Admiral Who Will Speak at Armory

Tonight Does Not Fear Clash

That another war is impending between Russia and Japan was the statement of Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans, when in-terviewed yesterday by The Oregonian over the long distance telephone. Admiral Evans was in Seattle yesterday. He will come to Portland today to lecture tonight at the Armory on the historic cruise of the Atlantic fleet from Hampton Roads to San Francisco. to San Francisco.

to San Francisco. "War can be looked for in the near fu-ture between Japan and Russia, for both countries are preparing," said Admiral Evans over the telephone. "Only a few days ago Russia borrowed $360,000,000 from France that will be largely used in double-tracking the Trans. Suberian public for the said of the said of the said of the said of the said double-tracking the Trans. Suberian public double-tracking the trans. double-tracking the Trans-Siberian railway. This is shown by Kuropatkin's own articles in McClure's Magazine. This shows how good the Russian credit is, even after a costly war. With the Trans-Siberian road double-tracked, Russia will be able to get men and supplies into Man-churia and on the east coast of the coun-try much faster than is now possible. War can be looked for in the near futura between these two countries.

Japan Also Getting Ready.

"Japan is also preparing for the en-unter that is certain to come. She is slowly getting money and a navy of suf-ficient strength to cope with Russia. Russia will also have to rebuild her navy be-fore war can be declared, for no matter how many tracks are laid across Siberia and how many men can be massed on the boast, they cannot ford the sea. The Jap-anese navy was atrengthened by the nine ships captured from Russia in the late war, and even with these additions, others are being built.

"So far as I am acquainted with the sen-iment. I believe that the East is in avor of a Pacific fleet and that the twolet proposition is meeting with popular favor. To care properly for a fleet on this coast requires large stations at Bre-merton, San Francisco and some south-rily point, either San Diego, or some bay in that section of the Coast. Each should in that section of the Coast. Each should be equipped with drydocks large enough io accommodate the largest vessels in the fleet. No docks now open on the Coast are large enough except the one now using constructed at Bremerton. These things cannot be granted unless the West ees their importance and demands them. A lively meeting is expected, as it is known that there will be some opposi-tion to the proposition of submitting the charter to a vote of the people. There will be a fight, led by Councilman Beld-ing, to keep the Council from adopting a resolution to submit the commission plan. Just how much strength Mr. Beld-ing has, or whether he will receive sup-port from his colleagues, is unknown. It is believed, however, that a few will come out in opposition to submitting the work of the committee of 15 to the tax-payers, which is based on the Des Moines commission form of municipal govern-ment.

Mr. Belding is absolutely opposed to the commission plan of charter, and from the outset has fought it. He and five other Councilmen voted against the ordinance, the terms of which made it possible to submit amendments at a special elec-tion, thereby defeating the effort, and the proposed charter could not be voted upon until the regular election in June. because of the provisions of the state haw governing the number of days at which an amendment may be submitted the moral squad. In behalf of the association Charles J. Schnabel presented Mr. Davis with a handsome silver loving cup, on which is engraved: "Presented to W. M. Davis by the Multinomah Bar Association, 3-30-1909." In his remarks Mr. Schnabel referred to the fact that Mr. Davis had three times refused to accept payment for his serv-lees in behalf of the association in lobby-ing at Salem. Circuit Judge Gatens, who acted as 'toastmaster, remarked that there "isn't a man in Oregon who should thank 'Pike' Davis more than himself" Mr. Schnabel also referred to Mr. Da-vis efforts in organizing the Multnomah Bar Association three years ago.

He said there has grown up a system of said there has grown up a system of railroad rates in the country which is extremely artificial. But, he confinued, in every state there is, back of the rates, a cause which, more or less, justifies them. That the railroads have duites which they owe to the public is, he said, "something which seems to be incompre-hensible to many of them." Attorney Clark said the true function of the bench is not to decide litigation, but to act as a buffer between attorneys and their clients. Yet, he said, there is
