FLOUR FOLLOWING ADVANCE IN WHEAT

Prices of Milled Product Rise Sharply in All Important Selling Points.

BAKERS' PROFITS DWINDLE

In Portland Breadmakers Will Make No Change in Size or Price of Loaves, but Reductions Are Planned in the East.

BARREL PRICES ADVANCE. Owing to the operations of the Patten campaign in wheat, flour has taken an unparalleled jump in all cities of the country. In Portland the price has risen 40 cents a bar and a similar rise has taken place in Columbus, O.; New York, Kansas City and Scattle. In Les. Angeles the price has soured $1 a barrel; in St. Paul the advance is 60 cents, and in Spokane flour is 25 cents higher a barrel.

These increases have caused bakers' profits to dwindle, and through-out the country there is talk of raising the price of bread or of cutting the size of loaves. In New York bread is 8 cents a loaf, and the Kansas City loaves have been cut Grocers all over the city advanced the price of flour 10 cents a sack yesterday, as a result of the rise of 40 cents a barrel announced by the jobbers and millers.

Flour is now being retailed at from $1.55 to $1.76 in the stores.

People who do their baking at bome will hardly notice the increased price, unless they compare it with what flour cost them a year ago, when they will find a difference of 25 cents. One year ago the retail prices were the ago the retail prices were $1.20 to $1.40 a

The majority of the residents of Port The majority of the residents of Portland, however, probably secure their bread supply from the bakers, and these will not know, from the size of the loaf and its cost, that the flour market has followed wheat in its upward flight. The bakers, unless it should be a few of the smaller ones, will make no change in the price or the weight of their product. They are carrying flour that they bought when the price was reasonable, and declare now that they will not take advantage of the public simply because the millers and wheat sellers have raised their prices.

Bakers to Stand Pat.

"We will not make any change in the price of bread and the loaves will re-main the same size as heretofore," said main the same size as heretofore," said A. R. Helssler, secretary of the Royal Bakery Company, the largest institution of its kind in the city. "We are carrying a large stock of flour and have enough to last us until November, by which time flour will be cheaper. We can see no reason for making any change in the price. We are turning out 35,000 loaves of bread each Friday and 24,000 loaves other days, and they will be of the same weight as they have been." Carl Stein, of Stein's Bakery, said his firm would make no change, regardless of the course of the flour market.

Plenty of Flour on Hand.

'We have enough flour on hand to last us until the new crop comes on and we will sell our bread as heretofore," he said.
"From all I can learn, most of the other bakers will do the same. As a general hing they carry a considerable stock of There are some small bakers, however, who only buy flour enough to do them from week to week, and these will be plached by the rise in the flour market. About the only course left open to them will be to reduce the size of the loaf.

Mr. Patten said today that even if some of the wheat were harvested early in July it would never reach Chicago, but would be snatched up by famishing millers before it gets near this city.

"Why," said Mr. Patten, "they are buying wheat out in Sumner County, Kan., right now. Do you know what that means? That's the biggest wheat producing county in the United States, and millers there have just paid $1.50 for wheat which the farmers had previously shipped out. Speculation in Winnipeg.

"It doesn't mean anything. It's a big cash market but a small one speculatively. The smaller the speculative market the wider the range of fluctuations."

What Mr. Patten says about July wheat, however, is anything but acceptable to many experienced traders. They point to the present domestic visible supply, which is reported by Bradstreets as 6,000,000 bushels in excess of the amount in sight at this time in 1908. But principally they insist that the new crop will be for sale in Chicago in abundance. In discussing his operations, Mr. Patten referred frankly to himself as a speculator as well as a grain merchant, and incidentally admitted that he is long of cotton.
