ROSE FESTIVAL WEEK

From June 7 to 12, inclusive, the Third Annual Rose Festival will be in progress in Portland, and many people will be Portland's guests from throughout the Pacific Northwest. The Oregonian has made preparations to report events on an extensive scale, with numerous high-class half-tone illustrations and descriptive matter. Everybody will want to tell their friends about it in other cities, in the East and abroad. Mail your friends The Oregonian during Rose Festival week. Order now at the business office. Orders received by mail will be given prompt attention. Price 20 cents, including the great Sunday edition and postage. Foreign postage, 22 cents extra.

VALLEY PICTURES ON DISPLAY—Walls of the Commercial Club will have additional embellishment, beginning today, with views of the Willamette Valley and especially of the district in and around Eugene. The Commercial Club of the Lane County city has had a series of Klaser views made for exhibition at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, and in transporting them to Seattle it was decided to have displayed in Portland. The photographs have been colored to show the real appearance of the surroundings, and the exhibit, besides being an exact reproduction of the country around Eugene, is a study in the remarkable development of that part of the state. Arrangements have been made by the Commercial Club in this city to have the clubrooms thrown open to men and women who are interested in the subject so that this fine collection of pictures may be viewed at the exception of lunch and dinner hours.

LECTURE ON WHITE SLAVE TRADE—Dr. James D. Corby will lecture at Taylor-Street Methodist Church, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, on "The White Slave Trade: Its Prevention and Cure." Dr. Corby was formerly chaplain of New York Training School for Girls. He has just returned to Portland, having lectured in Tacoma and Seattle to large audiences, among which were many city officials and students of the social problems. The Mayor, city ministers and all advocates of clean administration, have been invited to attend the lecture here. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Road and Protective Society, representing the Portland Commons and Louise Home. Special music by the Louise Chapel and Dr. C. L. Haynes. Admission free; everybody welcome.

ANSWER TO CHALLENGE—We still contend there are many typewriters in the city who can write as fast as Miss Rose Fritz but they have not practiced for exhibition purposes. While Miss Fritz has done nothing else for nearly seven years, it would be impossible to get one of them to appear in public and compete with Miss Fritz. It takes years of training for a public demonstration of this kind. Why don't our competitor base his challenge on the machine he represents instead of on Miss Fritz? Why doesn't he challenge our statement as to the cohesiveness and ease of operation and durability? Why not challenge our statement that the typebars on the machine on which Miss Fritz was demonstrating would stick or tangle. We will wager $100 against $50 on the same conditions mentioned in our competitor's challenge, that the typebars on his machine do stick and that Miss Fritz is compelled to frequently release them. We will wager the same amount on the same conditions, that the bars will not stick or tangle in the ball-bearing L. C. Smith & Bros.' typewriter. L. C. Smith & Bros. and L. M. Alexander & Co.

FUNERAL OF ROBERT GLEN—The funeral of Robert Glen, who died Friday last of heart trouble, was held yesterday morning from the family residence on Gilman avenue, and the interment was in Lone Fir Cemetery. The services were under the auspices of Hawthorne Lodge, No. 111, A. F. and A. M., and Flattery Lodge, No. 4, A. O. U. W., of which he had been a member. A. A. Kadervich, H. C. Lohman, J. J. Price, W. B. Hall, A. G. Bachrodt and A. A. Anderson, representing the two orders, were the pallbearers.

MOTHERS' AND TEACHERS' CIRCLE—The Mothers' and Teachers' Circle meeting, at Holman school will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Miss Miller, the children's librarian at the Public Library, will speak on "The Art of Story-Telling." The children will be taken care of in the kindergarten while the mothers are engaged at the meeting. The meeting was formerly announced for Tuesday, but had to be postponed.

LECTURE ON "MIRTH"—Dr. Thomas McClary, of New York City, will deliver his lecture on "The Mission of Mirth," at Grace Methodist Church, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. McClary is a noted Chautauqua lecturer and always delights his audiences. No admission fee will be charged but an offering may be taken at the close of the lecture.

The president reported the society in a flourishing condition, having made 180 loans amounting to over $3000. The work of the officers was highly commended by all the members present and showed their appreciation by unanimously re-electing the following officers: President, M. Ostrow; first vice-president, I. K. Green; second vice-president, Eugene Cohen; treasurer, Ben Silling; secretary and legal adviser, Isaac Swett. The trustees are Rev. R. Abrahamson, the Rev. R. Wise, Dr. A. Tilson, D. Solis Cohen, D. K. Nemovsky, J. Dautoff, M. Gale, I. Fishman, H. Goldstein.

GRAND AVENUE FILL STARTED—The filling of Stephens slough on Grand avenue was started yesterday. The bridge has been abandoned by the street railway, the track for the Brooklyn cars being laid across the slough on the sawdust fill on the west side of Grand avenue. Dump cars are being run in from the O. W. P. line and material is being taken from the bank opposite Ross Island. As the haul is at a steep grade, the work will be completed within a short time. The fill on East Ninth street across Stephens slough was completed last week, and since then the last section of the embankment is between Taggart and Division streets, a distance of 750 feet, and is one of the most extensive fills on the East Side.

SHIP CARPENTER BEATEN—While John Green, a ship carpenter employed on a barge, at the foot of Oak street, was walking in front of the Sailor's Union last night, he was assaulted by a sailor who was standing in the doorway. The assailant stepped behind Green and struck him on the face. This was followed by other blows and before Green could recover from his surprise the sailor had bruised and lacerated his face in several places from which the blood flowed freely. The police were notified too late to catch the assailant.

'KING OF DRUNKARDS' DEAD

Jimmie Hill Succumbs to Poor Farm After Final Spree.

Jimmie Hill, veteran disciple of Bacchus and right hand man of John Barleycorn, finally succumbed, early yesterday morning, in breaking the strange hold that liquor has had upon him for 15 years—during all of which time he tried continually to break the hold. He died at 3 A. M. at the Poorfarm, to which place he was taken by the police a few days ago, following his final spree.

"I've been drunk my last time," he told the police, as they were taking him to what proved his deathbed. He was then in a bad way from drink and exposure. He laughed as he said it and the police naturally thought he was joking. But now they are wondering if he didn't foresee exactly what has happened.

Anyway, it was the only time he has ever known to swear off drinking, and he has made good. Hundreds of times he has tried to quit drinking, saying he would if he could, but never before was he known to say he'd had his last drink. Hill, 25 years ago, was a section foreman employed by the O. R. & N. Company. He had domestic troubles as a young man and took to drink. Drink proved his master and since then he has spent most of his time in the City Jail or at the Poorfarm. He would finish term of imprisonment, get drunk, and begin a new term. The "King of Drunkards" is the term applied to him by his kind.

Alcoholism and exposure caused his death. He will be buried in the potter's field.
