and which is incorporated in the indict-ment of Blakesley, is accessible to the public. Three other letters are with-held by the District Attorney, and will not be given out until after they have been submitted to the Federal author-

Four Letters Sent in All.

Today, Mr. Quick said he had received four letters in all and one telegram. All the letters purported to be written by McCarty. Blakesley, he says, never wrote to him or threatened him. He, says Quick, posed as the gobetween in satisfying the alleged demands of McCarty, of whom Blakesley also expressed fear.

"No, I never saw this man McCarty," said Mr. Quick today, "I don't believe now that he ever had anything to do with the matter, even if there is such a man. I told my wife about a year ago of the trouble I was in, and recently we talked it over and both reached the conclusion that Blakesley was the man behind it all.

"Blakesley came to me with the proposal to rob the Courthouse vaults, burn down the building and sell the duplicate records to the county.

down the building and sell the dupli-cate records to the county. When I re-fused to go into the scheme, the threats began. McCarty was represented as a revengeful man. As told in the letter published, he was supposed to have killed a man in San Francisco.

Receives Telegram, Too.

"I finally gave $150 to get rid of him, and then there were more threatening demands. The money was always paid over to Blakesiey. I never wrote any letters myself. After I began to ignore the letters I received a telegram one day. It was from Portland, and said: "Either you or the other fellow meet me here Saturday." Blakesiey was here in St. Helens when I received it, but he could have had it sent by some one, or could have ordered it held in the Portland office for a time. "Last Tuesday I received a telephone message here in my office. A voice said

Last lumbay I received a telephone message here in my office. A voice said 'This is Jack McCarty, I'm at Houlton. You'll get a letter tomorrow,' and the receiver was hung up. I don't know whether the message really came from Houlton or not. The letter followed with the grand Jury."

In answer to a question, Mr. Quick said the mention of the diamond drills in the letter was the first reference to them. He said he had never heard of any diamond drills before.

the identification in Portland from Mc-Carty's photograph of a bartender in St. Helens. There are three saloons here, but until within a very recent period no bartenders were employed, the proprietor of each running his own place of business.

Blakesley is out on $250 cash ball, which by some is considered small in view of the fact that he is indicted for a crime punishable by six months to two years' suprisonment. He has re-There is apparently no foundation for the identification in Portland from Mc-for a crime punishable by six months to two years' imprisonment. He has retained Harrison Allen, of Portland, as his attornay. Binkesley pleaded 'not guilty' in the Circuit Court today, and his attorney will appear Saturday for the purpose of setting the date of trial. Binkesley today refused to talk about the case or say whether or hot he knew Jack McCarty. He is keeping still, he ways, on the instructions of his lawyer, but promises that there will be startling developments in the trial. The intimation is given by Binkesley that politics, principally, is back of the whole matter.

"Quick is sore at me because his brother was not appointed court baillif, and Judge Campbell appointed me. Why, I helped elect Quick County Treasurer. We opened up headquarters for him during the convention, and it never cost him a cect. I never got a dollar for all I did. a cent. I never got a dollar for all I did for him, and if I'd been wanting to graft, doesn't it look like I would have demand-ed money for the work I did for him?

ed money for the work I did for him?

"I have been in politics here for 15 years and attended hearly every convention. I belonged to the old Simon crowd, and Quick was with the Mitchell crowd. The Moody fight was particularly bifter here, and it is natural that some scars should be left. You'll find that some one else got Quick's money, and that they're trying to make me the 'dog.'".

Business and professional men in St. Helens are attempting to keep from appearing to favor one side or the other. This is a small community, the town having about 600 population. Blakesley's backing may be judged when it is stated that his brother-in-law. J. H. Wellington, runs the principal general merchandise runs the principal general merchandise store; another brother-in-law, A. J. Dem-ing, is the town druggist; a brother, Wal-ter, conducts one of the three saloons; another brother, Charles, is Deputy Sher-iff, and a third brother is connected with

Attack Blakesley's Record.

Among the old scores that have been dug up against Blakesley here in the last few days is his alleged connection with the forgery of a deed in 1907. Andrew Kapewski, a homesteader, got into trouble with the authorities and left the country. The Benson Logging & Lumbering Company, of Portland, sought to acquire has title to the homestead, and brought suit. Inquiring Kapewski as defendant. Albert pany, of Portland, sought to acquire tax title to the homestead, and brought suit. haming Kapowski as defendant. Albert Cleveland intervened, claiming title to the land, and presented a deed bearing the purported signature of Kapowski, executed March 1, 1807, in favor of D. E. Keasey, of fortland. Before the trial of the case one of the witnesses to the signature was brought here by the Beasen company's attorneys, and it is common talk that this witness identified "Toots" Blakesley as the "Kenowski" who signed the dees. The suit collapsed, and Blakesley's part in the matter was presented to the District Attorney of Multnomah County, where the fraudulent transfer of the property occurred, and it is said that the matter is still pending in that office. The last grand jury attempted to trace down reports that Blazesley had solicited money from disreputable houses in Rainier for protection by the District Attorney's office, but failed to secure evidence.

Grand Jury Leak?

ley, and recently he has been kept out of the room as much as possible. A statement made by a liquor dealer in Houlton that he and two others had centributed 190 cash to pay Blakesley for influencing the grand jury in illicit liquor selling cases has been reported to the District Attorney. This man, when approached by officials, refused to testify about the matter.

Blakesley's only occupation here, so far as the citizens remember, has been that of court balliff or grand jury balliff. It is asserted that although this work is inermittent and pays only El per day. Blakesley would at times be flush with money. He was continued as a balliff by Judge Thomas A. McBride, recently appointed to the Eupreme bench from this district, although the Benson-Kapowaki case was tried before him. The teniency of Judge McBride in this matter, however, may be accounted for in the fact that the Blakesley and McBride families are ploneer friends. It is said that Blakesley's mother and Judge McBride crossed the plains in the same party.

Taken all in all, the case has many ramifications and one of the most unusual features is the indictment by a grand turn of the own ballife.

WAIVES PRELIMINARY HEARING AT HILLSBORO.

Secures J. A. Jeffrey as Attorney, to Whom Prisoner Deeds Equity in Farm Property.

HILLSBORO, Or., May 27 - (Special.)-John D. Roselair, confessed murderer of his girl-wife, waived examination when taken into court today, and was remanded to jail to await trial at the next ferm of court.

The prisoner was represented by J. A. Jeffrey, a Portland attorney, to whom Roselair made out a deed for his equity in his ranch near Buxton, this county. The consideration was $500, and as there is a $500 mortgage on the property it is virtually a sacrifice sale of the land.

This transaction means that Roselair's children by his second wife, now living in New Richmond, Wis., will receive none of the proceeds of the sale of the property. Last week, Roselair's daughter made an appeal to her father to deed the land to his children.

Mrs. Rosetta Dombrower, mother of the murdered woman, left today for her home near Los Angeles.

SPANIARD FALLS VICTIM

Body Placed on Track and Ground to Bits by Freight Train-Cries of Distress Heard by Passengers Night of Tragedy.

LA GRANDE. Or., May 21.—(Special.)—
After deliberating all day and far introme inght, the Coroner's jury in the case of Damion Alonso, a Spaniard who was ground to a pulp under the engine of a westbound freight at Teleocaset, at 4:15 Wednesday morning, returned a verdict to the effect the man had been murdered by partles unknown and placed on the track during the night.

Residents of Teleocaset testified before the Coroner's jury that just as the lights of a westbound passenger were fading from view at II o'clock the night of the tragedy, they heard a scream as of a man in agony. Passengers on the train corroborated this testimony. The other witnesses were the trainmen, who told of the man being run over by the freight and of hobos being seen in the vicinity that night.

Among the papers on the man were a letter of introduction from
