

BAILEY TO TALK ON INCOME TAX

Extended Debate Expected on Tariff Bill Amendment in Senate.

MAY TAX $2500 SALARIES

Question of Revenue Produced by Payne Will Decide Senators on Need of Taxation of Incomes.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The income tax, in connection with the tariff bill, will receive special attention in the Senate this week. It was announced today by Senator Bailey, who has introduced an amendment to the bill providing for a flat rate of taxing incomes, would make a long speech Monday on this feature.

The committee on finance probably will report its final amendment to the tariff schedules tomorrow, and as soon as the opportunity permits the Senate will consider the bill paragraph by paragraph, taking them up in the order that the items during the reading last week were laid aside for future consideration.

The Democratic opinion is that the bill will remain in the Senate for three or four weeks, and after the Senate completes its work the time of adjournment will be changed.

Frequent utterances by President Taft expressing the hope that Congress will hasten the passage of the tariff bill that business may be restored to its normal condition may postpone the real test of strength over the income tax proposition. Sentiment of the Senate is pretty evenly divided on the matter, but there are many differences of opinion as to details of the legislation.

GRESAP'S SCALP SOUGHT

CHURCHES ASK COUNCIL TO REMOVE POLICEMAN.

Vancouver Officer Accused of Saying He Would Not Arrest Man Who Disturbed Shannon.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 25.—(Special.)—A petition to be presented to the City Council, demanding the discharge of Ira Gresap, policeman of this city, was read by the pastors of the Baptist, Methodist, Christian and Presbyterian churches at the morning service today, because, it is alleged, Gresap made remarks about Dan Shannon, a revivalist, who recently held a series of meetings in a tabernacle in Vancouver.

The petition alleges that Gresap, "in the presence of Claude Crawford, W. B. Body, A. E. Betts, F. E. Woods and others, said, (Shannon) ought to be tarred and feathered and ducked in the Columbia River; he is nothing but a four-flusher of the worst type and a grafter; I would not arrest the man who threw stones at the tabernacle if I knew who he was."

The petition goes on to say: "We believe such conduct on the part of the police officer is a disgrace to that his influence is a great detriment to the cause of decency and of law and order in this community, and that he is not worthy to be on the police force of this city."

MARKET TONE IS CHEERFUL

Wall Street Feels Stimulus in General Business World.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The developments last week were regarded as distinctly favorable from a financial standpoint. The effect was to stimulate renewed demand for securities sufficient to outweigh the disadvantages in the technical position in the stock market and to turn the price movement upward again.

A more cheerful feeling in the general market was another factor in the general mental factor in shaping the financial view. Evidences multiplied of the expansion of business in the iron and steel trade. Chairman Garry informed the United States Steel stockholders that about the volume of the December rate.

Reports of the growth of the general merchandise movement and increase of railroad traffic were more conservative, although incoming reports of railroad earnings showed gratifying comparisons with last year. The money market gave evidence that the period of pletoric conditions was ending.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY IN WHITLA KIDNAPING CASE, WHOSE PAST OFFICERS ARE STILL TRYING TO UNRAVEL.

MRS. JAMES BOYLE

YORK BADLY NEEDED

Man Who Eloped With Boyle's Supposed Wife Hunted.

AID IN KIDNAPERS' TRIAL

If Imprisoned Woman Is Not Wife of Boyle, She Will Be Made to Give Testimony Against Him in Whitla Case.

CHICAGO, April 25.—(Special.)—

George B. Perkins, Ira Kepner and six men of the Perkins Detective Agency, Pittsburgh, Pa., have been in Chicago for two days, ransacking the Northwest side in search of Frank A. York, formerly of 876 Sheffield avenue, who is declared by detective Perkins to have run away with Anna McDermott, the supposed wife of James Boyle, in jail with her husband at Mercer, Pa., awaiting trial for kidnaping Willie Whitla.

The success of the case now pending in the State of Pennsylvania, with orders to run down York at any cost, information having been lodged with the prosecuting officers that Mrs. Boyle was never divorced from York and therefore is not the wife of Boyle, as she has asserted since her arrest.

The success of the case now pending against Mrs. Boyle for complicity in the kidnaping with Boyle, is said by the men working in search for York, to depend wholly on his being found, since if it can be proved that the young woman is not Boyle's wife, she can be compelled to testify against her putative husband.

It was through former friends of Anna McDermott that the clew to York's whereabouts was obtained. In addition, W. W. McDermott, Jr., admitted to a detective that the man Anna eloped with in 1906 was Frank A. York, the Jefferson City politician.

MAXINE ELLIOT DANCES

DOES FRIVOLOUS STUNT IN HER NEW PLAY.

Entirely Unsullied to Her Style and Although "The Conquest" Is Good, She Is Out of Place.

LONDON, April 25.—(Special.)—Louis Waller and Miss Maxine Elliott began their much-talked-of London engagement last night at the Lyric Theater in a play called "The Conquest." It is founded on one of Balzac's stories and is by no means a poor or weak play. If it does not succeed, the fault will not be entirely with the play. The actors will deserve a few unkind words. Barring Mr. Waller's part and that of Miss Frances Dillon, the other roles were not well suited to the people who interpreted them.

MAYBRAY TELLS STORY

DENIES EMPHATICALLY HE IS "JIM" McCANN.

Reviews His Life History and Charges Accuser, Mrs. Gates, With Being Insane.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 25.—"I am not Jim McCann. I've been charged with about everything since my arrest, and I will say that Mrs. Lillian Gates, who accuses me, is insane."
This was J. C. Maybray's answer tonight to the assertion of the St. Louis woman that Maybray was the supposed murderer of St. Louis horseman Maybray told the story of his life.
"I was born in Mississippi," he said. "I was a cattle-puncher on the plains of Wyoming with Mayor Dahman, of Omaha, during the early '80s, until '88, going to Chadron, Neb., where I became a horseman. In 1891 I went to Galveston, and to Kansas City in 1895, and learned the printer's trade. From 1896 to 1901 I ran a rooming-house in Omaha. Then I went to Kansas City, which is now my home. At the time of McCann's murder, in June, 1903, I was in Kansas City. That July I went to Denver and was there six weeks. In 1904 I went to Tacoma, Wash., and then back to Kansas City. In 1904 I was married to my present wife at Excelsior Springs, Mo. I never knew McCann, and never saw him."

NORTH WILL NOT RESIGN

Director of Census in Difficulties Over Administration.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—S. N. D. North, director of the Census Bureau, whose differences with Secretary Nagle over the administration of Census Bureau have resulted in several conferences between the secretary and President Taft, said tonight it was not now his purpose to resign.

The question whether the Secretary shall have full or divided authority over the census office, which in a measure formerly has been run independently by the directors, is involved.

Several of Mr. North's friends in Congress will confer with the President, probably tomorrow, in regard to the matter and it is also stated that Mr. North may have the opportunity of learning of his standing with the President.

PEDDLING STOLEN GOODS

Stranger Who Can't Explain Where He Got Wares Is Arrested.

WOODBURN, Or., April 25.—(Special.)—Marshals Mosherberg and Kelsey today imprisoned a man named Rice, who was peddling shoes and cigars. He did not give a satisfactory account of the possession of these goods and was arrested. Twelve pairs of shoes and a box containing cigars were found hidden in different parts of the town. It is supposed he robbed a freight car a few days ago, cached the goods and came back Saturday to dispose of them.

BETRAYED SCHOOLGIRL IS CHARGE.

BURNS, Or., April 25.—(Special.)—Pee Carpenter is under arrest here accused of betraying Christina Tackman, a high school girl. The girl alleges that she was spirited from home several months ago by Carpenter. She returned last week and told her story. The arrest of Carpenter followed.

GROOM IS 19; BRIDE 64

"I'LL GIVE HIM HIS OWN WAY," SHE DECLARES.

Knows He Loves Her and Has No Fear of His Seeking Out Company Among Younger Ones.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 25.—(Special.)—When Turner Acton, 19-year-old bridegroom, wants his own way, his bride, who was Mrs. Sarah Anne Montemart, 64 years old, won't quarrel or threaten or pout, she says. She will "coax" him. And the gentle art of coaxing, in the opinion of the venerable bride, will keep peace and happiness at the hearth where she and her boy husband shall sit.

"Neither husband nor wife ought to be 'boss,'" says Mrs. Acton, whose hair is white. "I won't expect to run our home and I know Turner will not—especially if I coax him."

Mr. and Mrs. Acton are still in their honeymoon and are furnishing a "rot" in the western part of Columbia. They have been boarding since their marriage with an aunt of the bridegroom on West Broadway.

con't marrying young girls, says Mrs. Acton, who is old enough to be her own husband's grandmother, and who, in fact, is a grandmother. "and I have known marriages like that to turn out unhappily, the wife seeking men companions of her own age."

"But I don't worry one minute about my Turner. I feel sure he loves me just as much as I love him. I know he is true, worthy and honorable, and I'm not in the least afraid of his ever getting tired of me and running after young girls."

"I don't see why our marriage should have stirred up such a commotion. Why, there's been a newspaper man here almost every day, and the newspapers all over the country have been writing about us. I even got a letter from a sister of mine in Fort Worth, Tex., whom I had not heard from in 20 years. She'd read of the wedding."

"If Turner and I wanted to get married I don't see that anybody else need bother about it. The marriage was our affair. He didn't have any home and neither did I, and we loved each other. Wasn't that reason enough to marry? I don't think it makes a particle of difference that I'm past 60 and he's not yet 20. Age hasn't anything to do with love."

"I'm sure he'll be good to me as long as I live, and I know I'll try to be the best wife I can to him. It's a pleasure now to fix his lunch for him when he goes out for the day's work."

WOMAN HIS "SOULMATE"

BRANDENBURG NOT LEGALLY MARRIED TO MRS. CABANNE.

Flaw in Divorce From First Wife Will Be Rectified, He Says. Tangled in Misstatements.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—(Special.)—Broughton Brandenburg seems to have involved himself in a maze of lies, and every day he has to admit discrepancies in his statements.

He claimed when arrested that Mrs. Cabanne, of St. Louis, was his wife, but now he admits she did not get a divorce until December, 1906, in British Honduras, although he said he married her there in October of that year. When taxed with this discrepancy, Brandenburg said that, though not legally married to the woman, she was morally his wife and his real "soulmate" and he loved her young son as though the boy were his own.

He said there was a technical legal flaw in regard to the divorce from his first wife, but that it would be rectified.

Little Jimmy Cabanne expresses the greatest love for his stepfather and declares he does not wish to go back to his grandmother in St. Louis.
