Park Board Will Take Definite Action Monday Afternoon Toward Purchasing New Sites.

Options to the aggregate of $141,000 or property on Mount Tabor were secured by the City Park Board, at a special meeting held yesterday afternoon. This is believed to represent about one-half of the land in that tract desired for the purposes of parks and reservoirs. The acreage involved is indefinite, and will not be known until checked over by the Board. Another special session will be held Monday afternoon, at which further action will be taken. It is certain that at least a portion of the property will be recommended for purchase.

An offer for the sale of 18 acres of ground lying just west of the present City Park was made by D. E. Keasy for the Western Overon Trust Commany, the Western Oregon Trust Company, the price being $100,000. Twelve acres in the same tract were offered at a price of $61,000. This matter will receive special attention, as it is the desire of the mem-bers of the Board to enlarge the City Park, it being the most valuable in the city at this time, and very crowded in the Summer season. The Park Board was in session for rearly three hours, with Dr. J. R. Wilson presiding. Sixteen people, representing various tracts of land, were on hand to state the prices desired by the owners. There were also several offers by mail, but no options were to be had on these, at the marking part Monday the Board.

BRIEF VISIT IN PORTLAND

Chicago Athlete Discusses Mat Contest in Which He Figured as Mysterious Substitute for Jack Peterson.

BY ERNEST MOAFFEY The ancient and honorable game of wrestling received a slight though not fatal joit in the match held here Thursday night, but investigation reveals that the substitution of LaSalle for "Peterwas in the nature of a "hurry-up"

A talk with Mr. LaSalle, who left in the afternoon for sunnier climes further south was refreshing. According to this gentle-man he received II hours' notice from M. J. Dwyer, of Chicago, to proceed to Port-land and wrestle O'Connell under the name of "Peterson." In explanation of name of "Peterson." In explanation of this, according to LaSallo, Dwyer told him the real Peterson had acquired a bad case of blood-poisoning in a recent bout, and was unavailable for mat purposes. Hence the advent of LaSalle, and hence the fluttering among the athletic dovectors.

Mr. LaSalle was inclined to be caustic in his reminiscence. "Dwyer told me I could throw this local man every ten minutes," he said. "I came on, and found a man who knows the game from A to Z. I did my best, but wasn't in condi-

A man who knows the game from A to Z. I did my best, but wasn't in condition. The laugh is on me. This man can throw the real Peterson, and he can throw Dwyer. The man I came on with, Charles Hackenschmidt, can handle him, though. He is bigger, of course, and heavier, and he beat Frank Gotch to a full is Kansa Chr. full in Kansas City.

Admitted He Was La Salle.

"I told the promoters, when they suspected my identity, that my name was O'Connell before the match.

Mr. O'Connell says that LaSalle told bim after the match. The promoters were whee in declaring all bets off, and, ac-cording to ringside accounts, the public got a lively rue for its money, and a good stiff match varieties.

Mr. LaSalle regretted the publicity, and the discovery of his name. He opined these things were not good for the game. LaSalle asserted very strongly that he was a total stranger to all parties concerned, that he had been steered up against the "real thing," instead of a piece of "easy money," and he was entirely of the opinion that the matter of his appearing as an understudy in the role was solely the result of a disposition to oblige, and because of the injury to the bona fide Peterson.

Mr. O'Connell told a perfectly frank and straightforward story. He was matched to meet Charles Peterson, and the appearance of a dark-eyed, dark-haired "Swede" as his opponent was something in the nature of a decided racial surprise. It didn't seem "the goods;" it looked fishy. He taxed the importation, and was told, after the match was over, the truth. He did not wish to appear reluctant to wrestle, the crowd was there, and after the public was fully informed, and all bets were deciared "off," he went in and won.

O'Connell regretted the attempt to "introduces" a substitute. O'Connell regretted the attempt to "in-troduce" a substitute.

Changes Bad for Game.

Thanges of this kind, even when made to "fill in." to avoid disappointing an audience, are had for the game. Time was when the wrestling game was as bad as country foot-races. Clean sport in this line will always be popular, and no pains should be spared to make and keep it so. It is true that the public may be over-suspicious, as well as overmay be over-suspicious, as well as over-credulous, but square wrestling matches are quite peesible. When Evan Lewis, with his feroclous "strangle hold," pounced on the little Japanese, Matsada Sorakichi, in Chicago, and broke his arm, it was on the square, the saplent Ori-ental sacrificing an arm to save his neck. When Frank Gotch, the husky "corn-husker," wallowed and mailed the "Russian Lion," George Hackenschmidt, all over the Chicago Athletic Club mat, denuding the aforesaid "Lion's" man-and tail of much plumage, it was a "corker" of a set-to, and strictly on the "corker" of a set-to, and strictly on the level. The lion, it may be added, true to his jungle instincts, fied to the wilds of London, and emitted roars that sound-ed like distant thunder. From the day of Andres Christol, the "demon," Edwin Elibor down to "Pack" Carkeek, "Farm-ser" Burns. Even Lewis, Fred Beel, Jen-kins, Gotch and George Hackenschmidt with "terrible" Turks, "awful" Japs, and "Hors" and "tigers" of all nationalities in the game, it has been popular.

The local promoters declare they acted in absolute good faith, and they show a telegram from Dwyer which reads as fol-

Want Man of Equal Weight. Local sportsmen and the promoters here of the wrestling game, believe it is time O'Connell was sent against a man of his own weight. He has in all his of his own weight. He has in all his late matches been handicapped by great everweight in his opponents. A good man, however scienced, gets thred of lugging many pounds of overweight around on the wrestling mat. It forces him too much on the defensive, and gives him no opportunity to show constant aggressiveness. The local men despectation the "substitution" and point to stant aggressiveness. The local men de-precate the "substitution," and point to the felegram, and the constant announce-ment of Peterson, and his description as a blends, in proof of their good faith. It would seem to be up to Mr. Dwyer grace-fully (if possible) to accept the honor of "goat" in the matter. Let us have a new deal, and the "real goods," or let the game go to the athletic "scrap-heap." Let us have no repetition of announce-ment and preparation, anxiety and antiment and preparation, anxiety and anti-cipation on the part of the sporting pub-lic, and then flascos that give the sport

If not, let us take to heart the Gilbertian warning: "All went well until one day Came a strange fish up the bay,"

Roller Wants O'Connell and Franklin to Wrestle.

POSTS $250 AS FORFEIT

O'Connell Is Willing, but Says Ho Fears Man With Whom Money Is Put Up Is Not Neutral and Reviews Talk of Challenge.

Dr. B. F. Roller, of Seattle, has writbr. B. F. Roller, of Scattle, has written the sporting editor of The Oregonian a letter concerning a proposed match between Charles Franklin, of Scattle, and Edward O'Connell, of the Multnomah Club, Portland, of which the following are the salient extracts:

Club, Portland, of which the following are the salient extracts:

I am sending to Dr. Wylle G. Woodruff a draft for $250 as a forfeit and part of a shie-bet of $1006 to bind a match between O'Connell and Charles Franklin, of this city. A sporting man wrote for O'Connell and if I am not mistaken, O'Connell wrote for himself to a paper here that they would bet $1000 that Franklin could not throw O'Connell five times in an hour, and I am taking up that effer for Franklin. Their proposition was to send the money to one of the evening papers or a certain bank in Fortland, which I do not know. I do not care to trust my money with his friends, but I am willing to take Dr. Woodruff as stakeholder and referee. As they accepted him once before, I suppose they will have no objection to him now if they mean to be fair. I want only a square deal, but that much I inist on. Now, O'Connell has been doing a lot of talking down there, but he showed that he had no desire to wrestle for real money when he talled to take up my offer to throw him 30 times in an hour when he knew that my money was posted with Woodruff. He is now making excuses that he did not know that my money was posted with Woodruff. He is now making excuses that he did not know that my money was there till it was sent back.

Now I think it is time for Portland to the him wrestle of get out.

Now I think it is time for Portland to Now I think it is time for Portland to make him wrestle or got out.

I am offering to wager $1000 that Charles Franklin can threw O'Connell five times in an hour, catch as catch can, Police Gazette rules straight, with Woodruff as referee. My money is sent ($250) to bind the match, and I sincerely hope that the match can be arranged.

B. F. BOLLER.

A talk with O'Connell showed an entire willingness on his part to "hook up" with either Franklin or Dr. Roller, provided the match was to be on a wrestling-mat, and not on letter-heads. O'Connell points out that in 200 matches he has been beaten but seven times, afterwards beating four of these seven men; that he was a chainpion wrestler at Yale College when Dr. Roller was wrestling with propositions in Euclid at another Eastern University; that Dr. Roller has wrestled about one-tenth as many matches as O'Connell; that Roller's modest proposition to throw him. O'Conmodest proposition to throw him, O'Con-nell, 30 times in an hour is interesting. if true; that he cannot come too quick with such a proposal, provided he backs it up with eash, not classer; that menov, and not conversation, talks in wrestling contests; that he also insists on a square deal and wants a certified check, or the deal and wants a certified check, or the money, put up with any bank in Portland, or with any newspaper in Portland. Dr. Roiler's proposal that his friend. Dr. Woedruff, shall be stakeholder and referee sounds peculiar to O'Connell, for he thinks referees are supposed to be neutral. Dr. Roiler weighs 220 pounds. He has done some wrestling and presumably he will have to "go some" to throw a man like O'Connell, even though the latter weighs only 145 pounds. 30 times in an hour.

MAJORITY OF NAMES START EARLY IN ALPHABET.

Only One Smith in Lower House This Year-No Name Beyond This-Two Rolls Compared.

SALEM, Or., Jan. S .- (Special.) -- Abbott and Altman, of Multnomah, and Applegate, of Douglas, will be at the head of the roll call in the House of Representatives at the coming session of the Barrett, Beals, of Tillamook, and Bean, of Lane, will come next in order. While the order of the roll call is not necessarily of im-portance, it is, in fact, for the members near the head of the list have more near the head of the hat have more influence than those further down. A few negative votes early in the roll call will frequently cause members who are in doubt to vote in the negative also when they would vote in the affirmative if the early voting indicated that the measure under consideration had little opposition. The Senate roll call will be headed by Abraham, of Douglas, followed by Albee and Balley, of Multno-

One of the noticeable features of the roll call is that the names of 52 of the Representatives begin with a letter in the first half of the alphabet, while only eight of the Representatives have names beginning with letters in the last haif. The last name on the House roll call is Smith and there is only one Smith in the House, whereas it was formerly common to have four or five Smiths in that body The roll call is strong evidence that under the direct primary system men whose names appear high up on the ballot have the best chance of winning.

There are 13 Hepresentatives whose names begin with "B." names begin with "B."

In the Senate 20 members have names beginning with letters in the first half of the alphabet, while 10 have names beginning with letters in the last half. Under normal conditions if might be expected that about two-thirds of the members would have names beginning with letters in the first half of the alphabet, for about that proportion of names in general so begin. There are fewer candidates for the Senate than for the general so begin. There are fewer additates for the Senate than for the House, so that place on the ballot had much less influence in Senatorial con-tests than in contests for seats in the

In the Legislature of 1981, before the direct primary system of nominations was adopted, $$ members of the House had names beginning with letters in the first half of the alphabet and 22 had names beginning with letters in the last hatf. There is only one man whose nam begins with "S" in the House in 180 begins with S in the House of and none following him. In the House of 1961 there were Schumann, Shipley, Simpson, Smith of Marion, Smith of Umatilla, Story, Stewart, Talbert, Thompson, Thomson, Vincent, Watson and Whitney, The Senate of 1961 had three members whose names came later in the alphabet than "S," while the Senate of 1909 has but one.

The House of 1809 contained 37 mem-bers whose names commenced with let-ters in the first half of the alphabet and 23 whose names commenced with letters in the last half. There were in that House Sherwin, Smith, Stanley, Stewart Stillman, Stillmp, Thompson of Clacka-mas, Thompson of Washington, Topping, Virtue, Whalley, Whitney, Williamson, Wonacott and Young. In the Senate that year were 12 men whose names be-gan with letters in the first half of the alphabet and eight whose names began with letters in the last half.

A comparison of records seems to prove quite clearly that the direct primary law has established a sort of disqualification for any office to which there are a large number of aspirants. That is, that a man whose name begins with one of the latter letters of the alphabet has a tremendous handleap in the rates. Courts Allow $4000 to Owners and Sailors of Geo. W. Elder.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this nonalcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.
