BIG CROWDS ARE PRESENT

Awards Will Be Completed Tonight and Bench Show Will Close With Presentation of Cups to Winners Tomorrow.

Dog-lovers by the hundreds attended the bench show of the Portland Kennel yesterday afternoon and last night at the exhibition room, First and Washington streets, over the public market. The large room in which the quarters are established was filled with market. The large room in which the quarkets are established was filled with all kinds of canines from a Pomeranian to a Newfoundland, and of all dispo-sitions. The walls echoed and re-echoed with the barking and yelping. but the visitors were too busy to take notice of this. All were intent upon viewing the heautiful specimens of dogdom that were shown. The dup and down the room were benches with the various kinds of anl-mals, all worrying at their chains and cager to get out and run in the fresh air. Wearled with their enforced im-prisonment, the more savage once at-tempt to pick a fight with their neigh-bors and a disposition was shown to engage in a fleree fight, if only they could get at one another. This was also true when they were led to the judges' stand. Among the buildogs and the buil terriers especially there were strenhous efforts to start a battle royal, and when the women owners would lead some of them in it would require a hard muscular effort to re-strain them.

strain them. The prizes were all given out yester-day and fast night with the exception of the special awards which will be made tonight. Considerable interest is being taken in this part of the programme. On Saturday night the last night of the show, the cups offered by the various donators will be presented to the winners, and this event will close the show. The Portland Kennel Club has realized its expectations in the attendance and it is agreed that the show is one of the most successful that has taken place in the city or on the that has taken place in the city or on the Awards:

Furnishing the home--the piano

What keener delight than the planning of your own homethe furnishing of the different rooms-and finally, the crowning event, the selection of the piano.

In furnishing the home, the keynote is harmony.

While primarily the piano is selected for its tonal qualities, its style and design must lend itself harmoniously to the surroundings. It may be in the simple mission or in one of the more ornate schemes, but there must be harmony.

To make the proper selection, then, is the problem that confronts the home-furnisher.

In Eilers Piano House will be found the solution of this problem.
