EVERY RIG A BOWER

THURSDAY'S HORSE AND CARRIAGE PARADE TO EXCEL.

Entries to Be Accepted Until Tomorrow Afternoon—Cavalcade Five Miles Long.

Entries for the decorated horse and carriage parade of Thursday afternoon will not close until 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, to give every private owner the very limit of time for preparing his turnout for the procession. Application blanks now filled out and in the hands of Chairman W. M. Davis indicate that the estimate of five miles is not an exaggeration as to the length of this splendid cavalcade. Every entry allowed to compete for the scores of elegant cups must be decorated with roses or some other floral scheme. No vehicle without decorations is desired, and none such will be regarded by the judges. This position has been made because of the unprecedented interest manifested in this pageant, and by people who have agreed to dress up their rigs, horses and harness. There is plenty of room left in the children's pony and cart division, and the Hunt Club, under whose auspices the parade will be conducted, urges every youngster to send in his entry. This parade will form at Tenth and Morrison streets, and every division of both Hunt Club and Riverside Driving Association, as well as the divisions for individual owners, not affiliated with either organization should be at the point of mobilization as designated in the general order published, not later than 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The running, steeplechase, chariot and other races scheduled for the annual Spring meeting at the Country Club oval for next Saturday afternoon, has attracted greater attention than any of the former meets, and the interest offered for the different classes is such as to guarantee top-notch heats throughout. No programme heretofore devised for showing smartness in horsemanship has excelled the blooded races which will take part in this gentlemen's matinee. Yesterday afternoon the two rival charioters, A. M. Cronin and R. B. Lamson, were out with their four-in-hands and cars and warmed up for their great contest of the Saturday meet. This is to be the first chariot race ever held in the city outside of theatrical hippodromes, and will give full rein to the drivers and opportunity for tests of speed and endurance of the well-matched thoroughbreds which are pitted against each other.

THE ROSE IN POETRY AND SONG

Old garden walks, old roses and old loves. —Anon. The morning rose, that untouched stands, Armed with her briars, how sweetly smells! —Sir Robert Ayton. There will I make these beds of roses, With a thousand fragrant posies. —Christopher Marlowe. The waste of my life has a rose-root within it. And thy fondness alone to the sunshine can win it. —Joseph Brennan. Her cheeks like the rose is, but fresher, I wear; She's loveliest lassie 'that trips on the green. —Richard Ryan. Like a rose embowered In its own green leaves, By warm winds deflowered, Till the scent it gives Makes faint with too much sweet Those heavy-winged thieves. —Percy Bysshe Shelley. Roses, ranged in vallant row. I will never, think that she passed you by! She loves you, noble roses, I know; But yonder see where the rock plants lie! * * * * * Where I find her not, beauties vanish; Whether I follow her, beauties flee. Is there no method to tell her in Spanish, June's twice June since she breathed it with me? Come, bud! show me the least of her traces; Treasure my lady's lightest footfall: Ah! you may flout and turn up your face; Roses, you are not so fair, after all! —Robert Browning.

O, how much more doth beauty beauteous seem, By that sweet ornament which truth doth give: The rose looks fair, but fairer we deem For that sweet odor which doth in it live: The canker blooms have full as deep a dye As the perfumed tincture of the rose, Hang on such thorns and play as wantonly: When Summer's breath their masked buds disclose; But, for their virtue only is their show. They live unwoo'd and unrespected fade; Die to themselves. Sweet roses do not so; Of their perfumed tincture the sweetest odors made.
