Morrison Bridge Crowned.—The clos-ing of Burnside bridge has thrown a tremendous travel to Morrison bridge, and it is carrying not only its own regular traffic but that of Madison and Burnside bridges besides. East Side people can now realize from acqual experience what it realize from actual experience what it means to have only two bridges spanning the Willamette River. There are two streams of traffic pouring on Morrison bridge from the East Side—East Morrison and East Alder—centralizing from both streets at the east end. There is not a minute of the day when the bridge is clear of teams, and when the draw is teams, and when the draw is opened to allow the passage of a steamer there is a complete blockade as far as Grand avenue. With the streetear serv-Grand avenue with the Streetear service broken up by the closing of Madison bridge and with Burnside bridge out of commission East Side people are not altogether cheerful, but live in hope that a new Madison bridge will be built and the Burnside bridge will be repaired as soon as possible.

WILL TALK ON GOOD ROADS, J. D. Lee, of Portland, will address the Pleasant Valley Push Club on "Good Roads," and valley Fush Club on "Good Roads," and especial reference to the improvement of the roads of this valley tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The address will be delivered in the Grange hall. All persons interested are invited to attend this meeting. The Pleasant Valley Push Club has inaugurated improvements in that district. The club has undertaken to get all the roads of the neighborhood improved. At its last meeting funds were raised in a few minutes to construct a path from Sycamore station along the Foster road, and work on the path was started yesterday. Practically all the leading citizens of the neighborhood are members of the new club.

LAWYERS TO FIGHT MCGINN .- A meeting he Multnomah Bar Association has called for tonight by President Gus C. Moser. It seems probable that the as-sociation will appoint President Moser, Dan J. Malarkey and John F. Logan to oppose Henry E. McGinn in his attack upon the law creating an additional Cir-cuit Court Judge. Wednesday morning has been set as the time when members County Court are to appear in the Circuit Court, perhaps at Oregon City, to show cause why an injunction should not issue, restraining the County Court from paying the salaries of Judge Gatens, his bailiff and his clerk.

HIS PREMONITION OF DEATH.—"I think I am going to die." said Samuel Miller, a hostler, walking into the Model stables, at Fifth and Davis streets, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning. A. V. Worley, the night man, saw Miller was sick but did not think it was as bad as that. Come in the office here and sit down and you'll feel better," Worley told him. Miller seemed faint and complained of pains in his heart as he sat in the office. "I'm afraid the end has come," he said. An instant later he started convulsively from his seat at the touch of the grim reaper and fell dead. The body was removed to the Morgue. Miller was about 35 years old, and lived at 184 Arthur street. Death was caused by heart disease from which he had long suffered.

Mrs. Trust Alleges Brutal Abandonment.

SHUT CHILDREN IN DARK

John A. Chuinard Says Spouse Is of Inhuman Disposition-Thekla Bright Says Husband Teases

Her-Four Divorces Asked.

Charging that she was snowbound and without fuel, food or mone during the first two weeks of January, when the cold snap was at its height, and while she had a nursing child to care for, Mrs. Maude V. Trust has a divorce suit against Jacob Trust in the Circuit Court. Trust is a baker and earns about $75 a month, his wife says, when he is sober. But since their marriage at Lents in October, 1904, Mrs. Trust says her husband has become addicted to the use of intoxicating liquous to excess. She also secures him of contrasts to excess. She also accuses him of c sorting with women of the under-world. She fears he may molest her or the children if the divorce is granted, so she asks to be protected by an injunction of the court, restraining him from talking to or molesting her and the two children. She also demands $35 a month alimony, and an interest in lots 9 and 10, block 1. Bernhardt Park No. 2, against which there are two mortgages

That his wife, Jeanette Chuinard, is of such an inhuman disposition that she kept the little children in dark closets and in woodsheds for long periods of time that she might wound her husband's feelings, is an allegation upor which John A. Chulnard bases a divorce suit filed in Circuit Court. He also says his wife has now left him, and refuses to return. But, although he says she does not care for his company, he deposes he has seen her with other men it Thelka Bright wants a divorce from Tony Bright because, knowing his wife's sensitive disposition, she says he teases her by going with other women openly. Mr. and Mrs. Bright have lived together since June 20, 1878, when they were married at Los Angeles. But the wife says her housekeeping has been criti-cised, that her husband has been quarelsome and has only partially supported er. Since coming to Oregon she has seen living at Lents. They have seven children and the mother asks for the custody of the youngest two.

Morrison has brought sul against Frank Morrison for a divorce. The only fault she has to find with him s that he has left her, but she mays ever now she is willing to take him back. She married him in Tacoma, October 31, 1907, and lived with him two months and a half. She asks to resume her malden name, Patterson.

Alleging that Rudolph Keliar, her husband, obtained a divorce "on the quiet," giving her no opportunity to contest it, Mrs. Josie Keliar has filed in the Circuit Court a motion to set aside the decree granted last Friday, and to permit her to contest the case. She says the suit was begun in January, but that Keliar told her he had dismissed it. She Kellar told her he had dismissed it. # New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

Orpheum.

BY ARTHUE A GREENE.
It has been the good fortune of local vaudeville patrons to receive at the hands of Manager Errickson some mighty fin-bills and those who saw the offering yes terday afternoon will agree with me that there has been no falling off so far as merit is concerned. Considering the cur-rent show as a whole, I'm inclined to be-lieve that it is one of the top-notchers which the Orpheum has given us. There are no "dead ones" on the list, and while one or two of them are not of superlative quality, the average is so excellen that not even the most exacting can just complain.

The present bill is notable because includes that stunning collection of Lon don music hall talent described as "The Eight Palace Girls," including the servloes of James Clemons. One of the girls is missing, 'tis true, and they are but seven, but they are the most fetching singing and dancing aggregation that it has been the good fortune of a local audience to see and hear in many weeks. These young women can really sing, their voices being of that mellow qualtheir voices being of that mellow qual-ity which distinguishes the English from the American chorus. Their costumes are beautiful, their songs, while typi-cally English, are musical and catchy, and their assistant, James Clemons, is and their assistant, James Clemons, is an eccentric dancer seldom excelled. Strangely enough, their best number is a coon song, "Bayou." Imagine a lot of London music hall damsels singing an American "coon song"! But you'd be delighted. They are the prize package in the shape of girl turns that we have yet drawn at the Orpheum.

Ward & Clare and their company do a very attractive little comedy sketch called "The Twin Flats," which excites the risibilities and appeals to the comedy-loving element. Especially is this uredit due to Alice Ward, a youthful comedienne who gives promise of much better things in the future. You will assuredly like this act.

Jeannette Adler and her dancing picka-ninnies have a clever turn in which the colored boys take the chief credit for their sprightly dancing.

The act which crowds closely for the honor position on the programme is that of Ray L. Royce, recently the star of "York State Folks," in his series of character impersonations. Royce is a rare

Fred and Nellie Graham open the show with an sceentric act called 'The Mu sical Bellboy and the Military Maid.' which justifies the promises the manage ment has made for it.

The moving pictures are unusually in-teresting this week. When all is said, the Orpheum offers a thoroughly worthy entertainment this week and no one will be greatly disappointed in the show, no matter how much he may have ex-

Grand.

A CAPITAL, act at the Grand this week is a canine comedy-pantomine, CAPITAL act at the Grand this enacted by Coin's celebrated troupe, which, by the way, gave the original dog tablold comedy in this country. Without the visible assistance of a master they enact a playlet, never once missing their cues. They visit the various stores represented in the village street scene, manipulate a handcar, carry on fibriations, while a perfect lady dog sneaks cautious, by to a side entrance and "rushes the can," with avidity. ly to a side entrance and "rushes the can," with avidity. Another "loidy" canine presumably by the name of hectic Suppho, also adds a dash of paprika piquancy to the production.

Onetta, a Dervish dancer, in the brilliant costume of his country, gives cleverly a whirlwind dance. Not satisfied with this strenuous exercise he non-chalantly swings in his teeth a full-sized chair.

Tom Brantford, who calls himself the "Human Band." does some imitations "Human Band," does some limitations which takes with the audience. He also tells some new Scotch stories, and a few of doubtful antiquity.

Harry McDuffee pleased with his sing-ing of pictorial ballads.

A sketch called "Cafastrophe" is presented by Franklin Ardell and company, which includes Gladys Brockwell, Lillie White and Tom Blake. The playlet goes at a lively tempo and has some indicrous quintet of acrobats, who give a novelty globe act. Balancing themselves on great moving rubber balls they accomplish many of the difficult feats known in the acro-batic world, and incidentally punctuate their act with several new stunts.

Pantages.

A GENUINELY funny sketch is the headline attraction this week at Pantages. The fun is fast and furious, and, what is more, keeps the audience guessing, so replete is it with novel and sidesplitting situations. In point of time the playlet takes considerable more minutes han are generally allotted to any one ac-The three Hanlons, Alfred, Fred and William A., in conjunction with William J.
