Idea of Foreign Son-in-Law Distasteful to C. Oliver Iselin, Sportsman and Millionaire-Couple Became Engaged in Rome.

NEW YORK, May 9 .- (Special.) -- Tomorrow, at the New Rochelle home of C. Oliver Iselin, millionaire sportsman, fa-mous in the yachting world, his daughter, Miss Nora Iselin, will become the bride of Count Ferdinand Colleredo-Mannsfeld of Austria.

The Count has had to win his bride over stern parental objection. Himself an ardent supporter of all things American, Mr. Iselin could not bear the thought of giving his only daughter to any man but an American.

Count Colleredo-Mannsfield is secretary Count Colleredo-Mannsfield is secretary of the Austrian Embassy at Rome, and it was in that city that the Count and Miss Iselin first met, while Mr. Iselin and his family were there last year. They became engaged to be married before Miss Iselin returned to this country, and the marriage would have occurred before, had not Mr. Iselin been so prejudiced against the idea of a foreign son-lin-law.

Count of Good Family.

The few persons in this city to whom Miss Iselin confided the secret of her engagement have also learned that since the Count arrived in Aiken, S. C., where Mr. Iselin and his wife and daughter are staying. Mr. Iselin's opposition to the match has been withdrawn.

Count Colleredo-Mannsfeld comes from princely family. His mother is the sis-er of Baron Achrenthal, Minister for Yoreign Affairs of Austria, who incited the seizure of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the seizure of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and so threatened the peace of Europe. The Count's family owns a castle near Aquileja, built in 1392. The head of the house is Prince Joseph, who married twice, but is childless. His next oldest brother is immarried. The heir-apparent is the prospective bridegroom's father. The Count is just 39 years old.

Bride-to-Be Most Beautiful.

Miss Nora Iselin, who is tall and re-merkably good-looking, is the daughter of Mr. Iselin's first wife, a Miss Garner, who died in 1892. Miss Iselin is an ex-pert ternis player and appeared in sev-eral important matches at Newport. She christened the American cup defender Reliance, of which her father was man-aging owner.

Lindon, she created a sensation by her beauty. At the royal ball given by Lady Lineaborough, in which she was chaperened by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, she was the most-tailed-of woman there. When she entered the ballroom a buzz of excitement tan ever the room. She was the tallest girl there, and considered one of the most beautiful. Prince Francis of Teck engaged her for the first dance, and it was during this dance that the spura of the Maharajah of Pudokotah caught in Miss Iselin's dress and ripped yards of lace from it. C. Oliver Iselin, Miss Iselin's father, is a banker and a noted yachtsman.
