DEFEAT BY GAMERON

Says No Undue Influence Was Used Against Martin.

FILES THREE AFFIDAVITS

District Attorney Uses Sworn Statements to Refute Contentions of Counsel for Defendant in Murder Case.

In contesting the motion of Edward High Martin's attorneys for a new trial, District Attorney Cameron filed in the Circuit Court yesterday three affidavits which go to show that no undue influence was used upon the Martin jury to cause it to render a verdict for the state. Deputy District Attorney J. J. Fitzgerald admits in his affidavit that he used the language which C. O. Anderson attributed to him in the latter's affidavit, but says it was in reply to an unwarranted prejudicial statement made by Attorney John A. Jeffrey in his argument before the jury.

Mr. Fitzgerald remarked to the jury that he believed sincerely in Martin's guilt, and that the murderer should be convicted. Mr. Jeffrey had said: "I have no doubt in the honest heart of my friend Fitzgerald, that relieved of the burden of his office, he feels amazed, gentlemen of the jury, to be here today asking you to find a verdict of guilty of anything against a fellowman under the rule of the criminal law, on the basis of testimony which we have in this case."

Rogaway, of the Circuit Court, and the latter indorsed the check to Phil Rogaway, and Phil Rogaway cashed the check at the Portland bank, being credited with the $500. Declines to Dissolve Band Company

Although asked in the complaint of J. E. Gilstrap to dissolve the Woodstock Band Company, Judge Bronaugh declined to do so. In the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon, where he decided the case which Gilstrap brought against George Hamond, C. F. Spaulding and Andrew Petrie. The court ordered the cancellation, however, of 15 shares of stock in the company issued to Spaulding; holding, with the plaintiff, that they are not valid. Besides a question of the band company Gilstrap asked that all the contracts and leases entered into by the board of directors, as well as other acts which he alleged were done at an illegal meeting, be set aside, and that he be awarded $175 which he said was due him as rent for his building. The court rendered a verdict for the defendants. Gilstrap was a member of the band company, but contended in his suit that other members did not play fair.

WHY is our store the most practical place for you to trade? BECAUSE we consider your satisfaction before we look for our profit. WHY is this the safest place for you to buy? BECAUSE we have no last year's styles on hand; all our goods are new each season and the quality and the price we guarantee will suit you or we buy the goods back.
