CITY BALLOT WILL BE MOST COMPLEX

Thirty-two Questions to Be Decided by Electors Will Appear on June Ticket.

THREE BRIDGES PROPOSED

Cost of These Spans Would Reach $3,950,000 - Others Include Municipal Lighting Plant and New Charter.

So many measures are to be presented to the voters of Portland at the June election that only with great difficulty can electors familiarize themselves with all the problems to come up. Altogether 32 questions are to have places on the ballot, unless this number is cut down one or two as the result of page that the latest the same of the control of or two as the result of cases that have been filed in court. At any rate the ini-tiative will stretch out the ballot to great length, making it undoubtedly difficult for many voters to reach intelligent con-

Initiative petitions, proposing bond is nes aggregating $3,950,000 for three addi tional bridges across the Willamette River, have been Fled with City Auditor Barbur. The petitions provide for a high bridge at Broadway avenue, another at Sherman street and the third at Market street, together with the transfer of the Madison-street bridge fund of $450,000 to Market street and issuance of an additional street and issuance of an additional street. Market street and issuance of an additional $450,000 of bonds. This Market-street proposal may not get a place on the ballot. Anditor Barbur has been enjoined from placing it on the ballot and the subject is pending in the Circuit Court.

Of the two petitions which are assured of being submitted, the one for a high bridge at Broadway avenue is advocated by the people of the northeast section of the city. For the construction of this bridge a bond issue of not to exceed $2.00.000 is to be provided. It is proposed that this viaduct be constructed from Broadway across the river north of the Steel bridge to a point probably on John. Steel bridge to a point probably on John-son street, north of the Union Depot, with an approach extending thence to Seventh. Plans submitted by Engineer Seventh. Flans submitted by Engineer Modjeski estimate the actual cost of construction of such a span at $1,300,000. This estimate, however, does not include any provision for damages which may be as provision for damages which may be assented.

provision for damages which may be assessed to property-owners by reason of the erection of such a structure.

Residents of South Fortland also are contending for a bridge better to facilitate trans, ortitation across the river. They are asking the voters to authorize the issuance of bonds to the amount of not to exceed $1,300,000 for a span across the river from Sherman street on the West Side. In support of their application, the people south of Madison street are contending that the increased traffic of that section of the city, originating from extensive manufacturing enterprises, entitles them to a more speedy communicatilles them to a more speedy communica-tion with the other side of the river. They are insisting that with the present bridge service, the North Enders should be satisfied and at the same time are ad-vocating the Sherman-street viaduct as vocating the Shorman-street viaduct as an imperative accessity in the interest of South Portland.

The city authorities are paying no attention to the pending litigation respecting the Madison-street bridge fund and its expenditure. The original issue of $450,000 bonds for this purpose has been sold and engineers are preparing plans for rebuilding the bridge on its present site. It will be impossible, however, for the engineers to complete the preparation of these plans and submit them before the June election. By that time, of course, the status of the pending controversy will have been legally determined.

Besides the three bridge questions, 35 other subjects will be presented to the voters in the city election for enactment by the initiative and one, the vehicle by the initiative and one, the vehicle tax, for enactment by referendum, Not including the three bridges, the measures to come up are as follows:

What the Press Agents Say.

'Merely Mary Ann."

It has been a long time since an almost entirely new play to theatergoers of this city has sprung into such instant popularity as has Slaker Stock Company's effecting. "Merely Mary Ann," at the Bungalow this week. It is by israel Zangwill and was produced by Eleanor Robson. The role of Mary Ann is one of the prottless things Itetta Jewel has ever been seen in.

"Ten Nights in a Bar-room." There's a matinee of "Ten Nights in a Bar-noom," the great temperance drama, at the Lyric this afternoon. The revival of this famous play has pleased the there's patrons immensely. There will be a special matinee for children on Saturday, for which seats are now on sale.

Positive Genius-At Pantages Dickens drew from life, and his charac-ters live. We meet them every day in real life and they will last as long as the world rolls on, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Lucas are presenting them as real people, at the Fan-tages Theater this week. Three perform-ances daily at popular prices.

Cleverness in Brevity. Cleverness in brevity is the vaudeville entertainment at the Grand. Any husband who imagines he would like to see his wife a "good fellow" should see "A Wild Rose," in which Mr. and Mrs. Forbes are appearing it is an unusual plot played in a realistic manner and is a bright little comedy.

Star's New Show a Hit Tears and laughter alternately mingle in the Star Theater's new mid-week bill, which opened to big and appreciative audiences yesterday. "Lunatics in Power" is a rare comedy with emphatic clearness, and "A Hunter's Grief" is impressive with tearful and tragic earnestness.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

The famous actress, Madame Alia Nazimova, and her aplendid company of players, will be presented by the Schubert Brothers at the Heilig Theater, Fourteenth and Washington streets, in the following plays:
Next Monday-Tuesday nights and Wednesday afterhoon, "A Doll's House;" Wednesday night, "Hedda Gabler:" Thursday night,

"The Little Minister." "The Little Minister."

Baker Stock Company will present Barrie's "The Little Minister" all next week, opening Sunday matinee, Managor Baker having arranged with Charles Frohman, owner of the Maude Adams version of the noted play to present it in stock here. Miss Jewel will appear in the charming role of Lady Babble and Sydney Ayres will be seen as Gavin Dishart.

Ferris Hartman Opens Sunday

Ferris Hariman will begin his short season in this city at the Baker next Sunday matines, the opening hill being Lew Field's famous musical comedy success, "It Happened in Nordland," which was the first attraction Fields appeared in after the celevated separation from his life-long partner Weber. Hartman carries a splendid company.

Comedy at Orpheum.

Claude Gillingwater, the popular comedian, will be seen at Orpheum next week in a very clever sketch written by himself. It is called "A Stremuous Rohearsal," and his part of the "actor manager" gives him ample opportunities for displaying his ability as a comedian, and he takes advantage of every chance.

Elite Four Next Week. Beginning hext Monday the headlins act at the Grand will be the Elite Four, the premier musical act of vaudeville. This is the first Western tour of these musicians and they come with the best of reputations. Sydney Grant, the entertainer, will be among the other attractions.

"Thelma" Coming.

Next week, beginning with the Sunday matinee, the Lyric Theater stock company will be seen in Ullio Akerstrom's version of Marte Corell's famous hovel, "Theima." The play is well cust and the stage effects will be beautiful. Seata for the entire week are now on sale.

Want of Railroads Handicap to Reclamation Projects, Says F. H. Newell.

CHIEF OF SERVICE TALKS

Klamath and Umatilla Enterprises Are Progressing Satisfactorily, and Other Projects in State Will Await Their Completion.

has greatly retarded the progress of rec lamation work in the state was the statement of F. H. Newell, director of Reclamation Service, yesterday. He said railroads only touch the state's edges and make it very difficult to carry on any olg work in the state's interior. He further said that Central Oreson is a region of great natural resources that await only transportation facilities for development.

"There are probably more paper rail-roads in this state than in any other in the Union," declared Mr. Newell yesterthe Union, declared Mr. Newell yester-day. "Rights of way of projected roads extend in various directions over the state. In our reclamation work we fre-quently run up against these rights of way and our work is retarded in conse-quence. The Government has given these rights to railroads without stint, and now often finds itself embarrassed in carrying on reclamation work by reason of its on reclamation work by reason of its

"Projects in the interior of Oregon cannot be carried out by us because of the lack of transportation lines. To trans-port materials into Central Oregon is port materials into Central Oregon is very expensive at present. However, I think there is great development ahead for Oregon. The passage of the water law at the last sassion of the Legislature, defining water rights and making filings safe, will do much along this line. Irrigation projects of a private nature will be encouraged and capital will not hesitate to invest in them as heretofore, Because, largely, of the poor laws on the subject of water rights, this state has been rather behind others in irrigation been rather behind others in irrigation

No Other Projects Soon.

"No further irrigation works in this state will be undertaken by the Government for some time, pending the completion of the Klamath and Umatilia projects. It will require millions yet to finish these works. When these two are settled up, we will then undertake something else. The Deschutes Ballward curething else. The Deschutes Railroad question is now in the Land Office for settle-ment and there is nothing before us in regard to it. While both the Umatilla and Klamath projects are held up some-what by the human end of things, squabbles between rival water associations and townsite rows, these things will work out in time, and I have no idea it will take very long.

"The Umatilia project looks better this

"The Umatilia project looks better this year than last because it has been a better year for crops. There has been less wind and people on the project are feeling pretty good. Projects throughout the West are in good shape. We are now operating canals and ditches totaling about 3000 miles in length. If placed end to end, these ditches would reach from here to Boston. These ditches have to be patrolled every two days, and sometimes oftener, to guard against the burrowing of animals and the diversion of the water from the new channel. It takes time for the embankments to become consolidated, but within a short period these conditions are overcome. period these conditions are overc

Irrigation Conditions Improving.

"On the whole, irrigation conditions are improving. We are getting a lot of good, substantial farmers on the soil. The reclamation projects are strengthening the Western commonwealths and we are putting in a class of men who will stay. Private enterprises are greatly stimulated by the Government work. We put in one project and investors add to it or put in another work in the vicinity.

"The forthcoming visit of the Senate committee on irrigation, which will be in Portland Thursday and Friday, September 23 and 24, will, no doubt, encourage irrigation throughout the West. This committee is making inquiry into the general condition of irrigation, the results of Government projects and whether "On the whole, irrigation conditions are general condition of irrigation, the results of Government projects and whether the investment is a good one. SAVES SON FROM PRISON

Indian Woman Denies That Ho Struck Her With Pole.

John Mitchell, a Umatilla reservation indian, was saved from imprisonment by he wonderful power of a mother's love. The evidence in the Federal Court vesterday showed that John struck his mother with a tepee pole, but it was a question whether he struck her with intent to murder her or whether the injury was inflicted while he sought to catch a horse and endeavored to strike the animal.

The blood-s (ASS) tepes pole was exhibited. Ten feet long and four inches thick, it was obv.ously an instrument to injure severely. Ko-Ko-Ye-a-Lash, the mother, told in her own tongue, and showed by sign language that the stick which her son used was but as thick as her finger and as long as her arm. With calm stoicism she told the inter-preter that she was not hurt by her son: that it was an accident and that in fact her son did not hit her at all. Evidently the jury was impressed, for it found Mitchell not gullty.
