HENEY REFUTES COUNTER-CHARGE

Calls Organizers of Rival Company to Answer Calhoun's Attack.

NO CONSPIRACY HATCHED

Aim of Municipal Company Was to Prevent Trolley Lines-Plot to Incite Carmen's Strike Is Denied by Leader.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14—Charles S. Wheeler, attorney for Rudolph Spreckels, was called to the stand by the prosecution in the trial of Patrick Calhoun today. His testimony, like that of ex-Mayor James D. Phelan, was directed, according to the statement of Assistant District Attorney Heney, to the refutation of the "implied and insinuated" charge of the defense that Mr. Spreckels, Mr. Phelan and others had engaged in a conspiracy to oust the United Railroads from the streets of San Francisco with a view to obtaining the franchises for themselves.

Purpose of Municipal Company. Under the interrogation of Mr. Heney Mr. Wheeler told of his appearance before the street committee of the Board of Supervisors in 1905 in relation to the petition of the railroad company for an overhead trolley franchise on Sutter street. Mr. Wheeler's legal argument against the petition was related by Mr. Phelan when he was on the stand and was gone over again by Mr. Wheeler today. The witness also told of his drawing up the incorporation articles of the Municipal Street Railways Company and of his subscription of $19,000 to that project.

of his subscription or stoken to that project.

The cross-examination by Earl Rogers was construed by Mr. Hency as a challenge of the motives of the incorporators of the Municipal Company. Mr. Wheeler declared that he had taken no part in any discussion of the project until "after Mr. Cathoun had intimated his intention of trolleyizing Market streef," and insisted it was only to combat that plan that the opposition company was incorporated.

Why It Never Built Road.

"Mr. Wheeler, did the Municipal Com-pany ever lay a foot of track or a single brick of a powerhouse?" asked Mr.

"It did not," said the witness.
"That is all," said Mr. Rogers.
"Why did not the Municipal Company lay a foot of track or a single brick of a powerhouse? Explain that to the jury," said Mr. Heney. The latter part of the question brought an immediate objection from the defense, but, holding that the motives of the witness had been questioned. Judge Lawior permitted it to be answered.
Under a running fire of objections and arguments, the witness told the jury that

Under a running fire of objections and arguments, the witness told the jury that the opposition had been planned solely for the purpose he had already stated; that it was specifically stated in the articles of incorporation that the company should get the Supervisors to offer such franchises as it sought at public auction and should seek to have inserted in those franchises a provision that the city could buy up the road at any time it saw fit.

could buy up the road at any time it saw fit.

"We fixed upon the cost of construction, the actual outlay, plus 8 per cent interest, as the price at which the city could secure the property of the corporation at any time," said Mr. Wheeler. "Then the fire came. The United Raticads procured its franchises and we did not see our way clear to go ahead."

The examination was not concluded, Mr. Rogers stating that he had many questions to ask, when court adjourned.

In the face of objections, Mr. Heney drew from Richard Cornelius, president and business agent of the Carmen's Union, a refutation of the point which fine defense sought to make, that the strike of 1906 was incited by Rudolph Spreckels, Fremont Older and others. Counsel for the defense termed these questions "an attempt to rehabilitate the reputations of Mr. Spreckels, Mr. Phelan and Mr. Heney." A declaration by Mr. Heney that the prosecution proposed to refute the insinuation that Mr. Spreckels incited the strike by putting him on the refute the insinuation that Mr. Spreckels incited the strike by putting him on the stand and allowing the defense to "question him from his birth down to the present time." brought forth the retort from Alexander King, of the defense:

"What has the Spreckels family to do with this case? Whenever the name is mentioned Mr. Heney goes off into a discontinuation." course and gets angry.'

Saw Ruef Get "Big Bundle."

Robert H. Perry, a special agent employed by Detective W. J. Burns to shadow Abraham Ruef in 1906, was next called. He told of the movements of Ruef on July 31 and August 23, 1906, the day on which Tirey L. Ford, general counsel of the United Railroads, withdrew large sums from the mint in currency, the money which the prosecution alleges was paid to the Supervisors by the direction of the defendant. Perry said that on August 23 Ruef went to the railroad company's office at the carbarns and, after a short stay inside, came out and hurried to his automobile with something after a short stay inside, came out and hurried to his automobile with something bundled up under his coat. Ford came to the door of the office as Ruef drovs away. Cross-examination by L. Byington, of the defense, reverted to a statement made on direct examination that some one had appeared to take Ford's picture as he stood in the deserved. as he stood in the doorway after Ruef's departure. The identity of this man was the cause of a wrangle, but was not es-Heney Ridicules Fly-Specks.

Much of the cross-examination was devoted to a minute scrutiny of a diary which Mr. Perry kept while shadowing Ruef. Mr. Byington noted every blot or blurred figure or letter on the page referring to Ruef's visit to the railroad office and sought to show that the witness had contradicted himself in stating when he had made the entries.

Mr. Hency ridiculed this impeachmen Mr. Hency ridiculed this impeachment by turning haphazard to various pages to show similar blots and erasures, and sternly demanding of the witness what he meant by endeavoring to hide certain words or against whom he was conspir-ing when he put "fly-specks" on this or that sheet.

MIKADO'S SAILORS GO ASHORE AT VICTORIA.

British Warships Give Salutes and Formal Exchange of Officers' Calls Is Made.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 14.- The Japanese cruisers Aso and Soya arrived at moon from San Francisco.

The cruisers, as they rounded Race Rocks this morning, were met by local Japanese on board the tug William Joliffe, which carried the Fifth Regiment Band. The Japanese cheered as the tug accompanied the warships to Esquimalt, off which place they were met by a naval launch, and the flag licutenant of H. M. S. Shearwafer went on board to aid in the navigation of the vessels into the harbor. A few moments afterward the flagship fired a salute of 17 guns and brought the British naval flag to her malnmast bend brought the British naval flag to her mainmast head.

Boats and launches went to the warships, which were visited as soon as they were moored by Captalins Crawford and Edwards, of H. M. S. Shearwater and Algerine; Lieutenant-Coionei Holmes, commanding officer, and Major Bennett, of the local garrison, and the formal calls were made. Consuls Tanaka, of Seattle, and Yada, of Vancouver, and many prominent local Japanese went on board, and the army officers issued invitations to the visitors on behalf of the British government, which felegraphed instructions regarding the entertainment of the Japanese cruisers.

Admiral Idichi, Captains Ishii and Satto and their staffs and many of the cadets and bluejackets were entertained at luncheon at Work Point Barracks at 1 P. M., and a reception in the afternoon, with a cricket match, which was enjoyed by the visiting naval men. Eight tallyhos were sent to Esquimalt and many of the bluejackets taken for drives through the city. The local Japaness sent on board 400 postcards with local views and large quantities of fruit, many barreis of beer, etc.

This evening a reception was held at Assembly Hall by the local Japanese and later in the evening sutertainments were tendered to the visiting bluejackets at the drill hall by officers and men of the Fifth Regiment.

Twenty-nine years ago Admirai Ijichi was a cadet on the corveite Tsukaba, formerly H. M. S. Malacca, given to the Emperor by Queen Victoria. He had a water color painting which he brought with him and exhibited to the visitors on board the flagship, made 29 years ago, when he first came into Esquimalt Harbor as a cadet.

HEINZE AGAIN IN COURT

F. Augustus Charged This Time With Misappropriation of Funds.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Augustus Heinze, already under indictment on a charge of overcertification of his brother's (Otto Heinze) checks, was arraigned before Circuit Court Judge Hough today on a new indictment charging misapplication of funds of the Mercantile National Bank in March and October, 1897.

He pleaded not guilty, with the privilege of withdrawing the plea and making any motion his counsel might desire.

liege of withdrawing the pice and making any motion his counsel might desire.
No additional security was asked.
Misuse of funds of the Mercantile National Bank amounting to more than $2,500,000, by giving loans in the Summer and Fall of 1907 on notes without obtaining sufficient securities, is charged in 16 instances. Some of the loans, it is paying off the others. The indictment alleges that Heinze, as president of the Mercantile National Bank, made the following loans: To Otto Heinze & Co., on eight notes, from March 14 to October 11, 1907, $735,000. To Frederick Eckstein, Mr. Heinze's private secretary, on August 5, 1907, $600,-To F. Augustus Heinze, on October 14, on his own personal note, $50,000.

To Primrose & Braun, on June 24, $200,-

To Arthur P. Heinze, on August 10, To George Baglin, private secretary to Charles W. Morse, on September 19, 130,009. To Alice Watjen, slater of F. A. Heinze, on September 19, $20,000. To W. L. McWhite, on September 17, $50,000.

By the systems under which the loans were made, some of the notes being retired by new loans, it was estimated today that the total amount of loans at any time outstanding never exceeded $1,125,000.

DOCTOR HAS SUSPICION Blocks Payment of Life Insurance on Texas Legislator.

HOUSTON, Tex.. May 14.—An inquest was held today to determine the cause of the death of John Kennedy, a lawyer, two months ago. A physician signed a death certificate giving heart failure as the cause, but refused to sign another when the widow went to collect $500 life insurance.

Kennedy was several times a member of the Texas Legislature.
