Children Say They Were Mistreated at Sanitarium.

WITHOUT BATH FOR MONTH

Charges Taken From St. Theresa Institution Have Severe Colds and May Have Contracted Consumption While There.

Mary and Margaret Hays, two little girls who have been living at the St. Theresa Sanitarium, near Oak Grove, since early last Fall, have severe colds, and if they have not contracted tuberculosis from the patients in the advanced stages of the disease who have been sent there, it is because their healthy little bodies have been able to throw off the infection.

"Why, the sisters wouldn't wash our heads, nor give us a bath, for a long, long time," said 9-year-old Mary, yesterday. "Margaret and I went a whole month without a bath, and they wouldn't give us clean underwear or anything for two or three weeks." As she talked her little sister, two years younger, sat in a chair beside her, coughing.

"The two children were allowed by the officials of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society to remain in the care of their father last year," said the matron yesterday. "He told us of the place out there, and we thought it was a Sisters' school, so we let the children go, although they did not go from here."

The children have been taken to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society by Superintendent Gardner. When an Oregonian reporter called to see them yesterday afternoon, they had gone out for a walk. James Staffness, who is about Mary's age, and who lived at the sanitarium for about a week, had not gone out with the other children, however. He said, with some diffidence, that he was kept at work by the Sisters piling wood out in the rain, and doing chores. He did not stay there long enough to go to school.

In a little while Mary came in with her sister. She said that last Fall, when she and her sister went to the sanitarium, there were two patients there, one of whom had consumption, and the other a sore foot.

"Then Mr. and Mrs. Bacum and Leona Bacum came," she said, "and lived in a tent. Mr. Bacum died of consumption, and after that Mrs. Bacum said she was going to live right near his grave, and after a while take him and have him buried somewhere else."

Then Mabel Thomas came and stayed there a month. But she began to tell her mamma things, and so the sisters sent her home. That's what the sisters said.

"After that Mr. Daly came, and Mr. Foley, and just before we left there was a new man. The most of them had consumption."

"We went to school a part of the time, sometimes a day or two a week. Sometimes Margaret would go to town in the morning with one of the sisters, and would go to school in the afternoon, and sometimes she would go to school in the Quick Progress Made in Work of Repairing Switchboard.

MEN LABOR IN HOT BLAST

Experts, Lightly Clad, Connect New Lines While Scorching Air Dries Out Board—Four Thousand Lines Ready.

Wearing no more clothing than the law deems necessary, and possibly not quite as much, 70 men labored all day yesterday in a scorching breeze produced by electric heaters and fans, repairing the damage done to the main telephone switchboard by fire last week. The comfortable conditions were necessary to expedite the drying out of the ruined switchboard, which was thoroughly wet down by the firemen in extinguishing the blaze. The men worked in shifts of two dozen each, relieving each other whenever the heat became too great for one shift to bear. As a result of this effort more than 400 phones had been restored to full service last night and the outlook

ESTATE IS TO BUILD

Van Schuyver Heirs Plan Office Building Uptown.

HAVE FAITH IN DISTRICT

Brick or Concrete Construction to Be Used, and Work Will Commence Within Two or Three Months.

The W. J. Van Schuyver estate is planning the erection of a brick or concrete building on the northwest corner of Twelfth and Washington streets. Plans are now being drawn, and it is said that construction will be under way in the course of a couple of months.

W. O. Van Schuyver is manager of the estate for the heirs of W. J. Van Schuyver, who died two months ago. As the heirs consist solely of the family of the deceased wholesale liquor dealer, it is not anticipated that there will be any special difficulty in arranging the details.

The plans call for an office building with stores on the ground floor, but it has not yet been decided as to precisely what height the building will go. This
