

JOE'S SAYS BALL DAYS ARE ENDED

Manager of Chicago White Sox Declares He Will Play No More.

WILL LIVE IN PORTLAND

Famous Player Unwilling to Stay in Game Until He Becomes "Has-been"—Will Enter Business in Oregon.

Fleider A. Jones, erstwhile of Chicago, Ill., but now a full-fledged citizen of Portland, arrived in this city at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and heralded his arrival with the positive announcement that he has retired from baseball for all time.

The famous leader of the Chicago White Sox and the only big league manager who has yet succeeded in developing a team that could beat the Chicago Cubs in a world's championship series, intends to make Portland his future home and devote his time to promoting his business interests in Oregon.

When interviewed last night, Mr. Jones issued the following statement: "It is true that I have quit baseball for good. I have played my last game and shall reside in Portland in the future. I have decided that my interests in Oregon require my entire time and attention, and were I to place another in charge I do not believe that I could handle my interests and play baseball in a manner that would be satisfactory to me, and I have decided that I have played my last game, and I have decided to quit and am well pleased to be able to do so now."

"Yes, you can positively announce for me that I am through with the game and, much as I regret it, the White Sox will have to get a new manager next year."

PAPER CHASE THIS MORNING

Portland Hunt Club Will Hold Annual New Year's Day Run.

The annual New Year's Day run, or open paper chase, of the Portland Hunt Club will be held this morning, when a big field will start from the Clinton Kelly schoolhouse for a cross-country ride over a course of eight miles.

Very shortly after the arrival of Bishop Scadding, this afternoon he was inaugurated as a church in Irvington. Some months ago he invited the Rev. Dr. Van Waters to look over the field and after the latter's retirement from the rectorship of St. David's Church, he placed the matter in his hands Mrs. F. W. Berry immediately offered to give $500. Mrs. Berry has been a communicant and active worker in St. David's Church for 35 years. The late F. W. Berry, her husband, served in the vestry for 25 years and is known for his devotedness to his church and for his spiritual life. It was in memory of her husband and with the condition that Dr. Van Waters should take charge of the work that the offering was made.

A quarter block has been purchased on the southwest corner of East Seventeenth and Weld streets, and a parish house is to be built at once. The church is to be known as Grace Memorial Church. Arrangements are being made for a temporary place of worship to be used during the construction of the parish house. Services will be held every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., beginning with the first Sunday of the New Year.

CRICKETERS MEET RANGERS

New Year Soccer Game on League Baseball Grounds Today.

The New Year association football game will be the sixteenth in the city league series and will start at 2:30 this afternoon at the league baseball grounds, between the Portland Cricketers and the Portland Rangers. On paper the teams look about even. A former game was won by the Cricketers but the Rangers were greatly weakened on that occasion, while the grounds were a miniature swamp. Today's contest, consequently, is expected to be exciting. The line-ups will be:

Cricketers—Clyde Cumming, goal; Jess and Mitchell, backs; Kellow, Robertson and Taylor, halves; Maclean, Bruce, Art Mills (captain), Byes and Teale, forwards. Rangers—Hutchinson and Stewart and Gordon, backs; Walker, McCafferty and Lawrence, halves; Kipcock, Kilo, Stevenson, McEneaney and Quarterman (captain), forwards.

Refer to J. A. Dick. On Saturday the Columbias and O. R. & N. will play.

ONLY MANLY SPORT WANTED

New South Wales Will Taboo "Slugging Matches."

SYDNEY, Dec. 31.—Not desirous of having a reputation like the Pacific Slope of the United States, New South Wales will put the bid on all such prize fighting as the Burns-Johnson contest last Saturday savored of being more brutal and repulsive than scientific. He declared that unless fighting was eliminated boxing here would have to be regarded as an illegitimate sport.

BIG MATCH TOMORROW NIGHT

Multnomah and Y. M. C. A. Basketball Teams Will Meet.

The most interesting basketball game of the season is scheduled to be played at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club gymnasium tomorrow night, January 3, when the basketball five of the Multnomah Club meets the clever players from the Portland Young Men's Christian Association.

During the past several years these rival teams have fought out the city championship as well as the state championship, and thus far the honors are about even as far as victories are concerned. Because of the intense rivalry between the two organizations it has been decided to use two referees in the game. In this way it is hoped to avoid clashes or disputes over decisions and fouls committed by the players.

OREGONS HELD TO EVEN SCORE

Fall to Win From Holcomb's Eleven in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—The Oregon met the Holcomb in basketball here tonight, playing a close game, but with the final score being 29 to 29.

BIG GRIDIRON GAME TODAY

WHITWORTH HERE TO PLAY MULTNOMAH CLUB.

Although Outweighed, Collegians Are Picked as Winners on Season's Record Up to Date.

Full of confidence in their ability to give a good account of themselves against the heavier Multnomah clubmen today, the Whitworth College football players, of Tacoma, arrived in Portland last night and are quartered at the Danmore.

The Whitworth team comprises Coach Arthur Ruser, who will play in the game against Multnomah, and 12 players, all of whom have made fine records in the earlier games of the season. The collegians broke training on November 21, after they had played their last game, and resumed practice for the Multnomah game about ten days ago. They have kept themselves in splendid condition for the match.

Coch Ruser announced that he was praying for a dry field, on which his men believe they would have an advantage. The enviable record made by this team during the season has caused considerable speculation among the clubmen as to the outcome today. On paper it would seem that the collegians have the better of the argument, for they defeated the University of Oregon, which in turn defeated the clubmen.

BARRY NO QUITTER

His Fight With Kauffman Is Proof of His Pluck.

NO SIGN OF YELLOW SEEN

Boxer Was Whipped Fairly, and Has Redeemed Himself in Eyes of Many Who Thought He Lacked Stamina.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—That Jim Barry was whipped fair and square by Al Kauffman last night is the unanimous opinion of local fight fans and sporting authorities. The appellation of "yellow streak" affixed to Barry in the past by some was not borne out in the battle, according to those who viewed the fight from points of vantage. The fact that Barry took punishment for 29 rounds, thereby recording the longest fight in the history of California, when betting was general that he would not last 15 rounds and possibly 10, is taken as evidence of his gameness.

Kauffman, however, has a longer reach and a better punch than Barry. The latter is regarded as a boxer who outclasses Kauffman, and is indicated that last night. With both hands broken and his face and body showing unmistakably evidence of the severe punishment he received, Barry begged to be allowed to continue when the towel was thrown over him.

BURTON TO BE SENATOR

negotiations for a compromise, Wednesday night Taft and Burton, with Ellis and leaders of the forces of both sides, entered into conferences which lasted two hours.

Every detail of withdrawal which was presented, however, had in it the one big obstacle, the turning of the Hamilton County delegation to Burton. None of the conferees could be sure of the attitude of George H. Cox, and a night of much anxiety was passed lest a hitch in the harmony plan come from Cincinnati and blast the result of the whole night's work.

Cincinnati in Line.

Telephonic communication with Cincinnati, begun in the night, was taken up again in the early morning, and the announcement came before 10 o'clock that the Hamilton County delegation to a man would be for Burton, and Burton's nomination speech would be made by Thorne Baker, the one officially selected to present the name of Taft. This settled the whole question; the one stipulation made was that Taft should remain in control of the party organization, and he should be cared for in the organization of the House and Senate.

At the close of the conference, Charles P. Taft issued the following statement: "My candidacy from the beginning seems to have been understood to be a compromise represented as such, and my personal ambition at the expense of Republican success. The implication is unjust, but that is of no moment now. The cause of a long and arduous struggle is now better and more important things."

I have been a sincere and consistent Republican all my life. I have served my party and the people of my community as a member of the Legislature of Ohio and of the Congress of the United States. It was my privilege to be one of those who, nearly 40 years ago, in the General Assembly of this state, stood for the authority of party judgment as formed in public sentiment and expressed in party caucus when John Sherman was sent to the Senate of the United States.

I have long had an ambition to be a Senator from Ohio. I have sought this great honor without reliance upon the popularity or prestige of any other man, and especially without any expectation that my motives would be misinterpreted, or my personal desires would endanger that harmony among Republicans everywhere, which is so essential to the success of the incoming National Administration.

Withdraws for Sake of Harmony.

Conditions have now arisen which impose a higher duty upon me than the gratification of any personal ambition. It is clear that a prolonged contest for the Senatorship would divide the Republican party of Ohio, and I am not willing to be in any way responsible for such division. Although it does not appear at present that any candidate has enough votes to win the nomination, and though many of my friends insist that I can and will be elected, I put these considerations aside to meet my obligations. I withdraw as a candidate for Senator and with grateful appreciation release my friends from further effort in my behalf. I will resume my place in the councils of the Republican party and give to its welfare and to the splendid policies for which it stands the same service and devotion which have been the great privilege and pride of my life.

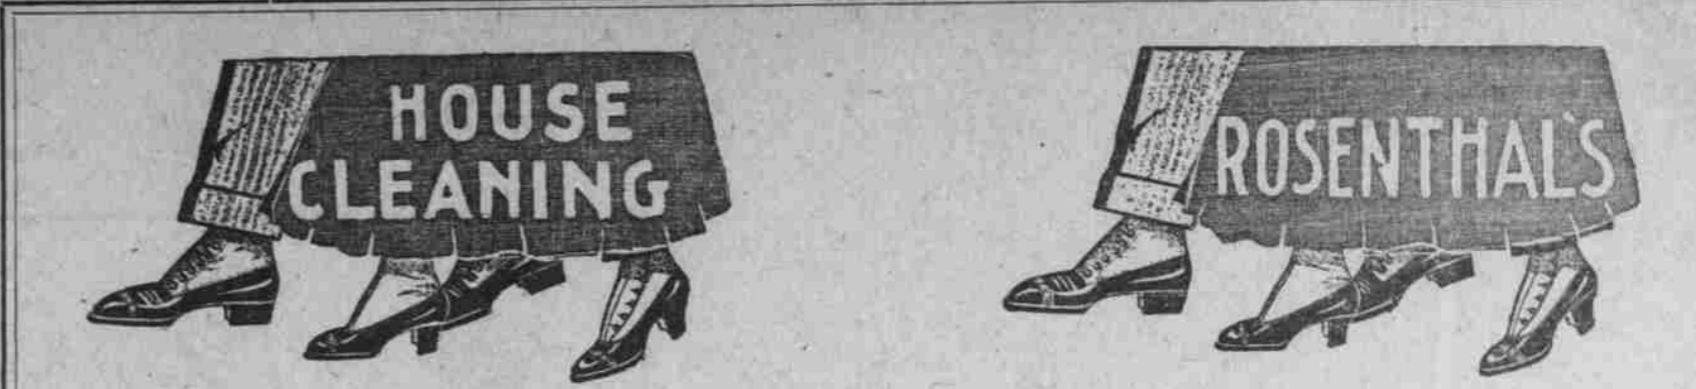

A conference between Burton, Walter Brown, Congressman Paul Howland, Maurice Maschke, Burton's man of Cleveland, and others began at Burton's quarters at once, and lasted all morning and part of the afternoon. The general plan was to give the bigger places in both houses to Burton's people and the lesser places to the Taft men.

Foraker Fires Shot.

That Foraker would withdraw was known in political circles almost as soon as the Taft withdrawal statement was made, and the noon statement of the senior Senator in which he flayed the state machine and praised Burton, brought surprise. The statement ran:

Foraker Digs at Taft.

The withdrawal of Mr. Taft simplifies the situation. Under all the circumstances I would have been glad to have been re-elected, but inasmuch as that seems impossible, it is a great disappointment to me. I have myself in the result that has been reached. If nothing more had been accomplished, a lesson of lasting value has been taught in the demonstration that a party organization is powerful only when it unifies itself to its legitimate business and duties as the agency and representative of the whole party, and that it loses its force and power when it becomes a personal asset of an individual.

My friends who have so loyally stood by me during this trying contest. The recollection of their zeal and fidelity while struggling under such disadvantages will always be cherished and appreciated.

The result of the plans which followed the so-called compromise last night, resulting in the withdrawal of Taft and the knowledge that the Hamilton County delegation could be counted on, means that Taft will likely remain at the head of the state organization, and that he may try for the Senatorship two years hence. It means also, it is claimed, that the state Republican organization, which seemed totter in the recent efforts to beat Burton, is to be entrenched and reinforced, unless plans fail. Meantime, Foraker was conferring with his lieutenants, and Harris and Keifer had already withdrawn from the fight. Reed and Harding were holding off for developments.

Matters of organization of the House and Senate are still the subjects of discussion between the Burton and Taft forces. It was definitely decided that the Senatorial caucus is to be held Saturday, January 2. At Akron Senator Charles Dick refused to discuss the withdrawal of Taft and Foraker. Dick has been silent on the present contest from the first.

It has been the invariable rule in Ohio politics that the northern and southern ends of the state should alternate in the naming of Senators. As both Mr. Burton and Mr. Dick are from the north, it is said the Senatorship will go to a southern man in 1911. Many believe that Mr. Taft will renew his candidacy at that time. Senator Foraker's friends believe that he, too, will make the race two years hence.
