elimination of the caustic comment on President Roosevelt which it originally contained, and is expected to go through the Senate tomorrow. It has been received coldly at Sarramento. The mem-bers of both houses apparently resent any interference with their home affairs. Hills directed against the Japanese, drawn on similar lines, but even more radical in their terms, are before the Nevada Legislature and a determined effort will be made to secure their passage, though it has been intimated that they will not receive executive approval.

Predicts Bills Will Be Killed.

"Judging from the temper of the As-sembly, not one of the four anti-Japanese bills that will come up for final passage tomorrow will go through," said Speaker P. A. Stanton, of Los Angeles, tonight. The members of the lower house—at east a large majority of them—realize the great importance of this proposed legislation and heartily agree with President Roosevelt and Secretary Root, that such measures are unwise. According to figures that I have seen, Mr. Drew's bill, prohibiting all allens owning land, would, if enacted, drive out of California a cool $1,000,000,000 of capital. What we want is to bring more capital in, and not send it away at this tremendous rate.

"I feel confident tonight that the Drew bill will be badly beaten in the end and

KOMURA HAS PEACE MESSAGE

Japanese Foreign Minister Outlines Nation's Policy.

lower House of the Diet today, Foreign Minister Komura outlined the foreign polfeles of Japan in a carefully worded speech delivered before a full and attentive House. The opening sentence gave the keynote of the entire speech, when Count Komura said:

"The foreign policy of this empire should have as an object the maintenance of peace and the development of national resources."

The Foreign Minister dwelt upon the relations between Japan and America at length. He said:

"The friendship of Japan and the Unit-ed States is traditional and it is absolutely essential that both maintain unimpaired those sentiments of amity and extend and strengthen them by every means. Not-withstanding the perfect accord which has always existed regarding the aims of the two countries in the Far East and in the Pacific, it appears that doubts have

With reference to Great Britain he said that events of far-reaching importance in the relations of the two countries with other powers happily and uniformly contributed to the consolidation of the general peace of Eastern Asia, which was one of the principal objects of the agreement. The alliance, he continued, had steadily gained strength and solidity and today stands

The relations of Japan with Russia, he went on were constantly improving in intimacy and both nations were scrupulously observing the spirit and letter of the compact governing their attitude in the Pacific, while the policles of both governments were yielding momentous results.

Bitter Attack by Opposition.

The Fereign Minister's speech was received with applause by the government side of the House, but Count Hattori, an opposition member, immediately began a bitter sensational attack on the foreign policy of the government. He said that Japan had no determined foreign policies and that this was shown by her present attitude toward America, where Japanese were denied an equal opportunity and were even abused by Americans. The recent events, he said, had proved that the cent events, he said, had proved that the anti-Japanese sentiment in America had not subsided. The speaker attacked par-ticularly the recently concluded agreement between Japan and America, saying he believed the Japanese Foreign Office was forced by the American Government to sign the agreement in order to prevent competition by the Japanese on the Pa-diffe Coast. He declared that Japan's dig-nity had been injured thereby and he passionately urged the government to enforce the principle of equal opportunity which alone would solve the question of the alone would solve the question of the rights of Japan in foreign countries. He said that even the President of one country had denied Japanese the right to travel, a right which was theirs by treaty. Count Hattori's speech was greeted by continued cheering by the opposition. Foreign Minister Komura replied with a few words, saying that he had outlined the fixed policy of his government and that he had nothing to add and nothing to retract.

Commissioner Smith Declares Nation Must Cease to Prohibit Combinations.

REGULATION

Irresistible Movement to Concentration Can Be Controlled-Trusts Readily Give Information and the Public Demands It,

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith, of the Bureau of Corporations, today submitted to Secretary Straus, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the annual report of the operations of his bureau for the year ended June 30, 1908. In all respects, it is the most important report yet submitted by the Bureau of Corporations. The work of the Bureau during the last fiscal year was more varied than during any similar period since the establishment of the Department of Commerce and Labor. During the year Commerce and Labor. During the year Commissioner Smith directed investiga-tions of many important industries and tions of many important industries and he now has on hand as current work, inquiries into the tobacco industry, steel industry, International Harvester Company, lumber industry, cotton exchanges, and water transportation.

The most important legal work of the Bureau in the last fiscal year was in connection with a bill for the amendment of the Sherman law. A large amount of work also was done in aiding the Department of Justice in the preparation for trial of cases against the preparation for trial of cases against the Standard Oil Company for alleged practice of discriminations in railway rates.

Must Regulate, Not Prohibit. Discussing the general subject of corporate regulation and control, Commis-sioner Smith says:

porate regulation and control, Commissioner Smith says:

There is an irresistible movement toward concentration in business. We must recognize the fact that industrial concentration is already largely accomplished, in spite of general statutory prohibition. The aim of new legislation should be to regulate, rather than to prohibit combination. It is an obvious absurdity to attempt to de both at the same time, and prohibition has practically falled. Our present law forbidding all combinations, therefore, needs adaptation to the actual facts. If we are to do anything effective with the corporation question, we must make an advance on our present legislation. The practical object is to see that business opportunity and the highways of commerce are kept equally open to all; to prevent fraud, special privilege and unfair competition. To do this, we must recognize concentration, supervise it, and regulate it.

Above all, we must have a system of efficient publicity. This is the strongest reans for our purpose. "Efficient publicity means that sort of publicity which reaches the average citizen under every day conditions. A permanent office, after conclusion, showing important permanent corporate tendencies.

Best Way to Regulate.

Best Way to Regulate Best Way to Regulate.

The control by the Federal Government (of corporations), should be broadened into a general constructive system based on tested principles of supervision, publicity and co-operation. The details of such a system in its main features should be as follows:

It should be operated by the Federal Government.

It should provide for a system of regular reports from the large interstate corporations.

Firally, supervision must be administra-tive. No other method has the necessary which provides a working basis for con-ference and co-operation, and which does not rely merely on criminal procedure and opposition.

Trusts Ready to Help.

The time is ready for such an advance in our corporation policy. There has been, meinly from the work of the present Administration, a remarkable advance in the attitude of the financial leaders of the country. Many of them frankly recognize ministration, a remarkance attained of the country. Many of them frankly recognize that their great commercial powers are largely affected with a public trust. They give substantial aid to the Government in correcting corporate evils. The Bureau receives frequently their requests inviting its ritleism on their business methods. Very few concerns have refused information to the Bureau in its investigations. Most of those called upon have thrown their records open to complete inspection. Some of them have gone to considerable expense in disclosing all possible sources of information. Many corporate managers have found that such co-operation makes for increased public confidence in these companies and their securities. They feel that the giving of reasonable information as to their operations is well repaid by the improved standing thus gained for their companies as concerns with open accounting and equitable methods.

ing thus gained for their companies as concerns with open accounting and equitable methods.

There is not only a change in the attitude of husiness leaders. There is also an aroused and intelligent demand from the public for fair business methods and for equal commercial opportunity for all. The tuture of the Nation must depend largely upon the stability of its business machinery. That machinery caffoot be permanent or successful unless it operates openly and justly. It must place and keep in control of our great commercial forces men who have rison there solely by superior industrial efficiency. It must protect such men from the competition of those who get power by unfair and filegal methods and privileges—practices that rely peculiarly on socrecy. To do this the Government must have such supervision and control of that corporate machinery as will maintain in business the fundamental American ideal of equal opportunity to all.

A LONG LIST OF BUYERS CONTAINS MANY OF YOUR FRIENDS

Read It Over-Over $12,000 Worth of Pianos Sold in Two Days-Selection Still Quite Complete. Come Today.

The clearance sale of used, highest-grade pianos, announced by Eilers Piano House, is attracting attention from far and wide. Nothing can more definitely illustrate the prosperous conditions of the community than the record of piano seiling that is being established by this house at the present time. During the first two days of the sale no less than $12.117 worth of pianos and organs were sold, of which $1271.50 was paid in spot cash.

This is a record scarcely ever equaled heretofore—and as the news of the sale is only just beginning to become known, it is safe to say that during the remaining days of this week the sales will be even greater than Monday and Tuesday. The assortment offered is the greatest ever displayed upon any similar occasion, and, as the firm has under way some plans for extensively emphasizing the ract that it has now been established ten years, particular efforts to have all of the instruments included in this sale out of the way at the earliest possible moment are being made.

To this effect prices have been re-being made.

To this effect prices have been reduced way below anything ever offered heretofore on instruments of similar quality and terms of payment, for those who are not ready to pay all for those who are not ready to pay all most cash, are being arranged upon almost any basis that may be wanted by the buyer.

Three years' time is given to complete the purchase of any of these planos for the mere simple interest, and, under these conditions, it is not to be wondered at that the following list of shrewd business men and women participated in the sales during yesterday and the day before:
