Lions, Elephants and Rhinoceri Fairly Crowd Forests in Path of Hunting Party-New House or Roosevelt Entertainment.

MOMBASA, B. E. A., April 19.-A cablegram has been received here from Theodore Roosevelt, changing his original plan not to stop in Mombasa on his way to the ranch of Sir Alfred Pease, on the Athi River, Mr. Roosevelt has accepted the invitation extended to him by the Mombasa Club to attend a dinner, and will stay ten days on the Coast before going up country. The new house at Sig Alfred's ranch has been completed and Mr. Roosevelt will be entertained there.

Natives are coming into Mombasa from all parts of the country to witness the disembarkation of the "Great White Chief." Baron Tallien de Vizek, a famous Hungarian hunter, who has just passed through Mombasa, says that big game prospects are still good on the route recently taken by him. Common antelope and zebra are plentiful, but when stalking clands and gnu on the plains at the foot of Mount Dwiniaro, in was much interfered with by rhinoc-

The report of a record group of llons on the Nandi plateau and elephants in Enburgen forests is now confirmed. If Mr. Roosevelt's party has to take in the Nandi and Enburgen districts and the Athl and Tana rivers, they will need to cover many hundreds of miles of stiff marching, continuing many weeks, dur-ing which there will be little snooting.

Bainbridge's Insanity Caused by Criticism From Superiors.

PARIS. April 19.—(Special.)—The suicide Saturday of William E. Bainbridge, confidential agent of the United States Treasury Department in Paris, details of which were published have for the first time today, greatly shocked the American colony, but created little surprise in certain other quarters, where, despite the denials of Assistant Secretary Reynolds, it was well known that Bainbridge was all but driven insane by continual telegrams from Washington reproaching him for not keeping a strict enough surveillance on French goods, particularly dresses and jewely, consigned to New York.

Bainbridge, who was already overworked and neurasthenic, took the animadversions so seriously that they bemadversions so seriously that they became exaggerated in his mind, with the result that he fell a victim to the idea that he was being persecuted. "We shall see some interesting developments this Summer," said an intimate friend of Bainbridge today. Bainbridge killed himself through dementia, brought on by oversealous service to an unappreciative government. Other members of the edifying spying system may have builets put through their heads by hands other than their own if the beautiful sleuth-bound system at Washington is put through, for it already is leading to resentment on one side and ultimate despair on the other, of which Bainbridge's unhappy end is only a first sign."

State Board Finds Scab Is Nearly Eradicated in Oregon Flocks.

OUTLOOK IS VERY BRIGHT

Better Prices Prevail for Wool and Mutton Than in Years, According to Report of Secretary. Officers Are Chosen.

Matters of state-wide interest to Oregon sheepmen were brought up and discussed by the State Board of Sheep Commissioners at their annual meeting, held yesterday morning and afternoon in the Oregon Hotel. This board consists of Charles Cleveland, from the First District: A. L. Mackintosh, of Paulina, representing the Second District, and Dan P. Smythe, of Pendleton, of the Third District. Dr. S. W. McClure, inspector of Animal Industry for Oregon. Washington and Idaho, with headquarters at Pendleton, and Dr. W. H. Lytle, State Sheep Inspector, of Matters of state-wide interest to H. Lytle, State Sheep Inspector, of Pendleton, were also present. A. L. McIntosh was re-elected president and Dan P. Smythe was re-elected secretary. Dr. W. H. Lytle was appointed State Sheep Inspector to succeed himself.

According to the report of Secretary Smythe, prospects for Oregon sheepmen are very encouraging. This report brought out the fact that prices for wool and mutton are better than for some time, that there are approximately 270,000 sheep in Oregon; that the wool crop will aggregate between 17,000,000 and 18,000,000 pounds; that the fleeces from the shearing now in progress are of good quality, unbroken and above the average of previous years; that lambing is in progress in Eastern Oregon and about finished in the Willamette Valley, and that the outlook for these is big and the percentage greater than last year.

In regard to the condition of the sheep, the inspectors showed they are healthier than for years. Inspectors McClure and Lytle reported only

In regard to the condition of the sheep, the inspectors showed they are healthier than for years. Inspectors Lytle was instructed to preheat than for years. Inspectors McClure and Lytle reported only a very few cases of scab found in the last few months within the state, and those which have been found have been ordered to be treated by some recognized dip. The state has been carefully inspected by both Federal and state officials and upon the showing made by them, the State Board Issued a proclamation declaring the annual dipping for 1909 is not necessary.

The law of 1907, in regard to dipping, known as the Slusher bill, required that all sheep within the state be dipped at least once during each year with some standard dip between April 1 and August 1. At that time there were 260,000 scabby sheep in Oregon. However, the law provides that whenever the Board of Sheep Commissioners regards the sheep of the state as free from infectious or conta-gious diseases, it shall have the power to declare such annual dipping not required and such declaration shall be made by proclamation. Owing to the healthy condition of the flocks it was thought un ecessary to require the sheep to be dipped this year.

It was found that in the Willamette Valley especially, sheep are afflicted with lice and in several instances losses have resulted from this pest, it is urged that all flock masters dip the sheep to kill these as there have been complaints from these, as there have been complaints from Eastern Oregon and Idaho of lousy bucks, and unless sheep are kept rid of the parasites, the buyers will be reli to come to the Valley to purchase. Further, according to Sec. Smythe's report, sheep in the Willamette Valley and west of the Cascade Mountains are troubled with intestinal trou-bles, including liver flukes or leaches, causing considerable loss and making it almost impossible to raise sheep in certain paris of the Valley. State Sheep Inspector Lytle was instructed to prepare a bulletin on prevalent diseases, including scab, lice, etc., among sheep in Coreconnections.
