

SALEONS IN PORTLAND
SCHEDULE ON FLOOR

Say Plan to Close Half of Saloons Is Impractical and Costly.

POINT TO CUT IN REVENUE

Liquor License Committee Opposed to Having Churches Care for Idlers, Who Would Be Homeless With Saloons Closed.

Mayor Lane's proposition to close half of the saloons, provided the churches of Portland should contribute the cost and furnish hot coffee and free reading-rooms to the barroom loafers and the unemployed, is not more acceptable to the members of the liquor license committee of the City Council than it is to the ministry. The Lane method of doing away with half of the saloons and, as a result, the reduction, cutting off half of the police force, in the opinion of a number of the city dais, is "impractical" and "not feasible."

All of the members of the liquor license committee are of the opinion that the absolute control of the saloons and of driving the developer out of business. They also say, if Mayor Lane's scheme was carried out, that the finances of the city would be seriously depleted. At present there are 422 saloons doing business in the city. This means there is paid in to the City Treasurer from the license something like $250,000 annually. If the plan proposed by Mayor Lane were to go into effect, this sum would be reduced to $172,500. It would also mean, it is said, increased taxation of the property-owners and would reduce the work of the ways and means committee. Already the estimates for the ensuing year have been made out and the money derived from liquor licenses in the city revenues has been allotted to the various departments.

Here is what the members of the liquor license committee have to say about the "Lane scheme":

"Another Fool Idea." Councilman A. N. Wills—All Mayor Lane's talk about closing half of the saloons is only another of his fool ideas. It is in keeping with his attempt to clean up the North End. The only thing he succeeded in doing was to drive the women all over town. I believe in putting every saloon that violates the law out of business, but to close up half of them is not practical, and Lane ought to know it. If he knows anything of the idea by doing this to these men to go to church is absurd and silly. People won't go to church unless they want to.

"Cripple City's Finances." Councilman A. G. Ruhl—If I haven't said much about it, Mayor Lane has said much about closing half of the saloons. In the first place, the money that goes to maintain the Police Department is raised by general taxation, and under the charter it cannot be spent for any other purpose. Then, again, it would seriously cripple the city's finances for the ways and means committee has already made the estimate for the ensuing year, and the committee has figured on the money to be derived from the liquor license. To reduce half of the police force would not be a drop in the bucket for the city revenues, but it would puzzle me as to where the Mayor would start his printing of the saloons.

"Plan Is Not Feasible." Councilman W. T. Vaughn—Mayor Lane's plan of shutting out half of the saloons is not feasible. It might reduce the police work on the streets, but it would not put out of business the dive, neither would it send the barroom loafer to the free reading-rooms. There are 422 saloons in the city, and the unemployed can go. If Mayor Lane wants to cut down the number of saloons and at the same time retain the revenue, I suggest that he should have nothing gained by reducing half the present number and still clinging to the present system of controlling them.

To my mind the saloon question could be solved by either the mayor, say, to 200, and place the control of them under one head. For these 200 saloons, the city could collect the same amount of revenue it does now with 422 saloons. My idea is to give a monopoly of the saloon business over to one man, or place the matter under one head, and then the city could hold the man responsible. Licenses could be turned over to this man, or the monopoly, as it might be called, and the city could fix the districts in which saloons could be placed. This would be an end to the dive, for a violation of the law in any one of the saloons would mean a cancellation of all the licenses. My scheme, of course, would be unpopular, but nevertheless I think it would work out well.

Calls Idea Too Radical. Councilman Dr. W. J. Cottle—Mayor Lane's idea is altogether too radical and I am of the opinion he will think better of his statement when he takes time to reflect. He must have been talking to reporters. To close half of the saloons would greatly reduce the city revenues. I believe there are something like 422 saloons paying a license to the city at the present time amounting to $250,000. To reduce this revenue by one-half would necessarily increase taxation. Portland, Me., is prohibition and I understand there are 22 saloons running there that do not pay a cent to the city revenues. Then, too, you must remember Portland, Ore., is not Portland, Me., nor is it Boston and if we must have saloons at all, the city best get all the revenue out of them possible.

MAY BUY BENSON HOLDINGS

Crossett Timber Company Secures Option for $4,000,000. An option has been secured by the Crossett Timber Company, of Iowa, for the purchase of the extensive logging interests of the Benson Logging Company in Columbia County, for a consideration of $4,000,000. The intending purchasers are now conducting an investigation of the property including the deal preliminary to paying over the purchase money. This transaction was conducted through the timber brokerage firm of J. D. Lacey & Co., of Chicago, whose local representative is H. D. Langille, of this city.

In addition to about 40,000 acres of timber land in Columbia County, the deal includes a system of logging railroads and equipment in the vicinity of Clatskanie. Several large log rafts that are being constructed for transportation to San Diego also go with the property, which is the largest logging business in the West. While Mr. Langille was not able yesterday to give any idea of the plans of the prospective purchasers, it is believed it is their intention to follow the announced plan of Mr. Benson and install at Clatskanie a sawmill of 150,000-foot capacity.

THE WILD-DUCK SCARCITY

Veteran Hunter in Alaska Gives His Views on the Subject.

ABERLAND, Or., Feb. 12.—(To the Editor)—Having read with much interest in The Oregonian the communications relating to the theories advanced for the protection and propagation of ducks, I wish to correct a statement made by a "sportsman" in which he stated that the "sportsman" headed "Reason for scarcity of wild ducks in Alaska" is placed on the Esquimaux of Alaska. I will be content enough to think that it is their ignorance of the "sportsman" on the subject of which he wrote, that caused the statement to be made, and not that after ten years of killing ducks, he would misrepresent the facts, and now endeavor to shift the blame on the Esquimaux of Oregon, who are decreasing in number.

COOS BAY IS VERY BUSY

Henry Sengstacken, of Marshfield, Tells of Activities.

Henry Sengstacken, of Marshfield, Or., is staying at the Cornwell, having been called as a witness in condemnation proceedings in the case of the City of Marshfield against the Dean Lumber Company, which has occupied the attention of the Federal courts since Thursday last.

Mr. Sengstacken reports business active on Coos Bay. The large sawmill of the C. A. Smith Lumber Company is running night and day, cutting 90,000 feet in 20 hours; the Simpson mill, at North Bend, and the Porter are running on full time. Shipyards and gasoline boathouses are all busy. Besides the regular passenger and freight steamers, there are a dozen steam schooners, carrying lumber and coal, that enter the bay.

The United States dredge Oregon is deepening the channel from the Smith mill, above Marshfield, to the bay, and under the management of Captain Peters is doing good work, he says, and will enable vessels such as the Nan Smith, carrying 2,500,000 feet of lumber, to take a full load from mill to destination.
