PROTEST AGAINST GRAFT.

Vigorous Criticism of Bad System of

Selling Tickets at the Ball Park. PORTLAND, April 18.—(To the Editor.)

—I wish to enter a protest (and I am sure I represent the sentiment of hundreds of loyal fans) to the system of the management of the Pacific Coast League in selling grandstand tickets and not providing a seat the purchasers.

in selling grandstand tickets and not providing a seat the purchasers. I am only one among hundreds who purchased tickets entitling them to seats in the grandstand and was present at the gate fully 15 minutes before the game started today, and was told that the grandstand was full and that only standing room in the bleachers department was our lot, and not even tendering the difference in price of the respective places.

We are loyal to our town. We are patriotic to our team, but we demand, and have a right to expect just and courteous treatment in return. If we buy a grandstand ticket to a baseball game, and do it in good faith, we have a right to be provided with a seat in that department, and if not so provided, to have at least the difference in the price returned.

It seems to me to be an imposition on good nature to expect patrons of the good nature to expect patrons of the best patronized ball team on the Coast to submit to such a practice without a protest.

FRANK GETS ONLY FALLS

Succeeds in Pinning Miller Down in Two Bouts-Some of Referee's Decisions Displease Crowd, Which Hisses Loudly.

Although Edgar Frank was the only wrestler to secure a fall, the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club won every bout on points last night despite the strenuous on points last night despite the strenuous efforts of the Salt Lake Y. M. C. A. wrestlers.

Every bout was well contested and it

Every bout was well contested and it is thought the clubmen thoroughly deserved their victory, despite the fact that some of Referes Joe Acton's decisions found scant favor with the crowd. As with the exception of the 125-pound tussie, no fall was secured, all decisions were necessarily on points, time limit and aggressiveness.

sie, no fall was secured, all decisions were necessarily on points, time limit and aggressiveness.

In the second bout in the 135-pound class E. D. Smith, of Multhomah, was meeting C. P. Evans, of Utah, and the men appeared to be on a par. The crowd was vastly tickled with the defensive tactics of Evans and applauded him prodigiously. Although for a considerable part of the time Smith was uppermost, he appeared to be somewhat afraid of the Salt Lake man and took no chances. In no case did he get a really dangerous hold and any leading that way was wriggled out of by Evans.

When Acton announced his decision for Smith on aggressiveness a storm of hisses broke out and it was some time before the announcer could call the next match. A decision in the 145-pound class was also illy received, but it appeared as if this was from just a small section of the crowd.

The first match called was in the 115-

The first match called was in the H5-bound class, Fred A. Crabbe, of Sait cake, meeting Edward Mills. After 20 bound class, Fred A. Crabbe, of Sait Lake, meeting Edward Mills. After 20 minutes a decision was given on aggressiveness. In the second bout Mills went after Crabbe in great shape, finally securing a hammerlock. When it appeared as if another moment would see Crabbe with both shoulders on the mat time was called and the fall awarded on both points and aggressiveness to Mills. The best match of the evening was furnished in the 125-pound class when Edgar Frank stood up against C. M. Miller, the 125-pound champion of Utah. Frank was so thoroughly popular that he received a regular ovation each time he took the mat. He was never really pressed by Miller in the first bout, securing the first fall with body scissors. In the second tryout in the same class Miller made a better showing. Frank tried for a toe hold and half Nelson and succeeded, but Miller got out in good shape. A repetition of the hold had the same result shape. A repetition of the hold had the same result, and while trying again for same result, and while trying again for the hold, Frank switched to a half scissors and hammerlock. With this he threw Miller, but had some difficulty even then in forcing the doughty little Y. M. C. A. man to the mat.

Dell Judd, of Salt Lake, encountered William Dennie, of Mulmomah, in the 145-pound class. This was a capitally contested match and although Dennis was on the offensive all the time, the remarkable manner in which Judd and remarkable manner in which Judd got out of the worst possible holds stamped him as being a capable opponent. Although Dennis thoroughly deserved his award, it is doubtful if he would have succeeded in throwing Judd at all, such was the ability of the latter on defensive tactics. Dennis got first a body scissors which he could not hold. Obtaining a toe hold and half scissors, he was steadily forcing Judd to the mat, when the latter rolled completely over and forced Dennis to bridge. He was award-ed a storm of cheers. Dennis then tried with a toe hold and hammerlock and Judd got out of this by a clever hold in the crotch. Time and again the men were forced to bridge and in this position the bout was given to Multnomah on time and aggressiveness.

In the second bout Dengts got a had

In the second bout Dennis got a bad body scissors which Judd evaded, and the men spent much of the time bridg-ing, Judd several times uppermost, yet unable to get a decent hold. Points and aggressiveness were the grounds of the award to Dennis.

Frank Watkins, of Multnomah, and Harker, of Salt Lake Y. M. C. A., were imers. timers. A gold medal was awarded to the winner of each match and a silver the winner of each match and a silver cup was presented by Jack Coffman to the winning team. This passes into the hands of Multnomah, as each bout was awarded to the clubmen.

THE BIRTH OF BURLINGTON

Amid public acclaim and with the enthusiastic endorsement of more than 1200 people who made the initial trip on Sunday over the lines of the UNITED RAILWAYS to BURLINGTON, the first terminal of this new transportation system, Portland's new-born industrial neighbor received her baptism of popular approval. There were signs of activity on every side. Eighty men were toiling with all their might of brawn to make clear for the day's visitors the winding paths leading to vantage points throughout the townsite. Gangs of workers were grubbing, slashing and clearing underbrush from sites whereon some day in the near future will be erected fine homes, and leveling to the ground small trees and shrubs in places wherein the hum of birds will soon be replaced by the whir and rumble of machinery. Throughout the day, which was perfection, the crowds of visitors enjoyed themselves about the beautiful spaces of the coming eity, gazed enraptured on the five snow-capped mountain peaks which were plainly visible, and with fanciful interest located in their mind's eye varied industrial features, which, to them, seemed most suitable for the sites they picked.

More than 300 lots have been sold for the location of business and residential structures in BURLINGTON. A representative of the Ruth Trust Company will be glad any day to escort persons interested in the new industrial city and to show them the wonderful possibilities of BURLINGTON, which are so easily apparent to visitors.

BURLINGTON, the industrial city, today offers the most tempting openings for opportune investment in commercial ventures that can be found in Western America. From the start it will be the city with a payroll.
