C. H. Dauchy, a Civil War veteran and a citizen of Portland since 1870, has suc-ceeded in manufacturing a compound which it is said will supply a long-feit want for a safe and powerful explosive, by the use of which the great loss of life and property that has marked the use of the nitro compound explosives ever since the discovery of nitro-giveerine can be avoided. The name of the new explosive has not yet been disclosed, owing to the fact that the application for protection now on file in the archives of the Patent Of-fice at Washington has not been passed upon. to give the United States Government an opportunity to acquire exclusive rights to the explosive. Mr. Dauchy has interested a corps of engineers, who have made thorough tests of the invention and pronounce it to be valuable. A company has been financed to manufacture the explosive and powderworks will be erected not far from Portland in the near future. The following engineers were present when experiments were made which proved the value of the new explosive: Thomas M. Rogers, M. E.; H. L. Neville, E. M.; R. A. Vaugin, M. E., E. M.; I. J. Merrill, M. E.; C. H. Dauchy, Ch. E., and E. E. Hoffman, E. M. The engineers proclaim that the discovery of this compound marks the advent of one of the most safe and powerful explosives ever invented, owing to the eastety and simplicity with which it can be made and used.

The main points of superiority claimed for the new explosive are that it con-tains no sulphuric or nitric acids; it does not produce nozious gases when ex-ploded; it does not require thawing, and it is always ready for use at any atmos-pheric temperature; it holds its strength indefinitely; it does not require a de-
