AUDITOR BARBUR CHECKS UP LISTS

Thirty-two Candidates for 11 Places Found to Have Qualified.

Rushlight's Following Believed to Be Deserting to McDonell-Kellaher's Faction Uncertain Element.

Deputies in the office of City Auditor Barbur yesterday completed checking the ninating petitions of the various candidates for the Republican nominations in the approaching primary election. It in the approaching primary election. It was found that every one of the 32 candidates for the 11 nominations to be made in the primaries had qualified by filing petitions signed by the requisite number of registered voters. Before the checking of his petition could be completed yesterday. Alfred Bouthillier, who had filed as a candidate for nomination for Councilman from the Third Ward, retired from the field, leaving the contest in that ward to G. D. Dunning, incumbent of the office, and E. C. Mears, choice of the recent Republican assembly. As a result there will be submitted to the Republican voters of the city a total of 31 candidates for the 11 nominations that are to be made.

The 31 aspirants are out for the following offices: Mayor, one to be nominated—A. A. Balley, C. E. McDonell, A. G. Rushlight and Joseph Simon.

Councilman, Tenth Ward, one to be nominated—C. H. Beard, Dr. L. M. Davis, M. F. Donahoe, Joseph T. Ellis, Ronald P. McDonald, William H. Payne, J. J. Walter and Sam L. Woodward.

Of the various candidates for the Mayoralty nomination. Earley is prophable the oralty nomination, Balley is probably the most active. He insists he has a chance to win and resents the suggestion that he will be obliged to take last money in any race in which Simon and Rushiight are his opponents. Balley is not sparing a moment from his candidacy. He is as busy as the proverbial bes and has the Hermann handshake reduced to a science. As a resident of the East Side he says As a resident of the East Side he says he will divide that vote with Rushlight and as for the labor vote insists that Rushlight does not have a cinch on that support by any means. In his campaign Bailey will attack both Simon and Rushlight and by doing so expects to gather into his fold some of the strength that otherwise would go to atther of the otherwise would go to either of the two. Bailey expects to address a body of organized labor people tonight and will speak before an audience of voters at Woodlawn Thursday night. Supporters of Rushlight discovered yesterday that Republicans, who were sup-posed to be lined up for the East Side Councilman, are openly supporting Mc-Councilman, are openly supporting McDonell. This came as a surprise to the Rushlight people. They had been counting on the general support of Rushlight by those Republicans who opposed the assembly plan of nominating candidates.

This strength, which is lined up with McDonell, includes men who are close friends of Senator Kellaher.

The surprise to the Rusningat people is the greater for the reason that they had been relying on the support of Kellaher's friends in the primary contest in accord-ance with an alleged understanding to that effect reported to exist between Rushlight and Kellaher. The Rushlight-Kellaher compact is said to have contemplated the support of Rushlight by Kellaher in the primary with the under-standing that should Rushlight fall of the primary nomination, he and his friends in turn would rally to the support of Kellaher as an independent candidate in the general election in June.

AYER WRITES OPEN LETTER

Advises Republicans Against Making

Primary Law Issue. The following letter was given out last night by W. B. Ayer;

PORTLAND, Or., April 26.—To the Members of the Republican Party of the State of Oregon—Gentlemen: From the accounts in the press of the banquet given last Saturday evening in honor of ex-Sensitor Fulion, one is impressed by the fact of all the speakers laying such great stress on the necessity of a united party, and the part that is played by party in a republican form of government; also by the insinuations that the direct primary law is reaponable for the lack of party harmony in this state.

can form of government; also by the insinuations that the direct primary law is responsible for the lack of party harmony in this state.

As to the necessity of a harmonicus party I entirely agree. It is not susceptible of argument, but is self evident. But to my mind it is equally self evident that the disruption of the Ropublican party satisfacts the direct primary law by at least 15 years; consequently, that law is not the cause of the present disorganization. In the past, the disruption has affected the election of Senators, Governors, Judges of the Supreme Court, Mayors of our cities and every elective offoce, yet the state is overwhelmingly Republican. The state is overwhelmingly Republican on honorable, the other dishonorable.

In a new state, constantly increasing in population, the other dishonorable of the state of the state of the content of the population. The character and fitness of men for public office must be found cut, and when it has been ascertained that they are unfit it is proper to purge the party of them. Or, when men attempt to use party purely for their own selfish or dishonorable ends, it is necessary to abandon them.

Again, when a party adopts a policy that is distinctly wrong in the minds of many of its members, it is justifiable to vote against it. An example of this was given when many men left the Democratic party at the time it adopted the policy of free silver.

All the above conditions have existed in when many men left the Democratic party at the time it adopted the policy of free silver.

All the above conditions have existed in Oregen to an unusual extent, but a more vital cause has been born of a meaner spirit. I refer to the jealous rivalry of the leaders of the party—the spirit of ruis or ruin. I will not at this time enumerate the examples. They have been fiagrant and well understood, and have not been forgotten. Why, then, this desire to attribute te the direct primary law the disaristration of the Republican party? Is not the real reason occasioned by the disantifaction of many members of the party with the men who have secured office under it? The Republican voters of the state enacted the laws by overwhelming maniorities, and yet the leaders of the state enacted the laws by overwhelming maniorities, and yet the leaders of the state enacted the laws by overwhelming maniorities, and yet the leaders of the state enacted the maintenance of the party by placing themselves in antagonism to it, made possible the election of men whom they elected because they considered the maintenance of the law more important than the success of any man.

In my indigment, it is extremely unwise to further disrupt the Republican party by making the direct primary law an lesue, sand it becomes an issue within the party whenever attempts are made to nullify it by doing those things that are in direct conflict with the spirit of it. The gist of the law, as I comprehend it. In gist of the law, as I comprehend it. In gist of the law, as I comprehend it. In gist of the law, as I comprehend it. In gist of the law, as I comprehend it. In gist of the every man shall have an equal chance with every other man in selecting the candidates of his party. If conventions are to be held in advance of the primaries, who is to select the delegates to the convention? Does not the answer to this question inevitably bring us back to the condition that existed before the enactment of the law, and which was so overwhelmingly repudiated by the voters of the state? Cannot the leaders of the party understand that when they select, or cause to be selected, delegates to a convention, the rank and file of the party feel that they have had no voice in nominating the candidates and that the nominees of the convention enter the primaries with the advantage of an indorsement, and that it would be claimed that other candidates were attempting to disrupt the party by placing themselves in opposition to the orsanization.

The direct primary haw as it stands is the law of the state. Why is it not wiser it, after a fair trial (which it has never had), it is found wanting, submit the needed amendments to the voters of the state? A temporary advantage may be gained by attempts to violate the law, but party harmony and a united Republican party will not come about by such methods. No attempt has as yet been made by the party as a whole to try it out. It has not as yet been accepted by all the leaders of the party, and yet it is the law, and until such time as it is naturally accepted it will be the issue by which many undesirable men will secure office. Let us have a united party, but united in upholding the law and not in desironing it.

Much more might be said. I have only attempted in a brief and hurried way to suggest what I believe to be the fundaments.

Yours truly, W. B. AYER.

Owner of Perkins Said to Have Made Offer for Third and Washington Corner as Site for New Skyscraper.

There is a possibility, and in fact a probability, that the Ladd Estate Company is not liself to build at the northwest corner of Third and Washington streets, as was announced some weeks ago. A deal has developed that may relieve the company from the task of putting up the big office structure on its own account, but will still provide for the completion of the building as originally intended.

Information was obtained yesterday that Colonel Z. S. Spalding, owner of the Perkins Hotel property, had made an offer to buy the corner and to put an offer to buy the corner and to put up a building that would provide quar-ters on the first floor for occupancy by the bank.

It was learned further that Colonel Spaiding had negotiated a loan with an Eastern insurance company in suf-ficient amount to furnish what funds he requires in addition to his available capital to buy the land and build the 10-story office structure.

Mr. Spalding is in Southern California and is expected to be in Portland in a few weeks. The lessees of the Perkins said last night that they are not informed of the plant of the perkins and the second that they are not informed of the plans of the owner of that building, but added that other rumors to the effect that the Hawalian capitalist intends to buy the corner of Fourth and Stark and build an annex to the hotel are not founded on fact, for the reason that the owners of that corner will not sell.

It is known by infimate acquaintances of Mr. Spalding that he has great confidence in Portland realty and some of them say that it would be no matter of surprise if he had made the offer to the Ladd Estate Company. Officers of the estate company are reticent concerning the deal, saying that it is contrary to the policy of the company to announce prospective transactions in which it is interested. At the same time they did not deny that some such deal as that for the Washington-street corner had been brought up and was being considered but no definite conclusion had been

Tenants of the stores and offices in the Ladd corner are preparing to move out, which leads to the conclusion that whether Colonel Spalding or the es-tate company is to erect the building, work on the demolition of the present structures will start in the near future

DEAL ON FOR MARQUAM LOTS

Seventh-Street Corner May Be Sold for $200,000.

Negotiations are pending for the purchase of the remaining corner of the old Marquam property. The piece now being figured on is the southeast corner of Seventh and Alder, which has 60 feet on Alder and 125 feet on Seventh. This includes the vacant lot between the corner frame building and the main Marquam frame building and the main Marquam building. There is an alleyway of 15 feet surrounding the theater building, that stands between the two corner buildings on Alder.

Preliminary plans for the Ben Selling ling, that is to be erected on the southwest corner of Sixth and Alder, have been prepared, but in the absence of Mr. Selling's associates in the enterprise, he does not care to announce what these plans embrace. It is understood the intention is to erect a 10-story office build-ing, with stores on the first floor, the building to be strictly Class A.

Strict Regulation of Sale of Liquor Proposed Law for Private Control Is Keynote of McKenna Measure.

Would Create Monopoly for Ten Years.

THE excise board law, if submitted to and adopted by the voters of Portland, would end the retail bottle trade of the wholesalers, prevent the brewers from selling direct to private customers, put the rathskellars out of business, increase the retail liquor license fee, make licenses harder to get and saloons less attractive to visitors. Directors Criticise System Under Health Department, but Do Not Take Action.

Owing to the absence of Messrs. Wittenberg and Beach, no matters of moment were passed upon at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education. Near the close of the session Clerk Thomas offered to read an anonymous communication to the Board criticizing the methods of the health inspectors. The letter was not read, but in the discussion which followed the presentation of the matter it was evident that the members of the Board were unanimously of the opinion that the inspectors in question should be under the control of the Board of Education and not under the Board of of Education and not under the Board of Health.

Many instances were related to show that the present system is far from satisfactory. It was decided to consider the matter again at the next meeting, but it was apparent that some effort will be made next year to have the school inspectors under the authority of the school board.

Pacific Bridge Company Escapes Penalty for Delay.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE ACTS

Decide Deduction of $3600 on Big Fill Contract Voted Executive Board Not Justified.

The Pacific Bridge Company won a big victory over Mayor Lane and the City Executive Board, and especially the members of the street committee of the Board, when the judiciary committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon recommended that the fine of $3600 against the corporation be refunded. This action will probably be sating against the corporation be re-funded. This action will probably be ratified by the Council, at its session tomorrow morning. The fine was lev-ied by the Executive Board for delin-

R. J. Debour, a "small" contractor, put in his appeal for the refunding of $120 first, and this request was granted. He was represented by Abe Tichner, who explained that DeBour is "a poor man," and unable to employ a lawyer. "Because of the fact that he is not able to spend money for a lawyer, I agreed to appear for him, and make a talk in his behalf," said Mr.
Tichner, who is a money broker.

The Pacific Bridge Company was represented by ex-City Attorney L. A.

In the case of DeBour it was Councilman Vaughn, Democrat and Lane supporter, who moved to refund the fine, but in the case of the larger corporation, Mr. Vaughn declined to vote with the majority, Messors. Bennett and Cellars. He said he "will think it over a while."

The plea of the Pacific Bridge Company is that it was unjustly dealt with when the Executive Board fixed the time for the large fill in question at two months, when it should have been about two years. The work could not be done by any contractor in the time specified, it was said, and because of the alleged severity of the Board in levying the fine, the committee decided to recommend that the money be refunded.
