WHEN ENGAGEMENT ENDS

Ex-Captain of Giants Willing to Abandon European Trip in Loyalty to His Admirers-Descr-tion Caused Clamor.

SPOKANE, May 7.-Mike Donlin, excaptain of the New York Glants, ancounced today that he would return to York club at the end of his present theatrical engagement if the

"If the New York baseball club meets my terms, it is up to the fans whether or not I play baseball this year. I have made all arrangements to sail to Europe in July, but if the fans, who have always been my friends, want me to stick and thish out the season with the Giants, I will feel that it is due them that I stay."

HOOTED BACK TO DIAMOND

Donlin Finds Popularity Gone When He Deserts Fans

NEW YORK, May 3 .- (Special Correspondence.) – Mike Donlin, the for-mer captain of the Giants, now thinks with Admiral Dewey that republics are ungrateful. Donlin is in vaudeville, with his popular wife, and draws a large salary. He was very popular until the playing season commenced, and the absence of his mighty bat was severely felt. From being a popular idol, the unfortunate Mike has rapidly become an unhappy goat.

an unhappy goat.

Up and down the "two-a-day" circuit
he is hooted, hissed and insulted. Sporting writers along the line are decrying Doullin's high regard for mere pelf. They point out that the Giants have been losing games because of weak hitting, a department in which he is especially ex-pert, and advise him to hurry back to New York without a moment's delay.
"It is pretty tough," Donlin confided to a friend the other day. "I have to make a living, and in a few weeks here I clear up as much as the club is willing to pay me for a whole season. I have to look out for myself, for a baseball play-er's life is not long at the best. "But I wish I was winding up my career with a little more popularity. It is about all that a baseball player gets out

Donlin adds, not in the shape of an interview, that he intends to clean up all the easy money he can, for he thinks that it will be the best-in the end.

"The fans have little use for you when you cannot deliver the goods," is the way he puts it. "The minor leagues are full of good fellows who have not got a cent. They were popular in their day, but what have they to show for it? Every man must look out for himself in this world." Which may be mighty good philosophy, but it is not appreciated by Gotham's unhappy fans.

WILL STRENGTHEN TEAM MUCH Donlin May Suffer Small Fine for

Not Signing Sooner. HOSTON, May 7 .- The report that Mike Donlin would soon rejoin the New York League club aroused much interest among the players here and, while Secretary Knowlis refused to comment, he admitted the team would be strengthened materially if Donlin returns.

Neither man was able to hit very hard and while both were clever, the English stage of the mill.

Frayne did a lot of roughing, but he always got the worst of the arguments at short range. Weish landed so frequently that had his blows been backed by even moderate power, a knockout might have been placed to his credit. None of the Californian's blows were heavy enough to leave a mark on the Briton.
