EAT DINNER IN NEW HOME

Y. W. C. A. Members and Friends Enjoy Thanksgiving Spread.

About 100 people ate Thanksgiving turkey in the new Y. W. C. A. home last evening and there was nothing left of a whole flock of plump birds except the gobble. The tables, stretching through three handsome dining rooms, were decorated with chrysanthemums and cosmos, but the most imortant feature of all the feative array was that a number of men were there, for which the girls were duly thankful. It was a very joyous crowd of homeless folk that wandered thankful. It was a very of homeless folk that wandered through the building inspecting the places after the tables were deserted. Methodist Church Does Great Work in Northwest.

FUNDS ARE NOT CURTAILED

Coast Section Only District in Country Where Appropriation for Mission and Church Extension Is Not Cut Down.

So vastly important is the rapid growth of the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the newly-created 15th general conference district that the general committee on home missions and church extensions, at its recent annual acession in Topeka, Kan, eliminated this section from a general cut of 16 per cent.

Approximately $65,000 was apportioned for the support of mission stations in the 15th general conference district, virtually equal to the amount given one year ago, when the general committe year ago, when the general committee on home missions and church extensions met in Taylor-Street Methodist Episcopal Church, this city. When it is known that the church made a cut of about 15 per cent in all other districts, owing to the falling off in contributions the past year, the great recognition given the West is apparent. It shows that Methodism in the Western States is growing so rapidly and is so important that the general committees deem it unwise to cut its apportionment.

The crews of the French vessels were given a double portion of wine in addition to the ration of turkey and the accompanying cranberry sauce and celery. Craft flying the British flag recognized the great American holiday by giving shope leave to all members of the crew and by serving all the delicacles of the season for the mess. Few sallors appeared on abore, being satisfied to remain on board and lour and incidentally fill themselves up on the bounty of the captain and the cock.

The British ship Neotsfield, from San Diego, and the American schooner Samar, from San Francisco, arrived up shortly after noon. The former anchered in the stream and the schooner went to the Standard Box factory. These were the only moves made in the deep-water business. Insuned in the deep-water business. the anties situation "Considering the entire situation, I think the 15th general conference district received splendid recognition at the hands of the general committee on home missions and church extensions," said Dr. Hollingshead, "Owing to the falling off in contributions to the home missions and church extension fund during the year, there was a general cut of about and church extension fund during the year, there was a general cut of about 16 per cent, but the needs of the work in this district were deemed so important and the growth of Methodism so great that the committee made an exception of it, and we get about the same as last year. We fared very well, indeed. There are about 400 mission workers in the 15th general conference district, who are supported in full or in part by the sum apportioned at Topeka. Being a comparatively new territory, much of the work is included in mission fields, and is supported to the full ability of the church as such. The Methodist Episcopal Church carries on its work the church as such. The Methodist Episcopal Church carries on its work among nearly every nationality, and is doing excellent work among them, preaching the gospel in nearly every known tongue. All of the workers in these missions are supported by the general contributions, and each year the general committee meets and apportions to each district whatever sum is deemed wise up to the available amount on hand.

Growth of Church Paper.

At all of the general committee ses at all of the general committee sessions, the bishops, editors of the official denominational publications, one minister and one layman from each general conference district are present all having a vote with the exception of the editors, who are official visitors, it being their duty to keep the church informed themsels their respective unagers of the

CHILDREN VISIT HOSPITAL

Sunday School Class Carries Thanksgiving Cheer to Patients.

The Thankegiving holiday was notably observed at St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday. The 250 patients being cared for there were well remembered by their friends who came, fruit-laden and fragrant with flowers, to wish them well. It was a happy day for the sick, their nurses and the sisters, and sick their nurses and the sisters, and the atmosphere of hope and good cheer which came hand in hand with the Thanksgiving Day was imparted to the immates by words of encouragement from their visitors. Many a kind-hearted patron of the institution who had neither relative, friend nor ac-quaintance numbered among its invalids and orippies, visited the hospital with gifts of cheer for the afflicted. The sick wards were open the entire day to a constant stream of visitors with smiling faces and messages of sympathy for the bed-ridden.

An event which was perhaps more truly relished by the ill than the other occurrences of the day was the visit during the morning hours of the little girls comprising the Sunday-school classes of the Jewish Synagogue under the charge of Miss Harris, their teacher. With arms full of gally decoteacher. With arms full of gally decorated baskots of "goodles" they visited every floor—every room—and left bebind some token of the day of thanks and the remembrance of their sweet refreshing young faces. The dull eye of many a chronic sufferer was brightened and the embittered heart of many a pain-racked victim was gladdened by Furlong also insisted that Hanson knew quite well that robbery was not intended, but Hanson affirmed that several dollars were taken from his pockets and that he was roughly handled. He exhibits a small cut on the bridge of his nose which he says was occasioned by one of the men holding a knife to his face and threatening him with injury if he moved or called for help. Furlong was locked up and the man who was with him is now heing looked for. If Hanson persists in the story that he was overpowered and robbed, Furlong will have to answer to a charge of highway robbery.
