MORE VOLUME THAN EVER

Every Sawmill Near Cottage Grove Taxed to Full Capacity.

COTTAGE GROVE, Or., Jan. 3 .- (Special.)-Business activity is again in swing. Every sawmill is running at the Alca plant, belonging to J. H. Chambers. This has recently been sold to Stocks Bros., Harlow & Hankins. This firm owns a large tract of choice timber in the Rowe River district, and will begin immediately to move this plant and cut its timber. Orders for various kinds of lumber are coming in so rapidly that the mills cannot fill them. The lumber companies will not tie up with large future orders, though as prices are gradually advancing.

The Oregon & Southeastern Railroad, running 20 miles east of here, is taxed to its full capacity in handling the enormous traffic. On this line most of the milis are located. The railroad an-nounces it will increase its locomotive power in order to handle the increase of business. Even after the San Fran-cisco fire, the volume of business was not as great as now.

The West Coast Mines Company, formerly the Oregon Securities Company, has its mill again in operation, and it is said to be getting valuable ore.

SEES NO GOOD IN PROPOSED HIGH SCHOOL INSPECTION.

State Superintendent Believes Rural Schools Need Strengthening. Objects to Smith Scheme.

SALEM. Or., Jan. 3.—(Special.)—Be-lieving that the rural schools are most urgently in need of attention and strengthening at the present time. Superintendent of Public Instruction J. H.
Ackerman has declined to aid in promoting legislation having for its purpose establishment of a system of inspection and uniform examinations in High Schools. This change in High School management was proposed by Professor Schools. This change in High School management was proposed by Professor Winfield Scott Smith, principal of the Brownsville schools. In a communication published in The Oregonian last Saturday. Professor Smith also set forth his ideas in a letter to Superintendent Ackerman, and urged his cooperation in the movement.

When asked for a statement of his views regarding Professor Smith's plan, as set forth in his communication to The Oregonian, Superintendent Acker-man said that his position is set forth in his reply to Professor Smith, which he gave as his ideas upon the subject. He also remarked that if there are to be uniform examinations, provisions must be made for a board to prepare the questions, examine and grade the the questions, examine and grade the papers, issue pass cards, grant diplomas, etc., all of which work would require the services of competent persons, who must be paid in accordance with their ability. Since Professor Smith's plan contemplates that state authorities shall examine students in all grades shows the seventh the work. all grades above the seventh, the work ld be extensive. There are two movements now on foot

There are two movements now on foot for the creation of the office of High School Inspector. One plan is that the High School Inspector shall be appointed by the State University and shall bring the High Schools of the state to such a standard of work as shall harmonize with the work of the University. The other plan is that the inspector shall be appointed by the State Board of Educaappointed by the State Board of Educa-tion and shall bring the High Schools to such a standrad as the Board may deem such a standrad as the Board may deem best for the students, without regard to the question whether they will ever be-come students at the University or not. One plan views the High School as a preparatory institution for the Univer-sity; the other views it as an independent educational institution whose course and work should be made to fit the needs of work should be made to ht the heeds of students who will never go beyond it. The latter plan is based upon the theory that the University should take the stu-dents where the High School leaves them, regardless of whether the course

A PRESCRIPTION TALK.

There is a custom among many retail druggists, which has been in existence for years, of furnishing prescription blanks to physicians bearing the of some particular druggist and his address, with the object and hope that when the prescription is written the pa-tient or party to whom it is handed will by reason of the printed card of the druggist, seek out that particular store and have it filled, all of which sounds like a bit of cheap and desirable adver-tising to which the physician furnishes his name and the druggist the trivial amount required for the prescription blank. All of this, however, takes no note of the disposition on the part of most people to buy their drugs and have their prescriptions filled where they their prescriptions filled where they please, and many more who resent any implied attempt on the part of their physician or anyone else to direct them to any one store.

They have a well-grounded dislike for any coercion, open or implied, and perhaps back of it there is a little suspicion that the druggist who is advertised by that the druggist who is advertised by the legend which says, "Take this to John Smith, Druggist," or whoever it may be, is perhaps receiving some little concession or consideration, and so the patient straightway goes to some other store of his own liking.

store of his own liking.

We have always regarded this form of advertising or business-getting as not only questionable, but really undesirable in every way. It injures the physician with the patient and it injures the druggist with the public. We furnish many thousand prescription blanks to physicians and prescription blanks to physicians. cians, and are glad to do so. It is a couriesy which costs but little, but without our card. It has always seemed to us that there were other and better ways to secure the paironage of that great host of people who are seeking relief for heir bodily ills.

Our store, the character of its service, the quality of its drugs, the reasonableness of its prices; these, and a thousand other good reasons, coupled with consistent, liberal, enterprising newspaper advertising, has accomplished more by far than the indirect and uncertain method outlined above. That our view is a correct one we believe is evidenced by the fact that we fill more prescription. tions than any retail drugstore on the Pacific Coast, and as many as the largest drugstores in Chicago, Boston or New York.
