FILES SUIT AGAINST BRIDE

Rejected Lover Wants Money Loaned

During His Courtship.

Inasmuch as Grace E. Woodard didn't marry him, as he says she promised to do, William Frank, of Salem, brought suit in the Justice Court yesterday to recover the sum of $48 which he declares he has loaned her in small sums at various times in December. She is now the bride of J. R. Johnson, and there will be an interrupted honeymoon as soon as Constable Wagner or one of his deputies can locate the newly wedded couple in order to attach the bride's trousseau or whatever effects she may chance to have handy.

In his complaint, Frank, who is a carpenter, says that Mrs. Johnson borrowed small sums from him at frequent intervals in December. Three different times she borrowed $10. Then her credit got on the wane or his funds ran low or something of the sort, for the largest loan she could negotiate the latter part of December was $5. Three times she got $5 and a last loan of $5 was made. Frank alleges that the money was to be repaid on demand, but that she refused to live

LAY PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Republican Central Committee Will Meet Next Wednesday Night.

At a meeting of the Union Republican Club of Multnomah County held last night it was decided to call a meeting of the county and city central committee for the Selling-Hirsch hall next Wednesday night for the purpose of discussing plans for the coming primary election. For this purpose the club appointed a committee of seven to formulate plans for the meeting, as well as for the holding of a convention at which it is hoped to select candidates for all city offices to be balloted on next election. A general invitation is extended to all Republican clubs to participate in this meeting in order that a plan of campaign may be decided upon which will bring the best results. All present at last night's meeting were favorably impressed with the convention idea.
