WOULD CLOSE UP HALF OF SALOONS

Mayor Lane Would Provide Place for Men to Go by Opening Churches.

WANTS AID FOR REFORM

Says if Council and Church Organizations Will Co-operate Half of Police Force May Be Dismissed.

The City Council should revoke the li censes of about one-half of the saloo now operated in Portland, and the now operated in Portland, and the clurches should open their doors to the unemployed, and furnish reading-rooms and a piace where men may go and rest, instead of locking the doors and thereby forcing the homeless to spend their time in the liquor shops, according to the views of Mayor Lane. The present system of the churches, in keeping locked doors throughout the week, is condemned by him as a bad practice, and one which should be discontinued forthwith. In fact, he says the churces are not doing their full duty by the common people, and especially by the poorer, more unfortunate pecially by the poorer, more unfortunate unemployed, and that the situation abould be remedied.

The Mayor, in discussing civic right-coursess, said that Portland can be made a better, cleaner city and that he will lead in the movement, if the City Council and the churches will support him. There are many things to be made better, he says. But he cannot do it alone; he has no power to revoke licenses of vicious "dives," he says, and no power, either, to unlock church doors or to fit up readingunlock church doors or to fit up reading-rooms in churches, so that poor working-men, usemployed for the time being, may have somewhere to go other than the

"If the City Council will close up about "If the City Council will close up about one-half of the saloons that are now it-censed," said the Mayor, "I will willingly dismiss half of the police force, for it will not be needed. And if the churches will throw open their doors everey day and night in the week, provide a place for poormen to go and read and rest. I predict that Portland will soon be a better city. The City Coursell is to blame for most of The City Council is to blame for most of the trouble the police have to combat, and I intend to mak the Council to revoke a large number of licenses, and to assist me in making this a better city in which to

"Another element, the co-operation of which I ask, is the church, I have previously said that the church, as an organization, is not doing its foll duty, and I intend to repeat in future what I have already said in this respect, with the object in view of securing the co-operation of the churches in helping the poorer classes. It seems to me that, if I were a minister of the gospel, I would throw open the doors of my church and bid the poor people come in; I would arrange reading matter for them, so they might eit down and read when out of employment; I would try to make it comfortable for them, without being offensive as to preaching to them all the time, so they would not be forced, as now, to go to a saloon to rest."

saloon to rest.

The Mayor is said to hold the view that every charch in the city should keep open doors, and cater to the poor and unemployed, making arrangements for their comfort, so they would not have to go to a saloon when in search of a resting lace, as he says thousands of men do at

"My idea of the business of a church," "My idea of the business of a church," said the Mayor, "is to combat the saloons and evil places, and they cannot do this fully until open doors are the rule in churchdom. They must have their houses of worship open to the needy and worthy people, or the people will have to continue going to the saloons for rest."

GROWTH PLEASES DARTT

Minneapolis Man Coming to Oregon to Make His Home.

George B. Darit, a prominent real es-tate dealer of Minneapolis, accompanied by his wife, is registered at the Cornellus Hotel and will remain several days vis-ting in the city. Mr. Darit spent several months in Portland during the Lewis and Clark Exposition and was surprised to see how much Portland has grownedn a few years. On the former visit here Mr. Darti made up his mind to become an Oregon property-holder and for several days has been at Hood River. He says he about made up his mind to have one of Hood River's famous apple orchards. "I was much taken with Portland."

"I was much taken with Portland."
said Mr. Darit last night, "when I attended your splendid Exposition in 1995. and I felt then there was a great future for your city. Like thousands of others, I naturally believed there would be a reaction after the Exposition, but it seems that you solved the problem of holding a great exposition and at the same time returning a profit to the stockholders. Ever since my visit I have kept in close touch with the progress of Portland, but I must admit I was not prepared for the growth of the city, not only in its population, but its handsome and substantial buildings that have risen during the few short years. It is simply BETWEEN CAR AND BRIDGE wonderful."

LINEMEN WANT MORE PAY

Electrical Workers Present Petifion for $4 a Day.

There is a possibility of a clash be-tween members of the Electricalworkers' Union and their employers. Yesterday a committee from the union called upon President Josselyn, of the Portland Rail-way, Light & Power Company, and pre-sented a request for an advance in the wages of linemen from $3,75 to $4 a day

A conference was held at Mr. Josse yn's office, but as far as could be carned, no understanding was reached. Mr. Josselyn refused to treat with the Mr. Josseyn remased to treat with the committee in its representative capacity, but agreed to listen to any complaints made by employes of the company. When the request was made that an advance be considered by the company, the president informed the men that, inasmuch as higher wages are paid in Portland than in other cities of the Coast, or at least the working hours are shorter, he was not inclined to believe that the advance could be made under the circumstances.

He thinks they need drill-ing or instruction in their line of work to lighten and make interesting and prof-table their long hours.

to lighten and make interesting and profitable their long hours.

Chief Campbell, in his annual report, recommended to the City Council the construction of a drill tower, in which the men could be drilled daily by a competent drillmaster, but the funds were too low to warrant the use of any portion for such purpose, and no improvement whatever in the line proposed was authorized this year. While the department is being extended as to equipment, houses and apparatus, no allowance is made for the comfort of the men, who have but 12 hours each week off duty. Their recreation at the station-houses each day consists in the routine of cleaning up, reading two rules of the department and taking the horses out for exercise runs.

If there was a drill tower, Chief Camp bell explains, the men would be sent there daily, in suitable numbers, to under-go drills and instruction by someone competent to train them, and they would thus be made more efficient in their duties and their long hours would be en

LEO FRIEDE TO SPEND $50,000 ON FIFTH STREET.

Structure Will Adjoin New Lumbermen's Building-Van Schuyver Residence Sold for $50,000.

Another good building improvement is inder way for Fifth street. Leo Friede, who owns the lot 50x100 adjoining the Lumbermen's building, approaching completion at the northwest corner of Fifth and Stark, has given the commission to Architect Emil Schacht to prepare plans for a six-story structure. The building is to occupy the entire lot and is to be of concrete foundations, sized and mill construction, and is now estimated to cost about $20,000. Mr. Friede said yesterday that the new building is to be devoted to salesrooms on the ground floor and possibly the second also, and the upper floors to be arranged in lofts for light manufacturing and storage purposes. He said Lumbermen's building, approaching comfacturing and storage purposes. He said work will be started as soon as the archi-tect's plans are ready and passed upon, probably in March.

There are two small frame houses on the ground now which will be torn lown and excavation started in a short ime. The lot was bought about three years ago from Scott Brooke, the con-sideration being recorded as $77,500.

The beautiful new Van Schuyver residence at Twenty-lifth and Lovejoy streets, built in one of the most prominent locations in that part of the city, has been bought by G. F. Sanborn, a recent arrival in Oregon from Wisconsin. Mr. Sanborn is extensively engaged in timber and lumber business. He expects to move into his new home this Spring, The Van Schuyver residence was built by the late W. J. Van Schuyver on plans and late W. J. Van Schuyver on plans and under the direction of Bennes, Hendricks & Tobey, but before the house was ready for occupancy the owner died suddenly. The cost of the building was estimated about $55,000, but exceeded that figure somewhat. Mr. Sanborn paid $50,000 for the property, which is considered by realty men a reasonable valuation on the County Court Says Purchase of Fuel Was Unauthorized.

Bills on 20 cords of wood that has been telivered at the Courthouse during the past few days may be held up by the County Court as the result of what is County Court as the result of what is termed an unauthorized purchase of the fuel by Auditor Brandes. It is said that the Auditor had no more authority to buy the wood than did one of the janitors or other employes of the county.

Mystery has attached itself to the piling up of the wood for nearly a week past. Busy teamsters have been contributing daily to a growing mountain of fuel the source of which no one knew. The County Court, which is given exclusive authority for buying fuel, under the law, had not ordered it. Hence it was supposed that some philanthropist was donating the wood for use during the Summer months. But even then the donation would have But even then the donation would have been of questionable benefit, since oil has been the fuel used for heating the Courthouse these many years. That the oil was not working very well, was suspected yesterday morning when everyone about the premises got to shivering.

"What on earth is the matter with that engineer in the basement?" everyone was Finally several county employes ven-tured into the basement to inquire why more oil was not turned on. A strange sight met their view. The engineer, covered with grime, was wrestling with green and soggy wood which was willing to smoulder but not to burn. He said he was doing the best he could. He reported to the County Court that he had removed the oil-burning apparatus at the order of the Auditor and was now burning the new fuel supply.

Just whither the bills will be held up is a question yet to be passed upon by the court and Commissioners. It is learned authoritatively that such action is considered. Yet Mr. Brandes says the bills cannot well be held up, since he was authorized by the court to make the pur-chase. At least, in a conversation some time ago, Judge Webster suggested that when the weather grew warmer it might when the weather grew warmer it might be more economical to quit using oil and buy some wood. But as to being directly authorized it is stated that Mr. Brandes got no formal order for the change and that the court and Commissioners were the most surprised of all on learning of such a change in the middle of the Winter.

The law bearing on the subject is quite

DR. JAMES, NOTED AUTHOR

Famous Californian Gives Series of Lectures in Centenary Church.

Portland has been visited this week by a, very distinguished man, Dr. George Wharof the streetcar company sent an amout tance for him and had him removed to ton James, who resides in Pasadena, Cal., but is known everywhere. He is a scientist and explorer, author and orator. His book on "The Old Missions and Mission Indians," is the standard on this subject.

His "What the White Race May Learn from the Indians" has had an immense circulation. And his recent "Story of Scraggies," the biography of a little bird, hids fair to rival in interest and circulation such books as "Black Beauty" and "Beautiful Joe," Dr. James is here to lecture in Centenary Methodist Church and will be its guest for one week. He may be induced to write a book on Oregon to correspond with his famous work on California, "Through Ramona's Country," which created such an instant interest that the first edition was all sold before the books were out of the bindery.

Dr. James is en route for Washington cities and thence to Montana to lecture in all the principal cities on "Municipal Art in the Cities of the United States," on which subject he is an authority. He is to speak on "Christ the Centripetal Power of the Ages," in Centenary Church at 10:39 A. M. Sunday, and at 7:30 P. M. will give his illustrated lecture on "The Snake Dance and its Religious Significance to the Hopi Indians." His lectures next week will be, Tuesday evening, "Living the Radiant Life," and Wednesday night, "The Grand Canyon of Arizona," illustrated by over a hundred exquisito photographs.

Those who see and hear Dr. James will understand what Charles Wagner, author of "The Simple Life," meant by saying, "James is the most virile personality I saw in America."
