may handicap us somewhat, we will have no excuses to offer if we lose."

Interest Next in Basketball.

As the end of the football season approaches the admirers of basketball are looking to that sport for their entertainment after Thanksgiving. At Multnomah Club the interest in the basketball team's practice work is growing daily, and if hard, consistent work is the measure of success Captain Bellinger's stars are surely out for the state championship pennant. There are some strong teams to be reckoned with in this year's league, which consists of teams from Pacific College, Dallas College, Willamette University, McMinnville College, Portland Y. M. C. A., and M. A. A. C. Oregon Agricultural College was invited to enter the league, but for some reason neglected to respond, which is regretted by all concerned. The first game of the season will be Y. M. C. A. vs. Pacific College, on Friday, November 27, and on the evening following Pacific College plays M. A. A. C. at the club's gym.

Whitman Expects to Win Today.

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, Wash., Nov. 25.—Everything is in readiness for the big Thanksgiving Day gridiron battle with Whitman College. Coach Rheinschild has worked his men to the limit to leave nothing undone in preparing for the game on which so much rests.

According to reports, Whitman is coming here confident of winning.

HOT GAME ENDS IN TIE

IRVINGTON AND STEPHENS PLAY TO NO SCORE.

Contest to Be Played Off Tomorrow. Winner Will Meet Shattuck for Championship.

As a result of yesterday's scoreless game between Irvington and Stephens schools, which was to have decided which was to meet Shattuck school for the championship in the light division the situation in the Grammar School League football schedule is just as much of a mystery as it was before the two teams lined up. Had either team won yesterday the result would have decided the winner in the first section of the lightweight division and the lucky team would be the one to meet Shattuck on Multnomah Field tomorrow. Instead Stephens and Irvington will occupy the field and try conclusions again, with the hope of determining the better team. The game should be a hummer as the two teams are evenly matched in ability, although Stephens outweighs Irvington considerably.

Yesterday's game was fiercely contested from start to finish with the advantage first in one's favor and then in another's. Each team, at different stages, was in position to score and several drop-kicks were tried by both sides only to end in failure. But for the punting of Weaver and Floyd Kirkland's and Magins' fast work in getting down the field under his kicks, Irvington would have been swamped by its heavier opponents. It was practically powerless to advance the ball on rushes and with the exception of an occasional gain around end by McClung, Kirkland or Makins its plays were stopped by the Stephens' forwards with little difficulty.

Stephens' attack was more powerful than its opponents' but it lacked in the kicking game, to which Irvington owes its success in warding off an expected defeat.

The first half was rather in Stephens' favor as it had the wind at its back and was able to force the battle in Irvington's territory most of the time. At one stage Stephens got the ball on Irvington's 20-yard line but was unable to make their yardage. Elliott went back for a try at field goal but made a dismal failure of the attempt, not booting the ball more than a few feet. An Irvington player fell on the ball and it was returned to the middle of the field on a kick.

In the second half Irvington resorted to a punting game by means of which it kept the upper hand of its heavy opponents and was nearly able to score. Stephens at no time during the half was dangerously near Irvington's goal, Kirkland's and Magins' work in getting down the field on Weaver's punts was the most brilliant playing of the game and resulted in recovering the ball for Irvington on fumbles on several occasions. One such recovery gave the ball to Irvington on Stephens' 25-yard line from which point Kirkland tried an unsuccessful drop. The ball was blocked but recovered by an Irvington player and the same play tried again with poor success.

Besides Weaver, the Kirkland brothers and Magins, McClung and Stemler played good games for Irvington, while Morrow, De Temple, McLynn and Elliott starred for Stephens.

The two teams play again tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock, on Multnomah Field. The line-up:

Irvington (6).	Position.	Stephens (6).
McClung	L. E.	Rufner
Stemler	L. T.	Livingston
Logan	L. G.	Hanson
Muirhead	C.	Rutherford
Versteeg	R. G.	Phillips
Weaver	R. T.	Lancaster
Hangen	R. E.	De Temple
Floyd Kirkland	Q.	Morrow
Fred Kirkland	L. H. B.	King
Mangins	R. H. B.	Elliott
Brix	F. B.	McLynn

Game at Boise Called Off.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 25.—The University of Idaho is certainly in bad odor with the local sportsmen because it has demanded a $500 guarantee for a game here Saturday. When the varsity got the Thanksgiving game with Utah at Salt Lake, the manager wrote to Howard Stein, an old Idaho man, to know if anybody in Boise would play them on the way back. Stein got to work and has had an all-star aggregation chasing the pigskin by moonlight for three weeks. The unexpected demand for $500 has taken all the wind out of the movement and the game is off.

HEINRICH POSTS FORFEIT

"Dutch Terror," of Spokane, Will Wrestle O'Connell Next Thursday.

Joe Heinrich, the "Dutch Terror," of Spokane, came through with his forfeit money yesterday and will be on hand to wrestle Ed O'Connell at Merrill's Hall next Thursday night. The two grapplers came to terms ten days ago, but as it was stipulated in their agreement that Heinrich was to make 160 pounds, ringside, the wily Teuton would not put up his $100 bet until he was sure he could make the weight.

The terms of the match, in addition to the weight requirement, are that the winner is to get all the gate receipts, the strangle hold is barred and it is to be the best two out of three falls.

The match promises to be a better one than the "Strangler" Smith bout, because the strangle hold barred, O'Connell will not be in fear of that death grip all the time, and will take a chance to throw his man.

Stanley Ketchel vs. Billy Papke.

The Waldorf Billiard Parlor, corner Seventh and Washington streets, upstairs, will have a direct wire from the ringside this afternoon at 2:30 P. M., giving the fight by rounds by the best-posted fight operator the sport has ever known. Admission free; everybody welcome. **

PORTLAND TO BE IN TWO LEAGUES

Will Have Team in Coast and Another in Northwestern Next Season.

M'CREDIE TELLS OF PLANS

Says Casey Will Manage Beavers, While He Himself Will Handle Club in Northern Body—Fine Players Are Engaged.

BY W. J. PETRAIN.

Walter McCredie is back. The return of his serene highness for Walter reigned like a king among the hungry fans yesterday, would not have been attended by any commotion had it not been for the fact that he brought confirmation of the momentous news in circulation for several weeks, and to the anxious two-team query Walter smilingly nodded yes to all comers. In fact he was in a most jovial and talkative disposition, probably due to the fact that he was glad to get back to Portland after a several weeks' sojourn in the effete, though somewhat frigid East.

"Yes," said Walter, beaming upon his questioners in the most patronizing manner for a sovereign, "Portland will have two teams next year." A few minutes interwoven with more smiles and the dispensing of a few glad hands elapsed, when the manager added: "And I guess I'll manage the Northwestern League team myself, for I am sick and tired of the California bunch and the California crowds." The secret of it is that Walter does not like the California crowds any better than the California crowds like him, while in the Northwestern League he promises to become a popular favorite, for he will be one of the best ball tossers they ever had on the Lucas circuit.

The admission of Portland into the Northwest League is a foregone conclusion, for the only thing remaining to cement the union will be the consent of the Northwestern League at the annual meeting, as well as the Pacific Coast League at its meeting, and both organizations are heartily in accord with the scheme, which means that the two-team proposition for this city is cinched.

In addition to the formal announcement of the two-team, two-league proposition, Walter also gave out some exceedingly interesting news for fandom in general. Among the gladsome intelligence dispensed by the double mogul was the fact that Portland is to receive four players from the Boston American League team, and a like number from Napoleon Lajoie, the pilot of the Cleveland American League club. Just who these players are Mac pleaded that he did not know, but that they would be good men. Warming up like a prizefighter after receiving a couple of wallops, Mac waded in and came close to telling his right age, for he imparted enough information to keep the busy bugs gossipping at a faster clip during the next couple of weeks than an old maid convention discussing the man question.

Mac's first gun was to the effect that Pearl Casey would handle the reins of the Coast League team, and after imparting this intelligence the manager went on to say that he would win the Northwest League pennant, and then wipe Casey's team off the map. However, the clever little second sacker and recently promoted manager, was in ear-shot and immediately took issue with McCredie, the result of which was a wager of a suit of clothes and a Thanksgiving dinner next year.

From the spell delivered by Mogul Mac the following players will wear Portland uniforms in the two leagues:

Pacific Coast League.

Catchers—Murray, Beaumont and Fournier.

Pitchers—Kinsella, Graney, Garrett, Hartman, Carson, Annes, Pinnace and Spoonmore.

First base—Mullin, of Cedar Rapids.

Second base—Casey (manager and captain.)

Shortstop—Phil Cooney.

Third base—Ote Johnson.

Outfielders—Dunn, of Spokane; John Bassey, Jack Ryan and Jimmy Smith.

Northwestern League.

Catchers—Walter Frambes, Jimmy Byrne.

Pitchers—Rose, Harkness, Ferraris and the extra members of the Coast team's staff.

First base—Ed Kennedy or Ort, of Lynn, Mass.

Second base—Jimmy Shinn.

Third base—Olsen, of Hutchinson.

Shortstop—Staton, or Joe Curtis, of San Francisco.

Outfielders—Harry Melchior (possible), Ort, Curtis, and possibly Jimmy Smith, or Dunn.

Will Train in California.

All these above players will be taken to the California training grounds, and will be divided into two clubs practically as above, although Manager Casey will have his pick of both teams.

Manager McCredie would not confirm nor deny the rumor that he had secured the services of Harry Melchior, the hard-hitting San Francisco right-fielder, but the rumor is so persistent that it is believed to be well founded. However, it is assured that he has secured Curtis, who will make a good man for the Northwest League team. In fact, Curtis will prove one of the most valuable men on Manager McCredie's team, for he is a fair hitter in the Coast League and should improve in the class B circuit.

In announcing yesterday that he would take charge of the Northwestern team Manager McCredie made the statement with the reservation that it depended upon the consent of Judge McCredie, but, as his uncle is known to favor that plan, it seems assured that the teams will be so guided and apportioned. However, in the event that McCredie takes the Pacific Coast team, Cooney will go with Casey to the Northwestern League.

After McCredie's Players.

Several clubs importuned Manager McCredie for several of his players among whom were Ryan, Graney, Garrett, Mullin, a new man, and Carson, the Tacoma wonder. But McCredie refused absolutely to consider any proposition to sell or trade any of his players, and to all he announced that he was on the buy and had nothing to dispose of.

At the meeting of the Northwestern League next month the Butte franchise will be formally transferred to Portland, and President Lucas will move his offices from Spokane to Portland, which will be the headquarters of the class B league.

Manager McCredie also announced that the Chicago White Sox, who are scheduled to again train on the Coast, will visit Portland for a series here during the latter part of March or early April. This will be more definitely known when Manager Fielder Jones reaches Portland next week, for the famous White Sox leader will Winter in Portland, and may possibly retire from baseball and attend to his business here. Taking everything into consideration these are busy times for the fans, and Walter McCredie may well wear the smile that adorns his countenance.

ARREST LOVERS IN PARK

Flirtation With Japanese Lands Oregon City Girl in Jail.

Maud C. Mason, 21 years of age, of Oregon City, was arrested last night by Patrolman Peterson in the Plaza block, at Park and Couch streets, for violating the "masher's" ordinance. L. G. King, an Americanized Japanese, who accompanied her was also taken into custody. The policeman found the pair indulging in sundry osculations in the shade of the park trees.

The officer interrupted the lovers in the midst of a most tender avowal from the lips of King. The young woman explained that as her home was in Oregon City, she had no place in which to entertain her company in Portland except the public park, and told the officer it was simply dreadful to arrest her. Up until the time the last car left last night for Oregon City no one had called to bail her out, so she was compelled to spend the night in jail. King spent a portion of the night in a cell, but finally prevailed upon his employer to deposit $25 for his release. Both will be brought before the police judge tomorrow.

Will Sell Public Lands January 2.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—January 2 a regular sale of state lands will be had in 30 of the counties of the state, according to a circular just prepared by Land Commissioner E. W. Ross.
