"Speck" Harkness was delegated to retrieve the lost fortunes of the Portland tossers yesterday afternoon, and despite the fact that the fair control of the second of the second was down and out.

Harkness was touched up hard once or twice, but he was the "candy kid" when it came to pinches, while Portland clouted it came to pinches, while Portland clouted Hosp at opportune intervals and registered more than enough tallies to credit the game on the right side of the score sheet. Harkness must have won the hearts of several of the fair ones, for some of them yelled so justily that their vocal cords were undoubtedly strained. On top of all the glory attached to Highland 5; Vernon 1.

In an exciting game Highland defeates the score of 5 to 1. In the third inning the first run was made by Highland and the score remained 1 to 9 until the last of the seventh when Highland's pitcher became wild and walked a man who scored on errors. That tied the game. In the eighth inning Crump, Vernon's crack pitcher went up in the air and Highland got in four more runs. Lute Newgent, Highland's third baseman did the star playing in the infield, while Bateman did good work in the box. Crump, for Vernon, fanned out 13 men.

The game was really one of those contests which keep the nerves tingling, even though it was a free hitting match, and more than the average number of runs were scored. The first Angel up, Daley, gets credit for a bingle, and while Howard dumped to second on a sacrifice, the next two "wing sprouters" could not connect. Walter McCredie opened the second inning, the one which sent the fans, fair and otherwise, into ecstacles of delight, and got a single because Jud Smith ruissed a bad bound. Johnson rapped safely to center, Breen bunted to Wheeler, and Smith muffed George's throw, allowing the bases to become populated. Kennedy then laced one over Smith's head and McCredie and Johnson scored, but Edwas morgued at second trying to stretch the hit, while Breen took third. Armbruster walked and Hosp contributed a wild pitch, which scored Breen and sent "Buster" to second. Harkness flew to right, but Buddy Ryan doubled to left, scoring Armbruster. Olson's out ended the inning.
