

"I AM INNOCENT," MRS. TEAL CRIES

In Prison She Tells Her Version of Alleged Conspiracy Against Frank Gould.

HERSELF VICTIM, SHE SAYS

Expresses Fear That Year's Separation From Babe During Period of Her Punishment May Result in Its Illness and Death.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(Special.)—In her cell in the Tombs Prison, Mrs. Ben Teal, convicted of conspiracy in connection with the Frank Gould divorce case, protests her innocence, declares she has been a party to no plot and has done no wrong, and that she herself is the victim of a conspiracy entered into by persons who deceitfully obtained her co-operation without letting her become aware of what her action meant.

Mrs. Teal's greatest concern is for her baby, 15 months old, which she declares is delicate and which needs her constant care. Separation from the child for a year, which is the period for which she has been sentenced to Blackwell's Island, may result in the child's death, she declares.

"The first that I had to do with the affair," said Mrs. Teal, "was when Bessie De Voe came to me and said she wanted an apartment. She looked about and finally picked out one which rented for $250 a month.

"Bessie," I said, "You can't pay $250 a month."

"Yes," she said, "but Frank Gould can. And he's going to pay."

(This remark of Miss DeVoe's was told of in the testimony at Mrs. Teal's trial.)

"I thought she was joking, and replied: 'Well, Bessie, if you have the money, I'll back of you you can have anything you want.'"

"She stuck to the $250 apartment and then wanted me to get the arrangements for her to move in. I told her she would have to have three references, and she said that would be all right. 'We went down to the Knickerbocker Hotel and sat in the parlor upstairs waiting to meet the agent. I said: 'Bessie, one of your references has to be a bank reference and there must be two other besides.' She said, 'Oh, that's all right. A bank account has been started for me.' She showed me a check for four figures to her credit, and a lot of bills, one or two of them $100 bills.

"'Showed Me a Lot of Jewelry.'"

"While we were waiting she showed me a lot of jewelry. There was a carbuncle sapphire ring, surrounded with diamonds, and a pin of the same design, only larger. There was a Teddy-bear of diamonds, and a pair of diamonds and a pair of sapphires with diamonds, which she said had been made at Tiffany's and cost $1700.

"But," Mrs. Teal said, "I had no idea of using what she told me. And I positively am not guilty of trying to get up a false case against Frank Gould. Money would be no object for me to undertake such a piece of business. I have a wealthy father. I have well-known sisters, and I have married well, and my family is simply ever ready to help me with money, if I should need more than my husband would furnish me."

"In this case I am sure of my object. It is revenge. There is a man at the bottom of this who has a grudge against me."

"He knew that I knew what Bessie De Voe had said, and he planned this frame-up with Mabel McCauslan. I tell an easy story, because of my good nature, to their plot, and I talk to Mousley about what I knew."

"Next, Mousley, a private detective, came to me and said he was the brother of a friend of mine, Martin and Stanley. He said he needed help and got me to tell him what I knew. You will remember that I knew. You will get any money for my part in the alleged conspiracy against Frank Gould."

"When Mousley could say he had been to see me they took their plot to Frank Gould's lawyers. Oh, it is one of the worst outrages I have heard of in a civilized country—convicting a woman on such testimony."

"I have got hundreds of telegrams from all over the country saying what an outrage it is. I have even had cablegrams. There have been messages coming all day today."

"The action of the District Attorney's office in asking that Mrs. Teal be locked up in the Tombs during the last days of her trial, caused her to say: 'Oh, that was the cruelest injustice. To take me from my poor sick little baby.'"

"They said I would run away. Oh, how false. Run away, and leave my husband? I am devoted to him. Run away and leave my baby? When would I go? My husband's business is in New York and always will be. I have not left New York, except to go to Philadelphia or Boston to see the appearance of some show he has staged. It was just because they wanted to rub it in."

"Alarmed for Baby's Health."

Mrs. Teal grew almost hysterical as she spoke of the pangs of separation from her baby.

"Poor little Ben. He was always sickly. He weighed four pounds fourteen ounces when he was born. That was October 3, 1907. He has always been a fretful child, and he needs me. If I don't see him soon I may never see him alive again."

"Ben has blue eyes and light hair and looks like his father. He was born at the Hotel Seymour. We have a nurse taking care of him now."

Mr. Teal showed the strain he had been under for the last few days and the anxiety with which he hopes for the granting of a certificate of reasonable doubt, which will keep Mrs. Teal from going to Blackwell's Island while her appeal is being decided.

"This is a terrible outrage," he said. "Margaret is a dear girl and God knows how I suffer for her and the little fellow. I simply cannot understand how they can separate her from him on the testimony of the people who took the stand against her and I cannot believe such a verdict will be allowed to stand."

DEAD BODY IN SNOW

Murder Mystery Baffles Police of Alexandria.

IDENTITY VERY UNCERTAIN

From Card in Pocket Name Is Thought to Be Walter F. Schultz, of Sioux City, Iowa—Motive Is Altogether Lacking.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The body of a well-dressed man, partially covered with snow and with a ragged wound in the neck, was today found near Alexandria, Va., a short distance from Washington.

In the pockets of the clothing were a traveler's check for $200, issued by the Wells Fargo Express Company at Los Angeles, payable to Walter F. Schultz, a card bearing the same name, but with an address of 1214 Douglas street, Sioux City, Ia., and another card which bears the name of Mrs. Alma Hume Gillette.

The police regard the case not only as a cold-blooded murder, but one of the most mystifying crimes ever committed in this section. A motive is lacking, and the identity of the man supposed to be the murderer is by no means complete.

EAGLES TO BUILD CHURCH

LODGE MEMBERS WILL CONTRIBUTE FUNDS.

INDIANA PASTOR IS OSTRACIZED BECAUSE HE ACCEPTS $50 FROM LODGE—MEMBERS TO AID HIM.

LA PORTE, Ind., March 7.—(Special.)—Frank E. Hering, who was a candidate before the Democratic State Convention for Lieutenant-Governor, and who is vice-president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, succeeding to the presidency in September, today issued an appeal for financial contributions from members of the order to enable Rev. A. H. Hackle, of Montpelier, Ind., to complete the building of his church.

Mr. Hackleman was recently ostracized by his fellow-clergyman and dubbed "barnard preacher" because he accepted contributions of $50 from Montpelier Eagles, and later officiating at a memorial service which the order conducted.

Subscriptions to the pastor's building fund also were withdrawn by prominent citizens because of his friendly attitude to the order, which admits saloonkeepers to its membership. It is now believed that the appeal of Mr. Hering will result in an Indiana church being largely if not wholly erected by the contributions of Eagles from every state in the Union.

KEARSARGE AT DRYDOCK

Battleship Reaches Philadelphia After Trip Around World.

PHILADELPHIA, March 7.—The battleship Kearsarge, the second of the around-the-world fleet to reach here, arrived at League Island this afternoon.

The vessel will be taken to the back bay tomorrow and thoroughly overhauled.

Theodore Lentz, a blacksmith aboard the Kearsarge, was publicly commended today in a letter from Secretary Newberry for work in forging a new high-pressure cylinder ring to take the place of one which broke while the Kearsarge was steaming from Colombo to the Suez Canal.

MANY COLONISTS COMING

LOW ONE-WAY RATE ATTRACTS EASTERNERS.

Trains Come in Loaded With Newcomers, Chiefly From Farming Districts of Middle West.

Piled high with miscellaneous trunks, grips and bundles of household effects, the baggage-rooms at the Union Depot have taken on the usual colonist season appearance. Every train that arrives adds to the height of the piles of the freight brought by the newcomers who are bringing their household goods with them to remain in this state permanently and will set up their tents for good.

Every train from the East reaching the Union Depot is carrying additional coaches to handle the heavy colonist travel. The movement is especially heavy from the Middle Western farming states, but it also large from other sections of the East as well. Farmers arriving here give as their reason for making a change the high price of land in the East and the comparatively low prices of farms in this state. They prefer to sell out when they could do so to advantage in the East and come west to start their lot with a newer and growing country. With the proceeds of the sale of their farms they are able to purchase just as good or better farms for far less money.

About 300 or 400 settlers are reaching this city daily, according to figures given by the railroads in regard to the volume of the travel. This travel will hardly be maintained throughout the Spring colonist season, however, because railroads' experience the heaviest business at the opening and closing of the reduced one-way period. People planning to come to the Coast for some time previous to the opening of the colonist rates will find it until they can take advantage of the reduced rates.

Because of the lower rates this season the following winter, it is expected by the passenger officials of the different lines reaching this territory that the colonist travel will continue heavy throughout March and April. Then, too, it is felt that because of the unsatisfactory financial conditions that obtained during last Spring, prospective settlers will be more likely to make a change in location this Spring than last, believing conditions are settled.

Trains reaching Portland yesterday from the East carried additional cars to provide for colonists en route to Oregon. Three and four additional cars are attached to each of the O. P. & N. trains from the East and Northern Pacific trains are handling a large amount of extra equipment to provide accommodations for newcomers.
