THOUSANDS GREET EXHIBIT TRAIN

Poultry Display Is Center of Interest at All Stops in Southern Oregon.

RESULTS ARE IN EVIDENCE

Dr. Withycombe Says Correspon at Agricultural College Doubled Since First Lecture Train Went Out.

GLENDALE Or., 'March 21 - (Special.) -Big crowds greeted the Farmers' Spe cial at every stop today on its trips through Southern Oregon. Schools were dismissed at all points visited, business houses were closed and bands greeted the train. Nothing could show a greater interest in the work of the demonstration train. "Profoundly satisfactory," was the statement of C. A. Malboeuf, repre-senting the freight department of the senting the freight department of the Southern Pacific tonight, who says 16,300 people have visited the train during the past two days.

At Central Point, the first stop today.

At Central Point, the first stop today.

His visitors inspected the train and showed great interest in the lectures and exhibits. This was an early-morning stop, and it was not thought many would turn out, but this favored fruit section was intent on learning better extended. was intent on learning better methods of growing fruit and raising poultry.

All Business Is Suspended.

Gold Hill, the next stop, turned out The people, who appreciated the value of the school on wheels. Grants Pass was, of course, the big stop of the day, and 1700 people attended the demonstrations. The school children marched through the cars, and husiness in the Josephine county seat was entirely suspended during the time the train was in the city.

Merlin and Wolf Creek were the last stops teday, and about 300 people saw the train at these two points. The train then ran to Glendale, where the first demonstration will be given tomorrow. demonstration will be given tomorrow. Tonight the Glendale Commercial Club gave the visitors a reception and banquet, at which mutual felicitations were exchanged on the success of the trip. The people of Glendale expressed their appreciation of the work of the train, and their guests showed their gratification at the interest taken.

Poultry Is Center of Interest.

The poultry exhibit continues a very nteresting feature of the train, and housends of people daily show their deinteresting feature of the train, and thousands of people daily show their de-light at the complete showing. Professor James Dryden, poultry husbandman in charge, is emphasizing the need of giv-ing chickens a chance to scratch. On the farm he says fowls usually are afforded an opportunity, but in small yards he ineists that a chance be given them

"Although no complete statistics are obtainable, it is safe to say that during the past year Oregon produced poultry and eggs to the value of $5,000,000," said he roday." teday. "The northern counties have ex-tended their poultry industry to a greater extent than has Southern Oregon. How-ever, this section is taking up the poultry industry in earnest, and there is a great future for it here.

Nitrogen Returned to Soil.

"The value of poultry raising is seen when it is realized that chickens mean an additional crop on the land. It has been figured out that one crop of apples, amounting to 15 boxes to the tree, will draw from the soil about 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Put 50 chickens on an acre of land and they will return to the soil more than enough nitrogen to soil more than enough nitrogen to re-

"The people of Southern Oregon are making a great deal of money on fruit, but they could make more money if they would take up poultry-raising more generally. It takes an orchard about five years to come into bearing. Put chickens on the land meanwhile, and you have a crop fully as valuable as your apples will be later.

"More poultry-raising means a getting away from the one-crop idea, and will re-sult in retaining the fertility of the soil, besides utilizing land in this section of the state not adapted to frutgrowing."

Tangible Results Seen.

Dr. James Withycombe, director of the Oregon Experiment Station, who is the head of the instructors on board the train, is highly gratified at the success of the first two days of the trip of the first two days of the trip.

"The last demonstration train operated through the Willamette Valley doubled our correspondence at the Oregon Agricultural College," said he; "during the four months following the trip, the number of inquiries coming to us from farmers of that section of the state were doubled. This shows how interest in better and more scientific methods is aroused and indicates the good accomplished by and indicates the good accomplished by these farming specials."

Says It Does Not Cost Much to Keep a Wife, Though Some Women He Knows Spend All of Ten Dollars Week.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22 .- (Special.) -Gunjire Aoki has returned to the paren-tal roof at Oukland, where he is busy preparing for his approaching marriage with Miss Helen Gladys Emery. Further consultation must take place between Gunjiro and his future father-in-law, Archdeacon Emery, before the exact date may be announced.

It is with great difficulty that Miss

Emery's fiancee expresses himself in English. His vocabulary is extremely limited, and his accent unusually imper-fect. America and his associations with Americans have made very little impres-sion on him. He has absolutely no sense of moral obligation. He does not begin to realize the care and comfort with which American men surround the women of their family; neither does he consider it necessary to raise his hat when he greets a woman. neither does he consider it hecessary to raise his hat when he greets a woman. He belongs altogether to the dishwashing type, lacking, however, the servility and good manners of that class. It is impossible to correctly quote Gunjiro Aoki. His English for the most part consists of disjointed phrases and

DAMAGE CASE SUSTAINED

Supreme Court Upholds Judgment Against Street Rallway.

SALEM, Or., March 23 .- (Special.) -- In an opinion by Justice King, the Supreme Court affirmed the findings of the Multnomali Circuit Court in the case of Ber-tha F. Crosby, respondent, vs. Portland Railway Company, appellant.

This was a personal injury action brought to recover damages caused by the plaintiff coming in contact with a sagging electrical wire on Grand avenue. Portland. The lower court awarded the plaintiff $3,000 damages. In affirming preme Court holds that it made no dif-ference whether plaintff was standing on defendant's right of way or not when the shock was received; that the fact that plaintiff had noticed the sagging wire for 10 days previous to the accident is not sufficient to preclude the recovery of damages; that the sileged errors in the admission of testimony were not impor-tant and are explained or overruled.
