LOCKED UP IN CITY JAIL

P. J. Williams, Accused of Robbing Baker City Woman, Denies His Guilt, but Will Be Held for Trial on Larceny Charge.

Surrounded by a surging crowd at Third and Alder streets at 9 o'clock last night. Miss Jessie Malloy, an athletic young woman, who lives at $27\sqrt{2}$ First street, delivered into the custody of Patrolman O'Brien, a man accused of theft whom she caught at Fourth and Taylor streets after an exciting chase and whom she was after an exciting chase and whom she was the state of marching to the Police Steet. in the act of marching to the Police Sta-tion. She was followed by hundreds of people many of whom had witnessed the

The prisoner, who gave the name of P. J. Williams, 26 years old, is now in the City Jall under the charge of larceny. He says that he is an advertising agent who arrived in this city two days ago from Spokane, Wash. According to the story told by Miss Malloy, Williams is guilty of stealing the pocketbood of Mrs. P. French, a resident of Baker City, Or. containing $77.50. Mrs. French was passing through Portland on a trip from her home to Redlands, Cal., where she was going to attend the funeral of her sister.

Williams Donles His Guilt.

Williams Denies His Guilt.

Williams plends entire ignorance of the act charged against him but the police were so impressed with the story told by Miss Malloy that Williams' pretensions to innoceace found little credence. Although Mrs. Frenca had left the city on last night's train for Reclands. Williams will be held on Miss Malloy's word until the victim of the theft can appear in court as a witness against him.

Mrs. French arrived in Portland from Baker City yesterday morning. She took a room at Third and Pine streets where she was acquainted with the landlady.

she was acquainted with the landlady, it happened that Williams, who had arrived the day before, had been assigned to the room next to that of Mrs. French.

As far as can be learned his entrance was not noticed by Mrs. French who was standing near the window. In these few moments a pocketbook which was lying on a table near the door had disappeared. The moment the loss was discovered they went to look for the man but he had gone. The matter was immediately reported to the landlady and then to the police. A watch was set on the man's room.

Victim Has Left City.

When the night train left for California Mrs. French went on it. She was forced to borrow the necessary money for her expenses from the landlady of the rooming-house, with whom she was well-acquainted. Miss Malloy had accompanied her to the depot and, following the departure of the train, was walking to her own home. At Third and Taylor streets she spled Williams playing billards in a poolroom.

When Williams saw Miss Malloy he ran. Nothing daunted, Miss Malloy picked up her skirts and ran after him. She sained on Williams and at Fourth and Taylor was so close to him that, to avoid come out and give yourself up."

Her cries drew the attention of the passersby, and in a few seconds there was a large crowd in front of the saloon. Williams evidently saw that escape now was impossible, so he came out and talked to her as if nothing had happened. "You stole that pocketbook," cried Miss Mailoy, so that everyone in the crowd heard, "and you'll have to go to the police station. If there is no officer in sight I will take you down there myself," and with that she grasped him by the arm and the two started down the street to the accompaniment of remarks from the crowd which told Williams that I he tried to get away his escape would be prevented.

This cavalcade was met at Third and Alder by Patrolman O'Brien, to whom the young woman told her story and gave over her prisoner. Miss Malloy, gave over her prisoner. Miss Malloy, who had effected the sensational arrest, accompanied the policeman and his escort to the station. To corroborate her statements she sent for Mrs. Leavens, the landlady of the rooming-house, who did Telegraphic advice was sent to Mrs. French last night on the capture of Will-lams, and the request that she return as soom as possible to assist in his prosecution. One of the features of the incident was that while Miss Malloy was catabilishing a record for courage, two detectives were lying in walt in different places to apprehend Williams on sight. At the police station Miss Malloy received many compilments for her prowess.

The police were unable to elicit any information from the prisoner last night, save assurances that he was innocent.

CLEIN'S CHANCES DARK

SPOKANE POLICE ACCUSE HIM OF KILLING SAUDOWSKI.

Admits He Ate Dinner With Friend on March 1, and Can't Explain Absence From City.

SPOKANE, Wash., March 25.—(Special.)—Despite the emphatic denials of Paul Clein that he killed his fellowworkman John Saudawski, whose body with four bullet holes in the head was found on Fort Wright military reservation last Sunday, Deputy Proceduror Donovan and Sheriff McK. Pugh says that the coli is tightening on Clein, and that the coil is tightening on Clein, and they have circumstantial evidence now sufficient to convict.

Robbery and not love was the motive. for by three witnesses it is proved that Saudawski had $50 on him the afternoon he was last seen alive with Clein, so that the $45 found in a vest pocket of the dead man evidently was overlooked.

Clein finally admitted today that he are dinner with Saudawski on the eventure of dinner with Saudawski on the eventure of inner with Saudawski on the evening March I, and said that Saudawski had pork and beans. The autopsy disclosed pork and beans in the stomach of the dead man only partially digested and the physicians say that he was killed within four hours after eating. This upholds the reasoning of the officers that Clein killed Saudawski before returning to his rooms at the Lynn Hotel at 10 o'clock, on the night of March L. Clein so far has been unable to give any account of his movements from 6 to 10 o'clock of that night.

President French Says Campaign Is Under Way to Place Issue Up to People.

WESTON, Or., March 25.—(Special.)
—The annual commencement of the Eastern Oregon Normal School will be held earlier this year than usual, on the following dates: Baccalaureate Sunday, May 23; class day and alumni meeting, May 24; commencement exercises, May 25.

These dates were announced today by President French upon returning from Salem. He says:

"The local financial board, at a meeting of the board and faculty, agreed to pay $3000 toward the expense incurred this year in closing the present semester's work, which includes the months of March, April and May. This amount is to be paid directly to the faculty and receipted for by them.

"Not being permitted to contract any indebtedness which is not provided for by a sufficient sum in the hands of the State Treasurer, the State Board of Normal Regents are obliged to have a sufficient amount available to cover all obligations—if the contracts with the teachers are to be fulfilled and the school maintained
