BY W. J PETRAIN.

In the face of a biting cold wind, the Portland hopefuls and league leaders succumbed to the onslaught of the San Francisco Seals yesterday and dropped the opening game of what promises to be a red-hot series to Kid Mohler's cutfit by the score of 10 to 0. The overwhelming defeat was not due entirely to the efforts of the speedy visitors from the "quake" belt, but much of it can be attributed to the rotten work of the Portland team.

Out of an even dozen players used by Fortland, about three can be said to have played baseball all the time, and there three are Right Fielder Speas. Ed Kennedy and Catcher Jimmy Sheehan, who played his first game yesterday. He was sent in to take Armbruster's place when Manager McCredie changed pitchers. The balance of the team played like a bunch of old maids at a frolic. In fact, the judgment used by some of the players would have shamed a bunch of the would have shamed a bunch of the Grammar School kids had they been

At that Fortland had little chance to win with young Browning pitching gilt-edged ball. But even though beaten, there was absolutely no reason to display the yellow flag, as some of the ball-tossers fild yesterday.

Graney's Support Missing.

Graney's Support Missing.

Jack Graney, the crack southpaw, was saved specially to open against the Seals, and one run in 4he first and a flock of them in the second is what S. F. did to him. However, all of this is not directly attributable to Graney, for his support had several more leaks than the average sprinkling cart or sleve. And the outfield, that is that part of the outfield designated as left and center, might just as well have been minus players for all that was accomplished by Ort and Ryan.

Rolly Zeider, who is playing third base this season, has started off in a whirlwind fashion, and if he keeps up half this lick, he promises to make Olson look like he is lashed to the mast. Rolly figured largely in the downfall of Portland, and his three clean hits helped the Seal score considerably.

It was this speedy player who opened the initial canto with a bifflet to right Kid Mohler did the give-up act, sending Zeiger to second. Rony then stole third successfully and registered when Jack Graney contributed a wild pitch. That one lone tally did not look so very big, but the happenings in the next inning are simply awful to relate.

Score Almost at Will.

Batterles-Moren and Dooin; Mathewson, Raymond and Schlel UmpiresRigler and Truby. Harry Melchior was the first man up and Graney had enough on the ball to set him down on three whiffs. Jimmy Will-iams no relation to Nick, wafted at two and then succeeded in fouling off the good ones long enough to be passed. Berry hit an easy one to Olson, who had great difan easy one to Olson, who had great difficulty in picking up the ball. This was due to Olson's anxiety to start the ball to Breen on what should have been a double play, and which resolved itself into fizzle No. 1, Berry and Williams being safe. Boy McArdle, whose usual batting proclivities result in a couple of fouls a game, caught one on the beak, and because Ryan and Ort thought they were spelders instead of outfielders, the long infielders instead of outfielders, the long high fly went to the fence, chasing in two runs and putting McArdle on third. Browning scraped one past Johnson for a hit, scoring McArdle, and when Zeider sent another over the heads of the out-fielders. McCredie Detricked Graney and sent in Carson. With Browning on third and Zeider on second. Mohler hit one past Johnson, which Olson hooked and threw the "Kid" out at first, but while this play the "Kid" out at first, but while this play was being completed. Browning scored casily. To the astonishment of the Portland players, who had probably never seen it done before, Zelder followed the pitcher over the plate on the same play. If there had been a runner on first he would have done likewise, for the Portland players couldn't have thrown a base-runner out yesterday if they had cherished the most keen desire to do so. This made five runs for the luning and six all told.

Before laving down for road McCodicional cases of the portland of the players of the luning and six all told.

men managed to keep the Seals from touching the register again for four in-nings, but this was due chiefly to Jerry Sheehan behind the plate, for he worked Carson cleverly. In the seventh Zeider's third hit, Tennant's triple and "Ping" Bodie's single gave two more runs. Er-rors by Olson and Breen and Mohler's fluke double sent two more runs home in the minth, which made the Seals' por-tion 10 to Portland's 0.

Players Need Some Advice.

Those of the faithful who braved the chilling wind during the entire game are not likely to go again soon unless the weather man turns on the heater, for it is bad enough to see the Portland bunch throw up their hands without being frozen to death. If Portland expects to get an even break on this series Walter Mc-Credle will have to read the riot act to the entire team, and after he finishes he should repeat the speech often enough to convince some of the players that it is necessary to play baseball and not pingong when the Seals are the invaders.
