

COUNCIL RIDES MILLION DOLLARS

Annual Appropriation of Funds Is Made for Various City Departments.

THIRTY MORE PATROLMEN

Chief's Request for Additional Detectives Denied—Provision for Increase of Fire Department. Other Funds Unaltered.

ACTION OF COUNCIL ON APPROPRIATIONS.

Total appropriation for all departments, $1,061,000. All departments but fire and police went through as recommended by the ways and means committee. The fire department fund is so apportioned as to buy lots and erect engine-houses at Mount Tabor and North Albina; to erect houses at Fourteenth and Montgomery streets and near the hospital, to build the East side station. The salary of the superintendent of the women's auxiliary was fixed at $150 a month, after a fight.

Councilman Cellars made a spirited attack on Mayor Lane and the administration police officials yesterday afternoon, when the appropriation ordinance for the Police Department was under consideration. He opposed the item allowing three additional detectives, saying that it is bad business to ask for more men when there are four not working, but drawing pay. He referred to Day, Carpenter, Rosting and Snow, who were discharged illegally and who are to be paid for two and one-half years of service which they have not performed because they were not allowed to work. He won his fight, and the quota of detectives remains as at present. He attempted to cut the number of patrolmen from 130 to 120, but failed. The Council adopting the committee report on this and all other points, excepting the salary of Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, which was fixed at $150 a month, as formerly. It was set at $115 by the committee.

Mrs. Baldwin's Friends Rally.

The other department appropriations went through without a hitch. There was less debating than usual, but although there was much discussion over police and fire funds. Mrs. Baldwin's salary created more than ordinary excitement. She received a $1000 stipend, and many friends came to her support, both in and out of the Council, so that she won her fight without any trouble at all. One of the best of the city's citizens was ex-director Attorney John Manning, who appeared before the Council and declared her to be one of the very best officials Multnomah has ever had. He said she is highly qualified for the particular line of work to which she is assigned, and that he would resign from the Council before he would vote to cut her salary, were he a member.

No More Detectives Provided.

The next item on the list was the number of detectives recommended, which brought Mr. Cellars to his feet at once. He said he could not understand why those men were asked for, in view of the fact that the city is now paying four detectives, said by Mayor Lane to be worthless, but who are holding excellent positions at good wages elsewhere, drawing pay from the city and doing nothing for the city. What business firm or corporation would carry three detectives but three discharging them? Why engage three more detectives when the city has four doing nothing but drawing their salary? He was unable to see the point in such action.

HISTORIC FLAG RAISED FROM TENTH STORY OF MEIER & FRANK BUILDING.

GREAT CROWD WATCHED WORKMEN HOIST THE FLAGPOLE INTO PLACE FROM THE GROUND YESTERDAY.

An American flag was raised over the new Meier & Frank building at the southeast corner of Sixth and Alder streets yesterday, and this particular banner has a varied and romantic history. It was first flown to the breeze at Arellito, Porto Rico, on July 4, 1902. On May 7, 1902, it was raised at the same place, and it was elevated over the Bayard building, Spring street and Broadway, New York. Subsequently it was flown over the New Amsterdam Theater, the Hotel Bristol, and the Hippodrome, all in New York City. In the years 1903, 1904 and 1905, it was flown up at the Chalmette docks in New Orleans. At San Francisco, over the first class "A" building begun and completed after the earthquake in 1907, and called the Sherman-Clay building, this flag was once more unfurled. Again at San Francisco it was displayed over the roof of the Metropolitan Hotel, and on the arrival of the fleet in San Francisco it was again unfurled.

The flagpole was also raised from the ground yesterday and set in place in the tenth story of the building. A large crowd watched the workmen as they hoisted it by derrick from the street.

type of man he is. Tall, broad-shouldered and erect, looking very much younger than his birthdays date. He is the embodiment of strength, activity and mental poise. He was just about to enter his automobile when seen, but for a few minutes' time gave his views on the Northwest and explained the object of his visit to Portland.

Portland as Model City.

"I like Portland. I was told long ago that it was a beautiful city, and had formed a sort of idea of the city. But it had heard and read of the city. But it is more beautiful than the idea; more of the model city than I had dreamed of. I have met a number of very delightful people here in Portland, and my short stay here has been made extremely pleasant for me by the courtesy and hospitality of my entertainers.

"In my own City of Philadelphia, I presume civic conditions are about the same as in other large cities. Waves of genuine reform rise and subside, corruption in municipal government is attacked sharply, and then public interest may wane. Eternal vigilance is the price of good government. Mayor Weaver, elected on one of the reform crusades, was a member of my church. He made a good Mayor up to the time he lost control of his temper. That was an error which his enemies took advantage of. Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

Dr. Conwell expressed himself as charmed by the scenery of the great Northwest, and he prophesied a good land in time would be a marvel compared to which the present city would be nothing.

Can Be Another Chicago.

"I have seen all the cities in the Northwest, and Portland is the greatest by far of any of them," he continued. "Portland can be another Chicago if she desires to be. What has impressed me most in my stay here, brief as that stay is, has been the lesson of wasted opportunity. The entire Northwest is a history of wasted opportunities, and it is right here that the lesson is striking to a degree. Think of rafting timber out to the coast. Why, that is to sacrifice nearly 50 per cent of the possibilities of the product.

"Manufactories, and then more manufactures are needed. The chances are unlimited. Paper manufactures, furniture manufactures, pulp manufactures, paper-box mills, tanneries, woodenware manufactures—the list is a long one, and their absence spells unlimited waste of wealth to Portland and the state.

"Why should the lumbermen pack and ship their yield in the large boxes they for prices in Philadelphia. The shippers ought to pack them in the small, glass-covered boxes which the Eastern purchaser pays for. The prunegrowers get about 4 cents a pound for their yield. They are letting the profits slip away from them by not having manufactures to dispose of their crop.

Great Opportunities Open.

"It is the same in many other branches. And think of the water power going to waste that could run manufactures cheaply. Millions of tons of horsepower are going out to sea every year. The Northwest is the millennium of apparent opportunity and the Nirvana of neglected chances. Here is the last of the timber. I saw today the Forestry building of the former fair, at the Exposition grounds. A magnificent sight; a veritable timbered Parthenon. Imagine having a fortune into one of your splendid rivers and rafting it away for a mere song. It is incredible to think that this has been going on for so many years.

"The greatest field for manufacturing in the world—that is what the Northwest is, and Portland is her natural center."

"I am always glad to meet a newspaper man," remarked Dr. Conwell, "for I was a member of the craft myself once for a long time in the city of Boston. It was when I was quite a young man, and I regard the experience as one of the most valuable experiences I have ever had. It is a time when the world is young, and I stood me in good stead ever since. When I began the practice of the law, it was of great benefit to me, and with a lecture in the matter of the University at Philadelphia, my professional training was of immense practical advantage."

Dr. Conwell's lecture at the White Temple was attended by an audience that filled the church. His address was listened to with rapt attention, and applause was frequent and unintermittent. Dr. Conwell has a lecture been heard in Portland so charged with wisdom and so vital with telling points. It was in itself a liberal education in the matter of grouping the advantages which men possess in this country, and showing how those advantages could be grasped by every man. Dr. Conwell was introduced by Dr. Brougher, who paid an eloquent tribute to his friend.

Umatilla Reef Lightship Adrift.

Notification was received last night by headquarters of the thirteenth lightship district, in Portland, that Umatilla Reef lightship, No. 67, had gone adrift yesterday. It is supposed that the lightship made Port Angeles, Wash., as she has power. The lightship inspector announces that she will be replaced as soon as possible, probably within a few days. In the meantime there will be no light to mark Umatilla Reef.

GLASSES UNNECESSARY

Eye Strain Relieved by Quitting Coffee.

Many cases of defective vision are caused by the use of coffee. It is said that in Arabia where coffee is used in large quantities, many lose their eyesight at about 50.

A N. J. woman writes to the point concerning eye trouble and coffee. She says: "My son was for years troubled with his eyes. He wore several kinds of glasses without relief. The optician said there was a defect in his eyes which was hard to reach."

"He used to drink coffee, as we all did, and finally quit it and began to use Postum. That was three years ago, he has not had to wear glasses and has had no trouble with his eyes since."

"I was always fond of tea and coffee and finally became so nervous I could hardly sit still long enough to eat a meal. My heart was in such a condition I thought I might die at any time."

"Medicine did not give me any relief and I was almost desperate. It was about this time we decided to quit coffee and use Postum, and have used it ever since. I am in perfect health. No trouble now with my heart and never felt better in my life."

"Postum has been a great blessing to us all, particularly to my son and myself."

MADISON BRIDGE BONDS ARE SOLD

Council Now Has $450,000 at Its Disposal for New Structure.

CITY PAPER SELLS WELL

Bridge Issue and $250,000 of Water Bonds Go to New York Firm for Premium Over 2 Per Cent.

COUNCIL WILL MEET TODAY.

The City Council was in session all yesterday, and at 5 o'clock adjourned to meet at 9:30 o'clock this morning. There is the largest list of business on record in the history of Portland. It will require the entire day to dispose of it, and if there is much debate, it will not be completed by night. The department appropriations for the year occupied several hours yesterday, and little else was done.

The Madison-street bridge bonds, to the amount of $450,000, having 25 years of life and bearing 4 per cent interest, together with water bonds in the sum of $250,000, were sold by the ways and means committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon to O'Connor & Kahler, of New York. The local agent is the United States National Bank.

The bonds brought a premium of a shade more than 2 per cent, which is considered an excellent price. Now that the money is available for the construction of the Madison-street bridge, it is believed that the city officials will soon take further steps toward the consummation of the plan, which was authorized by a vote of the people, the bridge badly needed, the old one being so badly worn that it is virtually beyond use. It has been closed to traffic since the recent storm, and has been in danger of collapse on several occasions.

Street Bonds Ordered Sold.

The Council ordered the sale of $250,000 worth of street improvement bonds, the issue over which the ways and means committee deadlocked last Monday afternoon. The bonds were ordered sold to the highest bidder. They are the regular ten-year, 4 per cent bond. There were many offers, but the premiums are little more than par and accrued interest.

The Council passed a measure which is said by City Attorney Kavanaugh to simplify matters regarding referendum petitions with relation to city ordinances. Thirty days are allowed in which to file such petitions after the passage of an ordinance. A majority vote of the Council is all that is necessary to pass ordinances under this plan, and it is unnecessary to have the signature of the Mayor in emergency cases, as two-thirds of the members can pass such measures over his veto.

May Appeal Nottingham Case.

Mr. Kavanaugh asked the Council for permission to appeal the case of C. W. Nottingham against the city, which was decided against the city in the Circuit Court recently. It was held that a framed building can be maintained in the fire limits, and Mr. Kavanaugh told the Council he believes the decision is untenable, and that the Supreme Court will reverse the lower court. Mr. Nottingham, who is a member of the Legislature, built a frame building in defiance of the orders of Building Inspector Dobson, on the ground that the Council had granted a special permit.

The Portland Lodge of Elks petitioned the Council for the use of the Arch of Welcome, located at Sixth and Irving streets. They want to decorate it and make it a feature of their welcome to the Grand Lodge delegates, who will pass through Portland for

THE WEBER

The distinctive tone of the Weber piano has for over fifty years been recognized as the world's musical standard.

Founded on the highest tone ideals, the Weber today is the culmination of over half a century's loyalty to the best ideals of pianoforte construction, fifty years of growth, of experience and progress.

The Weber piano is the acknowledged prototype of tone, construction and durability—without a superior either in the United States or Europe—the instrument honored by monarchs abroad and dignitaries at home—the piano that graces the home of hundreds of the world's most artistic musicians and music-lovers.

The arch has been a bone of contention since it was built, and has never been accepted by the Executive Board. It was to have been completed in time for the Rose Festival last June, but was not finished until later.

GIANT CARD PARTY HELD

FUNCTION GIVEN BY FEDERATED WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Funds Realized Will Be Added to Treasury of Scholarship Loan Fund for Young Women.

The most gigantic card party ever planned in Portland was given yesterday afternoon by the Federated Women's Clubs of the city, to increase the amount in the treasury of the scholarship loan fund. The card party was held at the Masonic Temple, at West Park and Yamhill streets, the rooms of which were attractively decorated, and thronged with a gay assemblage, many out-of-Portland guests being present. Between 500 and 600 tickets were sold, and tables at cards were engaged by all the women's clubs of the city. The presidents of the various clubs acted as patronesses, assisted by Mrs. Frederick Egger, who has been recently appointed by the state president of the Federation to succeed the late Miss Helen Spalding as chairman of the scholarship loan fund.

"Five hundred" and bridge whist were the games of the afternoon, with Mrs. E. M. Blumner in charge of the tables and allotment of places.

Mrs. Willis E. Potter, assisted by a bevy of young ladies, was director of the serving committee, and the candy booth, which netted a goodly sum, was in charge of Mrs. George McMillan, assisted by Mrs. Grace Watt Ross and Mrs. Nathan Harris.

Later a splendid programme was given under the management of Mrs. M. A. Dalton and Mrs. Moore, of the Forestry Club, of which Mrs. A. H. Breyman is president. The programme consisted of vocal numbers by Mrs. W. A. T. Rusing and John Chalmers Monteth, with piano selections by Mrs. Charles Stolle and Mrs. Beaumont, a new arrival in musical circles of Portland.

A very substantial addition has been made to the scholarship fund by means of the card party, and a great many people who were not in attendance purchased tickets. This fund will be loaned in small amounts to young women who have not the means to finish their education. The names of the beneficiaries are not made public, but it has already been of material assistance to many women, who would otherwise have been unable to complete their plans for self-help and education.
