"Mike is one of the best minor league mana-pers in the business," said Dugdale, re-ferring to his prospects next season. "Of course, we realize that McCredie and Casey are going to put a classy team in the field, and that is what we want. A good team in Portland means that all of us will strive harder to accomplish the end that has ever been in evidence on the Northwest before. #### Says Casey of Mike.

Pearl Casey wanted to know whether Mike Lonch was coming over or not, and Dugdale announced that Mike would probably be here today. "Huh." replied Casey. "he hasn't any business over here. He is only your outfield captain. If he comes, I'll make him talk to Bassey, who vill be the captain of the Portland outfield." Dug, at this sally, laughed as only Dugdale can laugh, but he would not discuss baseball further. The Northwestern League managers are well supplied with players and one of the features of the meeting will be sure to be negotiations for the exchanging and transferring of players. Every club in the league has one or two extra play-ers who could be transferred to another club advantageously and this will be thoroughly discussed when the other magnates arrive.
