"Our Family" by German Dramatic Society.

THE reorganized German Dramatic Society gave its second performance at the Lyric Theater last night in the presence of a representative audience composed largely of German-Americans, although there was a considerable number of students from the High Schools and other local educational institutions present.
The play was a comedy in four acts called "Our Family," being the work of Strindberg and Engles, well-known German playwrights. It was difficult for one who does not know German to understand, yet the acting of the cast was of such a superior order that the mere observer could not but be interested in the lines and situations as they enacted them.
"Our Family" has a well-defined plot of no little interest. The motif of the play is laid on the lines of caste, the story dealing with a young officer, scion of a noble family, who falls in love with and marries a girl of the ballet, much to the disgust of his mother, who resents what she is pleased to believe a mesalliance.
Soon after his marriage the young husband is called away with his regiment to help suppress the Boxer outbreak in China. Later he is reported dead, and in the meantime the wife becomes a mother, the mother-in-law of-

BATTAIN IS GREAT TENOR

Lambardi Singer Heralded by Critics as Equal of Caruso.
For three nights commencing Monday, February 1, the Helig offers to its patrons the Lambardi Grand Opera Company of Milan, Italy, in a repertoire of operas, a different cast for each opera, with a complete scenic production, a symphony orchestra of 30 excellent musicians, a chorus of 40 and 17 of the most distinguished celebrities of the Italian lyric stage.
Of the principals, one bright and particular star is the lyric tenor, Eugenio Battain, whom the San Francisco critics declared to be the equal of Caruso, another Mme. Cecilia Tamanti Zavaroli, coloratura soprano was heard far and wide as the successor of Tetrazzini, and Alessandro Modesti, baritone whom we will hear in "Rigoletto" Wednesday night, one of the papers says is better than any baritone on the New York stage today. So we are to hear grand opera that is grand opera and on a sumptuous scale. Seats are now selling at the theater.

Logger Wants Damages.

As soon as the Van Auker case was decided yesterday morning, a jury before Judge Wolverton began hearing the testimony in a damage suit brought by C. H. Callender, a logger, who is suing the old Oregon Mill Company. The suit is based upon an alleged violation of a logging
