ROSE FESTIVAL WEEK

Mail your friends in the East The Oregonian during Rose Festival Week and advertise the City of Portland and the great State of Oregon. Order now at the business office. Orders received by mail will be given prompt attention. Price, 20 cents, including the great Sunday edition.

RILEY CASE TO BE REVIVED.—The City Civil Service Commission will now be forced to review the case of HARRY RILEY, a police sergeant, who charges that gross discrimination was shown in recent examinations for the position of police captain, he being the victim of spite work, it is alleged. Mayor Lane yesterday sent a communication to the Commission, calling attention to the demand of Sergeant Riley for rechecking of his papers, and stating that an immediate hearing should be accorded. Sergeant Riley was marked very low on certain questions, dealing with the duties of detectives, sergeants and captains, although close scrutiny of his answers fails to reveal to the disinterested anything wrong in the answers given by him. Riley alleges that he was discriminated against because he was a colored man. The Commission previously to permit him to withdraw his name from the list of eligibles for the position of police captain, when it was desired by the police committee of the City Executive Board to name another officer for a captaincy.

STREETCAR EXTENSION.—The South Mount Tabor Club will make the proposed extension of the South Mount Tabor carline a mile and a quarter east from its present terminus a special subject for consideration Monday night. Conditions of the extension are that the people secure a franchise along the extension line road, or right of way through the property near the road, and then build the road. It is estimated that the cost will be about $1,000,000. J. O. Rand, president of the Push Club, said that this extension would add 25 to 50 per cent to the value of all lands at South Mount Tabor. He pointed out that an illustration of the effects of suburban street railway transportation. He says that land now selling for $300 and $400 an acre in the South Mount Tabor district will bring $500 and $1000 if a street railway were extended through that section.

Flax Rows on Display.—Much interest was manifested by visitors to the Chamber of Commerce building yesterday in the handsome exhibit of flax displayed in the main corridor by W. A. Skory. The display included specimens of more than a score of varieties. Large bouquets of Caroline Testout, Marquis de Castellane, Countess of Oxford and Jacqueminot roses occupied the center of the table and nearer the edges were single specimens of the Anna Olivia, Mme. Leon Daine, Grace Darling, Frau Karl Druschke, Hugh Dickson, Etiole de France, Ruby Gold, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Lady Battersea, La Detroit, Viscountess Polkstone. A third table was installed late in the afternoon to care for another display of roses to be put in place this morning.

600 LADIES WANTED.—The Sunnyside Aid Society wants every lady interested in the prosperity and up building of Portland to report to Mrs. Edwin W. East Taylor street to make a day at Rose Carnival, June 12, a great success, and to get every town, city and hamlet interested in the most beautiful church building in the city.

DINNER TO JUDGE SEAN TUESDAY, JUNE 15.—In compliment to Judge Sean, the alumni of the University of Oregon will give a dinner at the Commercial Club Tuesday evening, June 15, at 7 o'clock. Instead of Sunday evening, as was announced through mistake. Inquiries regarding this dinner may be addressed to Charles J. Schabel.

AUDUBON SOCIETY TONIGHT.—There will be a business meeting of the Audubon Society, at 8 o'clock tonight, at the City Hall. To consider the report of incorporation which the committee has in charge, as well as other matters of importance. A full meeting of the members will take place on Monday.

WOODMEN TO HONOR DEAD.—The memorial exercises of the Woodmen of the World will take place tomorrow evening, at 7:45 o'clock, at the Park Street Methodist Church. The unveiling of the Judge monument in Lone Fir Cemetery will take place about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Do You Know That the best home-cooked lunches in the city, for both men and women, are served at the beautiful new Y. W. C. A. building, corner Seventh and Taylor sts. Hours from 11:30 A. M. to 2 P. M. and from 6:15 to 7 P. M.
THE DOMAIN AND FUNCTION OF BEAUTY.—A ROSE FESTIVAL MEMORIAL will be a ROSE FESTIVAL MEMORIAL in the First Congregational Church, tomorrow at 7:45 P. M. Dr. Dyott's theme at 11 A. M. will be: "Fields of God."
"AN UNWILDED SCIENCE." at 10:30 A. M., "The Burning Issue," at 7:45 P. M. Sunday sermon themes by William Hiram Bonhues, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, corner Alder and Twelfth.
ST. DAVID'S PICNIC.—St. David's Sunday school expects to hold its annual picnic on Saturday, June 19, at Wilsonville on the line of the Oregon Electric Railway.

SARBENT at Perkins Grill will serve special French dinner Sunday, 5:30 to 9:30 o'clock; St. Music.
CALVARY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Rev. Thomas Holmes Walker will preach tomorrow.

CLOSING EXERCISES JUNE 24.—The commencement exercises of the Christian Brothers' College will be held this year on the evening of June 24, in alumni hall, the auditorium of the college building, on Grand avenue and Clackamas street, which will seat over 1000 people. The students are preparing an elaborate program. One of the features of the evening will be a declamation contest for a gold medal presented by Frank Mottor. Over 25 students have entered this contest and the final tryout will be held the week before commencement day when five speakers will be selected for the final contest. On the programme there will be physical culture drills, tableaux and trained choruses. Archbishop Christie will preside at the commencement exercises. It will be the most important held in the history of the college.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES GET RAISE.—Postmaster Young yesterday received a telegram from Senator Bourne advising him that, effective July 1, the salaries of 22 of the employees at the Portland Postoffice would be increased $300 per annum. These included the salaries of the chief clerk, superintendents and their assistants in the different departments of the local office. Postmaster Young recently applied to the department for an advance in his salaries of 24 of these employees and his request has been complied with in all but two instances. In these cases the employees concerned were clerks for whom, the dispatch announced, nothing could be done at this time for the reason that the appropriation covering this item had been exhausted.

TO SELL SHORTHORN TODAY.—A sale of about 50 head of shorthorn cattle will be held at the Portland stockyards, at 1 o'clock today. Alec Chalmers, of Elkton, Grove, will offer 25 to 30 head of bulls, cows and heifers, all registered stock. The stockyards company will sell seven head, which were bought at the Spring sale of Minor & Ladd stock, and it is probable other cattle will be offered. Prices paid for blooded stock at the Spring sale were low when it is considered that beef cattle are selling at record figures. For that reason it is expected there will be a large attendance of buyers at the sale today.

EMPLOYMENT AGENT DROPS DEAD.—James Campbell, keeper of the Pioneer Employment Agency, dropped dead yesterday forenoon at his room in the Spokane House, 28 1/2 Second street North. He had complained of not feeling well and started for his room to retire. He dropped dead before reaching his bed. Campbell was 69 years old and unmarried. He has relatives in the East, it is said. Death was caused by heart disease. The death was caused by the dining establishment.

PUBLICITY LAWYER DISMISSED.—John Ditchburn, lawyer, and W. T. Mende, clerk, were dismissed by Municipal Judge Van Eaton yesterday forenoon when called upon on a charge of fighting. The two, who engaged in a street fight Memorial night following a disagreement over property and personal matters, announced that the dove of peace was again their mutual emblem. The dismissal was made on motion of Deputy City Attorney Sullivan.

CELEBRATE 30TH ANNIVERSARY.—Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Taylor celebrated the 30th anniversary of their wedding yesterday. The dinner was pleasantly surprised last night by the presentation of a 90-piece set of silver, from the employees of the City Engineer's office, all of whom hold their chief in high esteem. An appropriate card, expressing the sentiments of the gifters, accompanied the set. ABSOLUTE PROOF that tons and tons of cold storage ice-cream meats have been brought to Portland recently from other states! Don't let your family eat such meats. Read Smith's ad, on the back page, it tells the whole story—then be sure to eat Smith's meats. DR. MARSON moved to Medical bldg.

QUEEN KNOWN TONIGHT

Montavilla Contest Grows in Fervor as Closing Vote Approaches.

The contest for queen of the Montavilla float will close tonight at 10 o'clock, when the vote will be canvassed for the last time in the presence of the audience which will gather for that purpose in the big tent. An entertainment will be held beginning at 8 o'clock. C. C. Chapman, of the Montavilla float, yesterday forenoon will speak on the Rose Festival and other subjects. Sherman, Clay & Co. will furnish musical numbers. The interesting part of the programme will be the closing vote.

RE-ENTERS RACE FOR QUEEN OF MONTAVILLA FLOAT

Miss Martha Jensen, who, owing to diverse misunderstandings, had withdrawn as a candidate for the position of queen of the Montavilla float in the coming Rose Festival, has, because of earnest solicitation of her numerous friends and well-wishers, reconsidered her withdrawal and has consented to re-enter the race. Although sadly handicapped by her previous withdrawal, it is confidently expected that her reappearance in the contest will infuse new courage into the hearts of her many acquaintances and friends, especially those of the Russellville Grange, of which she has been the secretary for many years. Miss Jensen is a first-honor graduate of the Lincoln High School of this city, and is also a graduate of Holmes' Business College.

The voting during the evening. Chairman William DeVany announced that the ballots would be counted every half hour up to 10 o'clock, when the final count will be made. It is understood the final count will be made at the home of the contestants, Miss Della Burs and Miss Lulu Bryson, will take place during the meeting tonight. Friends of both are saving up their tickets to buy votes on the home-stretch. There will likely be lively voting tonight, and of course the interest will be at a white heat until the final canvass is made. Half-hour reports will sharpen the contest up to the finish. The contest has been a great success up to the present over 300 votes having been cast and about $75 collected, which sum promises to be largely increased tonight.

Dr. Alan Welch Smith Scores Excise Law as Harmful.

WOULD HAMPER CASES

Physician Declares Act Would Make Prescriptions Matter of Public Record—He Upholds Present Drugstore System.

"I believe every Portland physician who studies the proposed Excise Board amendment will become convinced that such a law would place unnecessary and harmful restrictions upon the sale of alcoholic liquors for medicinal purposes," said Dr. Alan Welch Smith yesterday. "It is proper that druggists should be prohibited from dispensing the more powerful and dangerous drugs without the prescription of a physician, but alcoholic liquors cannot be placed in such a class.

"Every one knows that liquor is often used in emergencies for resuscitation. Cases frequently arise where its use would be invaluable pending the arrival of a physician, but under the proposed amendment the person requiring it did not happen to have the liquor at hand, he would not be able to secure it from the nearby druggist without first obtaining a physician's written prescription. Physicians, too, often send emergency telephone calls for brandy or whiskey to druggists, and if the druggist is overzealous or does not know the physician the delay caused by the enforcement of the excise law might be disastrous.

"I have in mind a recent experience when the patient I was visiting required the immediate use of chloroform. The cork of the bottle of chloroform in my case had become loosened and the chloroform had evaporated. I had to telephone to a druggist to send me chloroform immediately. Suppose it had been found that had been needed and this excise law were in effect. It is a serious question whether the brandy would have been sent, particularly if the druggist did not know me or failed to recognize my voice.

"I furthermore strongly object to the provision of the proposed law which makes the prescriptions of physicians for liquor a matter of public record in the drugstores where the prescriptions are filed. It requires no flight of fancy to conceive instances where such a provision would make trouble, and in any case it violates the confidential character of a physician's practice. It is a recognized principle of legal procedure that in trials a physician cannot be compelled to divulge the character of his ministrations to a patient without the consent of the patient, and yet the Excise Board law proposed would require physicians' prescriptions given for the relief of ailments matters of public record.

"I see no occasion whatever for any change in the present effective and reasonable regulations of the sale of alcoholic liquors for medicinal purposes. So far as I am able to learn, the drugstores of Portland are obeying the present law. I have not heard of any complaint against one in this particular. The physicians are satisfied under present conditions and I believe the great majority, if not all of them, are opposed to this measure."

AFFINITY SEVERES TIES

LUCY E. CRAM, PRINEVILLE PEDAGOGUE, GETS DIVORCE.

Interloping Woman Was Husband's Adviser—Four Decrees Granted. One Under Adversement.

Lucy E. Cram, a Prineville school teacher, told Circuit Judge Gantenbein yesterday morning that her husband, Henry S. Cram, is interested in another woman who acts as his adviser in his business and domestic affairs. The judge gave her a divorce. She married Cram Christmas day, 1895, and has three children. She agreed that she should have their custody. Mrs. Cram said that her husband was disagreeable in his attitude toward her, and she was the only one who could "if he had a mind to, as she could see by his conduct toward the other woman." She said that the other woman took her place. But when she wanted to return, she said, her husband's affinity would not leave. Judge Gantenbein granted four divorces, and took one case under advisement. This was the case of Mrs. Anna Sadunsky against Leon Sadunsky, who she said, deserted her. They were married in Portland, February 5, Mrs. Sadunsky having arrived in the city before from Winnipeg, Canada, two days after the wedding her husband left.

Louis Colinski, who ran away from home twice with his brother, and from the Detention Home of the Juvenile Court once, going under the name of Saltman, was a witness yesterday. The little fellow, who is Mrs. Sadunsky's son, said he ran away because his mother had left his mother with nothing to eat in the house. When he was at St. John the first time they ran away, the boys told a sensational story of having been kidnaped in Winnipeg by a man who brought them as far as Portland, and from whom they escaped. The juvenile court officials believed the kidnapping story to be a fabrication.

Mary J. Miles, who was allowed to resume her former name, Watts, said that Sunday morning, several weeks ago, her husband threatened to cut her head off if she would not leave the house to make room for her successor. "He even tried to stab me out," said Mrs. Miles. "and I went for three days with nothing to eat." She said that she was married to William A. Miles, January 2, 1904.

Gertrude E. Turk obtained a divorce from Edward E. Turk because he was unfaithful to the penitentiary for six years in the Fall of 1906 for horse stealing. She said the Governor pardoned him last February. She married him at Hamilton, Ore. She said she was married to him in 1904. Judge Gantenbein permitted her to resume her maiden name, Bible. Assistant Warden Smith of the penitentiary told of Turk's commitment. Married at Boise, Idaho, only last July, Leona Lawson secured a divorce yesterday from W. D. Lawson because, when she told him and his male acquaintance to be quiet late one night, she knocked her down. Judge Gantenbein allowed her to resume her maiden name, Williams.
