Johnson's confossion, made in the Multnomah County Jail, and signed by Johnson, was read by Deputy Sheriff Leonard, of Portland. In this confession, Johnson told how he and Perdue had quarreled on the early morning of July 4, and that Perdeu had called Johnson a vile name and had told him that he would kill him. Anderson, of Beilingham, also proved a strong player at guard, while Captain Horn, of the visiting team, proved an excellent defense player, but was weak on tossing baskets both from the floor as well as from fouls. Hartman and Young each tossed five goals, while the former scored nine out of ten fouls.
