IK Marvel Dies at Home. Author of Reveries of a Bachelor and Dr. Johns.

Long Life Filled With Sentiment of His Greatest Work Comes to Close at Edgewood.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 15.—Donald Grant Mitchell (Ik Marvel) died at his home in Edgewood tonight.

Donald Grant Mitchell, known to a legion of sympathetic readers as Ik Marvel, author of 'Reveries of a Bachelor,' was born at Norwich, Conn., April 22, 1822.

Mitchell's life was peculiarly fitted with the quiet sentiment found in his best-known work despite busy years spent in traveling abroad in private and public capacities. He made several trips to Europe and was appointed consul to Venice in 1854, when he began collecting material for a history of the Venetian Republic.

He returned in 1855 and established a country home near New Haven, which he called Edgewood and where he passed the remainder of his days engaged in literary work.

Aside from 'Reveries of a Bachelor,' Ik Marvel wrote many other volumes including a novel, 'Dr. Johns.' He also contributed to leading magazines besides serving as a judge of industrial art at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, 1876, and as United States Commissioner at the Paris Exposition of 1878. He was married in 1850 to Mary Pringle of Charleston, S. C.

Death Not Due to Doctors. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—In the trial of In Whan Chang, the Korean accused of the murder of Durham White Stevens, adviser to the government of Korea, today, Dr. Fred H. Zornwald gave expert testimony in regard to the wound received by Stevens. He said that nothing that could have been done would have saved the life of the diplomat. This testimony was produced to forestall the charge of the defense that death was due directly to a careless operation for the removal of the bullet.

Portlanders in Chicago. CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Portland citizens registered at Chicago hotels are: F. C. King, Mrs. C. C. Barker and daughters, Alice and Ada, at the Auditorium; R. M. Gray, Tom Richardson, at the Auditorium Annex; S. P. Strang, at the Brevoort; R. R. Warner, at the Great Northern.

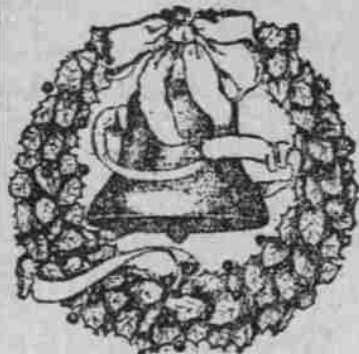

Man and Woman Accused of Importing Women to Chicago. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Henry Lair and Lucine Darville, a French woman who passes as his wife, were arrested in this city today accused of importing and harboring alien women in Chicago. Their bail was fixed at $25,000 each, the greatest sum ever demanded in a similar case in the West. This was done at the request of Federal Attorney Sims, of Chicago, to insure their return to that city, where they are alleged to have been at the head of one of the largest combinations of "white slave" dealers in the United States.

The couple were found in a resort they conducted in Commercial street. They are charged with importing and harboring at 215 Dearborn street, Chicago, an alien woman named Marie Peroux, who has told the Federal officials a story of horrible cruelty.
