State Horticulturalists to Petition Next Legislature for Annual Appropriation.

An annual appropriation of $1000 will be asked of the Oregon Legislature this winter for the support of the a crop was a consideration no less important. The right kind of stock and soil having been chosen, the next essentials to producing the best fruit were cultivation, spraying and pruning. The fruit having been properly produced, other steps were required that it should be marketed to the best possible advantage. In the first place, it must be carefully picked and packed. In this important matter, Mr. Power insisted that more fruit-growers unions were needed to educate the growers to uniform packing. With the fruit crop of the state constantly increasing, new and distant markets, it was pointed out, would be required and in order to reach those markets, better transportation facilities must be provided. Mr. Power recommended that the selection of markets and the matter of conducting shipments should be made through associations of growers rather than by individual effort.

The final report in the Nathan Wolff estate was filed in the County Court yesterday. Wolff is the First-street pawnbroker who was murdered and hacked to pieces with an ax, Edward H. Martin being convicted of the crime. The latter is now in the County Jail, his case being on appeal.

Ether L. Wolff, the widow and administratrix, reports that she has received from all sources $17,899.94, of which $13,232.69 has been disbursed, leaving a balance on hand of $14,556.25. Clerk's office, issued last night, shows that $226.66 has been received and $300 expended for salaries and supplies. During last month the county spent in salaries of County Clerk Field's deputies $260.87, and for supplies for the County Clerk $289.77. This is a slightly larger amount than was spent during the same month in 1907 and 1907.

Ostrich Plumes Cause Suit.

Ostrich feathers, laces and trimmings constitute the basis of two suits filed in the Circuit Court yesterday against Marie U. Zeitfuchs, B. Shapiro and B. P. Horton, the latter of the Horton-Fleming Company, are the plaintiffs. Shapiro says that last April Miss Zeitfuchs sent the plaintiffs an order for upwards of three dozen ostrich feathers, which were to be shipped from New York by express. The shipment was made, it is asserted, but the money in payment for it was not forthcoming. This was also the case with the laces and trimmings supplied by the Horton company in September, 1907. The price of the ostrich plumes was $431.50, it is said, and of the laces $101.64.

MEMBERS OF STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY, WHICH HELD ITS ANNUAL SESSION YESTERDAY AT WOODMEN OF WORLD HALL.

Mistake of Prune-Growers.

Several important papers relating to the horticultural industry and the work of the society were read and discussed at the afternoon session. Foremost in importance among these probably was the discussion of the subject "An Error in Evaporating Prunes," by J. T. Brunfield, of Mason, Ehrman & Co. Mr. Brunfield informed the growers that their common mistake was in not properly curing their fruit before offering it to the market.

Tribute to C. E. Hoskins.

Resolutions were adopted in appreciation of the services of the late Cyrus E. Hoskins in promoting the horticultural interests of the state; declaring that the cubic contents of the standard apple box shall contain not less than 12 bushels of apples, and expressing the appreciation of the society of the untiring services of the retiring secretary-treasurer, Professor E. H. Leland, in the annual selection of officers resulting as follows: President, H. C. Atwell (re-elected), of Forest Grove; first vice-president, J. R. Shepard, of Zena; P. M., E. H. Shepard, of Hood River; secretary-treasurer, F. W. Power, of Salem; corresponding secretary, L. T. Reynolds (re-elected), of Oregon; Oregon Horticultural Association, E. L. Smith, of Hood River.

Woman Named by Mistake to Serve, but Cannot Qualify.

The Circuit Court jury for December has been drawn by Deputy County Clerk Bush and Smith. For the second time in the past few months a woman was drawn on the list, but as a woman suffrage is not yet a reality in Oregon, she cannot serve. The woman is Mrs. R. Dalley, of 2204 Seventh Street. She was designated on the list by the name of Mrs. Dalley, and being nothing to distinguish her name from those of male citizens, the clerk was obliged to enter it among the others. The list, complete, is as follows:

Report Shows Surplus.

The monthly report of the County Clerk yesterday morning by Judge Webster. Mr. Morgan died in King County, Washington, at the age of 78, leaving property valued at $8000. The estate was divided equally between his two sons, James and Dora V. Morgan, sisters of the deceased. Although the sons are named in the will as the executors of the estate, they will be held, and the court appointed F. McKecher.

Spencer Answers Damage Suit.

E. W. Spencer denies, in his answer to the suit of Frank A. Smith, that it was through negligence of the officers of the river steamer Charles H. Spencer that Smith was thrown into the water and injured while employed as a stevedore. Smith charged that the Spencer was not fastened to the shore with proper lines, that she was attached to the stern of the Oregonian, and that the gangplank was not properly fastened to the wharf. On the other hand, it is asserted by Spencer that his vessel was properly fastened to the shore, and also to the stern of the Oregonian, and that when the latter vessel attempted to back out from the wharf the stern of the Spencer was pushed away from the shore, throwing the gangplank into the water. Spencer says that Smith was warned not to venture upon the slipping plank, but that he disregarded instructions and went upon the plank with a truckload of flour.

How Market is Injured.

"Growers who undertake to palm off a product that is improperly cured are the losers all around. They not only thereby injure the market seriously but are in turn sure to be hurt with the inferior product they would sell elsewhere. Such fruit as is not good enough to be shipped East is held here in Oregon by the packers and sent out to Oregon people. Now, as to the quality of this fruit when reasonable care is exercised in preparing it for the market, when the packing is satisfactory, this section of the country a year ago, our firm had $140,000 worth of prunes on route to the Eastern market and not a single pound of that immense shipment was rejected because of quality."

JURY LIST DRAWN BY CLERK

The Circuit Court jury for December has been drawn by Deputy County Clerk Bush and Smith. For the second time in the past few months a woman was drawn on the list, but as a woman suffrage is not yet a reality in Oregon, she cannot serve. The woman is Mrs. R. Dalley, of 2204 Seventh Street. She was designated on the list by the name of Mrs. Dalley, and being nothing to distinguish her name from those of male citizens, the clerk was obliged to enter it among the others. The list, complete, is as follows:

Good Nursery Stock Essential.

F. W. Power, of the Oregon Nursery Company, of Salem, read a paper on "Some of Our Commercial Problems" He pointed out that the first essential to the production of good fruit was good, clean nursery stock. Secondly, the selection of good soil, adapted to the variety of fruit planted and the proper location for such cessed. Indorsements of this fir for building purposes were read from many of the prominent boat builders of the Pacific Coast, all of whom uniformly agreed on the superiority of this product. H. M. Williamson, retiring chairman of the finance committee of the society, in presenting "The Society's Needs," said the immediate requirements were to carry more fruit-growers with which to carry on its important work. He called attention to the fact that the society does not receive a cent of assistance from the state and that unless funds in addition to individual subscriptions on which it had to rely, were provided immediately, the society would be obliged to abandon its work on the present scale, secure a smaller and more economical quarters and restrict its operations to the available funds at hand.

Further than this, Mr. Sawyer said that his wife repented even after she filed the divorce complaint. She had come to the house to gather her personal belongings, he said, when they went together into the pantry and a clothes closet three different times and passionately kissed each other. Sawyer believes his wife's parents have made no effort to bring about a reconciliation. The father-in-law, W. B. Hilly, admitted on the witness stand yesterday afternoon that he objected to the wedding, for he thought the couple was not well matched. He said, however, he told his daughter she should endeavor to "get along" with her man after the ceremony had been performed. "I believe in American girls marrying American men—men with some education," continued the parent, with much feeling.

The will of Torquato Tasso Morgan was admitted to probate in the County Court yesterday morning by Judge Webster. Mr. Morgan died in King County, Washington, at the age of 78, leaving property valued at $8000. The estate was divided equally between his two sons, James and Dora V. Morgan, sisters of the deceased. Although the sons are named in the will as the executors of the estate, they will be held, and the court appointed F. McKecher.

Drunkness is the favored form of breaking the law. In all, 68 drunken persons were taken to the City Jail. Although gambling is under the ban, the second largest number of arrests is for gambling and visiting gambling houses. Twenty-nine thieves were arrested, 31 discreet young people, 25 fighters, 15 carriers of concealed weapons, 30 late roomers, 14 users of profanity, two burglars, five mistreaters of animals, one pick-pocket, five housebreakers, six children in saloons, eight swindlers, eight children smoking cigarettes, five unlicensed peddlers, three embezzlers, one robber, 11 runaway children, eight lunatics, one morphine fiend, one cocaine fiend, 41 disorderly persons, one briber, two murderers, one lottery-ticket operator, one opium fiend, 11 who resisted arrest, 10 sick and destitute, 15 sturdy beggars, 70 vagrants, 15 violators of minor ordinances, three owners of vicious dogs, ten saloonkeepers for Sunday opening.

Mr. Brunfield was followed by W. K. Newell, of the State Board of Horticulture, who heartily indorsed the remarks of the packing representative. At the same time Mr. Newell suggested that even better results could be attained through a more general co-operation by the packers with the growers in the interest of the production only of a high-grade quality. J. R. Shepard, of Zena, Fork County, who has dried prunes every year for nearly 30 seasons, took advantage of the opportunity forcibly to express himself on the subject of evaporation of prunes. He did not spare in his words of denunciation the unscrupulously dishonest grower who undertakes to unload onto the market an inferior quality of fruit. Mr. Shepard urged a more intelligent cooperation among the growers in the interest of a stable market and a still greater demand for this crop. H. A. Townsend, of Salem, and other prune culturists added their indorsement to the expressions advocated by the other speakers.

Beginning today and continuing until Friday the annual convention of the Northwest Fruit-growers' Association will be held in the Woodmen Hall. Prominent horticulturists from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia are in the city to participate in the three days' session programme, which will be as follows:
