New Planing Mill Begun.

WOODLAND. Wash., March 17.-(Spe-cial.)-John Peterson, logger and mili-man, announced this morning that work would commence today on a new planing mill that he expects to have in operation inside of 40 days. All the dressed lum-ber needed here must now come from points outside on the railroad, and seri-ous delays to infended improvements are very frequent, hence the new mill is wel-comed.

A number of the teachers of the school engaged by the State Board in the Eastern states came here last September under contract to teach for a year. They brought their families with them. The salarles paid them to February 1 barely met their moving and living expenses and a serious situation now confronts them with maintenance appropriation from the state cut off. They are the hardest hit among those who suffer from the state cut off. They are the hardest hit among those who suffer from the state cut off. A large class of pupils, too, is about ready to graduate. These have pursued their studies at the school for three and one-half years and are also anxious over the existing situation.

MONMOUTH IS DISAPPOINTED

Getting Advice From Alumni as to

· Draft of Initiative. MONMOUTH, Or., March 17 .- (Special.)

-Friends of Monmouth are disappointed at the failure of the special session to make any provision for the submission of the normal question to the people at the next election. They still feel it would be better for a disinterested man to prepare an initiative bill that would be fair allke to friends and foes of the Normal Schools. No plan has been formulated yet, but advice will be sought of gradu-ates and friends at a distance. Monmouth supporters have been greatly encouraged by the strong personal indorsement given by members of the Legislature and by leading business men in Portland. The advocates of a State Normal School, to be permanently located in Monmouth, realize that the proposition must be pre-sented to the people in the fairest possible manner. They believe in the success of their cause and are willing and anxious to secure advice from all quarters before determining the form of the tenus. Friends of Monmouth are disappointed

River salmon fisheries and in the early We he commenced the packing of salmon. At this time there was no such thing as a cannery on the Pacific Coast, so he salted the fish in barrels to be sent abroad in salling vessels. The royal Chinook was plentiful at that early date and fishermen made fairly good wages catching them at 10 cents each. A salmon that cost 10 cents in those days would by the pound instead o. by the fish. A few years later he established a carl-nery at McGowan and in 1853 admitted his four sons as partners, the business now being conducted under the firm name of P. J. McGowan & Sons. In 1858 the firm's business was enlarged by the erec-tion of what was known as the Buchheit Packing Company's cannery on the Up-per Columbia. In the latter part of the same year a third cannery was estab-lished by the firm on North River, Shoal-water Bay, and in 1859 a fourth cannery was built at Grays Harbor, on the Che-hals River, near Cosmopolis. Each of these canneries proved a success finan-cially, and the firm has continued to con-duct a profitable business.
