

ASSEMBLY TICKET
INDORSING BY CLUB

South Portland Republicans Go on Record for Simon and Other Candidates.

VOTE STANDS AT 40 TO 21

Decision Follows Spirited Debate, Some Members Contending That Any Action Would Tend to Weaken Party.

Joseph Simon for Mayor and the complete ticket suggested by the Republican Assembly for nomination in the primary election were indorsed by the South Portland Republican Club last night.

The ticket was indorsed by a vote of 40 to 21 following a spirited debate. This club has a membership of 400.

In assembling the meeting W. P. Lillis, president of the club, announced that the purpose of the gathering was to determine whether or not the assembly ticket should be indorsed by the club in whole or in part.

Willis Fisher started the discussion by proposing in a motion that the entire ticket be indorsed. In support of his motion Mr. Fisher commented on the need of organization in political parties.

LAMSON CENSURES
WATER EMPLOYEES

Declares Pipeline Middle Shows Negligence or Stupidity.

INQUIRY MAY BE RESULT

Member of Water Board Says Charts Have Been Prepared for Just Such Emergency, Showing How to Close Valves.

Gross stupidity or gross negligence has been the cause of Portland having for four days to tolerate the questionable Willamette River water in place of the pure Bull Run water, according to R. Lamson, a member of the City Water Board.

Mr. Lamson considers it quite inexcusable that carelessness, haphazard methods, or lack of any method should have placed Portland in eminent danger of a typhoid epidemic.

With but reasonable common sense exercised, commented Mr. Lamson last night, the city should not have had Bull Run water shut off for longer than two hours, in fact, for so short a time that it would not have been known to anyone but those directly concerned.

The water was often being shut off for longer than this time without in any way impairing the reserve supply kept in the City Park reservoir.

Number of Turns Shown. Easily accessible to any head of department can be found a diagram of each of the valves by which the water pipes are controlled, appearing in the diagram being an explanatory chart which tells exactly the required number of turns to be given to the valve screw before it is seated.

Without a ready reference to this chart, one from the East Side and one from the West Side, said Mr. Lamson, essayed to close the valve gate at D in the accompanying diagram as D.)

By this action or lack of action on behalf of the foremen or superintendent, and by taking no count whatever of the number of turns given to the valve, before it was pronounced seated, the water was enabled to flow into the river, as indicated by the arrows in the diagram, which show the course of the flow.

No Excuse, Says Lamson. That negligence was shown in the matter, Mr. Lamson thought, lay in the fact that at Mount Tabor, where the system for the West Side, it is known that precisely 90 turns must be given to the valve to close it.

At Mount Tabor the possibility of the gate having a deposit of silt under it is being made, by the careful count made at the lock at Mill street is the question that the Water Board intends to solve.

Responsibility of Superintendent Dodge, the water engineers and the foremen involved is considered unquestioned. Mr. Lamson admitted that this might be the case as the weekly meeting of the Water Board is scheduled for Friday, when it will in all probability be taken up.

Mr. Lamson would not discuss the question as to who, if any one, would be called before the board, but his attitude left no doubt as to his meaning or as to his personal opinion in the matter.

Only One Test Made. "I can't understand why plain, reasonable commonsense cannot have been exercised," said Mr. Lamson. "I understand that after testing the gate Saturday morning, no attempt was made to test it again. It was assumed that the first test had been sufficient and presumably the matter was not of sufficient importance to the employees concerned. That is what we have to find out. I don't know for certain that the gate was tried again at the time the water was shut off from the West Side, but it does not appear that it was."

Had it been opened again and then closed it still ought to have been discovered that the proper number of turns was not given. Possibly only half or two-thirds of the gate was closed down, and it might have been found before it was discovered that the gate was not closed at all. If it had been found, an hour's work could have cleared the impediment.

The Water Board has prepared for this by having made up a chart by which the number of turns necessary to close the gates can be ascertained. It ought never, even to have been necessary for any responsible employee to refer to this supply. Why was that chart not applied to the valve levers at Mill street?

Blame Will Be Fixed. "There has been gross negligence on some one's part, and we shall find out who is to blame. That is all I want to say on that."

"Had some care been shown, no one would have known of the break of the large main, for the smaller one is quite capable of handling all the water the West Side needs. And with a proper supply of water there need have been no trouble.

"Personally, I think there has been no danger in drinking the river water, but that makes no difference. Many people object to drinking the water, and they are probably justified."

From a study of the accompanying diagram it will be seen that the water enters the main conduit as shown by the arrow at the left-hand side. The usual course of the water is through the open gate at B to an open gate at F into the West Side mains.

When the breakage in the 30-inch pipe at G occurred, the water was shut off at B, C, D and E, and the gates at B, C, D and E were closed. This would have had the effect of diverting the water through the auxiliary main A to E, and if the purpose of the gates at both A and E were thrown open, instead of being properly closed, the gate at D was improperly fastened to the groove, into which it fitted is presumed in the absence of a better explanation, to have been left the water poured by gravity into the breakage at G and into the river. The course of the water is shown by the arrows.

When Diver Stirling investigated the breakage, he was able to find only the break in the pipe. He could find no trace of any leakage in the auxiliary main, and assumed that the supposed breakage was a very small one.

Pipe Stands Steady Pressure. For days it was observed that there was a steady pressure of 20 pounds of Bull Run water in the main, leading to the belief that there was a small outlet. Engineers say with emphasis that there has been any such breakage in the main, and that the force of 20 pounds would not have been maintained for so long a time. This is said to be another clear proof of negligence on behalf of those concerned in locating the disaster.

Possibly the expression, "a muddle from start to finish," used by another person in authority, last night, expressed the matter adequately. The matter of allowing the water to flow into the river, and the dredge had it once uncovered is another question that in all probability, the Water Board will endeavor to find some solution for.

Commercial men are making public statements that had the matter been in the hands of a public utility corporation there would have been charges of absolute incompetency hurled at the officials concerned, and there would have been a number of positions vacant, it is said, in a very short while.

Struck by Logging Hook. F. L. Emerson, Injured at St. John, May Die.

F. L. Emerson, 40 years old, an employee of the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company at St. John, was perhaps fatally injured yesterday afternoon when a logging hook struck him on the head, crushing the skull at the base of the forehead.

Emerson was working on a log pile in a pond where they are hauled up into the mill by a cable. He had adjusted the cable about a load and the machinery was shut off when the chain parted and the hook at the end of it around and struck him in the head with terrific violence.

Picked up in an unconscious condition, Emerson was carried home. Last night when the seriousness of his condition became apparent, he was sent up to the city hospital, where he is being treated at the Good Samaritan Hospital in the Red Cross ambulance.
