

A-Y-P OFFICIALS ATTEND FESTIVAL

President Chilberg and Eight Other Representatives of Fair Visit Portland.

GUESTS OF FLORAL SHOW

Visitors Surprised at Wealth of Display—Members of Party Ride in Afternoon Parade, View Night Pageant From Stand.

A visit from President J. E. Chilberg and eight of the officials and directors of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition was an important feature of the Rose Festival yesterday.

In the parade in the afternoon President Chilberg and his associates occupied seats in a gaily decorated auto, tally-ho, as guests of F. W. Leadbetter. Everywhere along the route that the Seattle men were recognized they received vociferous applause, and in this and other ways Portland did its best to show the friendly feeling that exists here for the Seattle Exposition.

The visit of the Exposition officials was somewhat of a return call, the Rose Festival having been officially represented on the opening day of the Exposition in Seattle.

Cordially given and cordially returned marked the visits of the officers of the two associations, and, to paraphrase a hackneyed term, it has been "hands across the river" as never before.

"In my many years of residence in the Pacific Northwest I learned that it is never necessary for any of the cities of this section to import roses for an occasion of this kind, stories spread by evil-minded persons to the contrary," said President Chilberg last evening. "But I never had any idea until today of Portland's capacity in the production of gorgeous roses. The wealth of the display was a continual source of astonishment to me and the other members of our party."

Rose Festival Idea Conveys Hint.

"Portland, as the mother city of Oregon and Washington, has taken somewhat of a lead over Seattle in evolving the Rose Festival idea. You had an exposition first and Seattle is now in line in that respect. Then the yearly Rose Festival was created and Spokane followed by giving annual Apple Shows. I don't know what Seattle can do in the way of annual events, but the city must surely do something to keep pace with its neighbors."

"Everywhere today we have received assurances of friendship for the A-Y-P Exposition and we are hoping that every person in Portland will see the fair before it is over. Seattle profited from the Lewis and Clark Exposition and we hope and know Portland will profit from this A-Y-P. I have talked between the two cities, that when any matter arises that affects the interests of the Northwest, Portland and Seattle, and Oregon, Washington and Idaho, stand together as a single unit."

Oregon has the best and most beautiful location that could be selected on the Exposition grounds. The exhibit provided by Oregon is a magnificent one and the Exposition management will do all in its power to aid your commission. It certainly deserves it.

"The Exposition promises to be as great a success proportionately as to finances as the Lewis and Clark Fair. When I say 'proportionately' I refer to the resources of Portland in 1866 as compared with the population of Seattle. If the Lewis and Clark Fair were to be given this year Portland would have resources to draw upon from practically double the population of 1866. All our estimates of what the receipts should be have been based proportionately upon the receipts of the Lewis and Clark Exposition and if we can do as well as you did we shall be satisfied. It is the history of expositions that about 80 per cent of the attendance is drawn from the city in which the exposition is held and the nearby territory. This was true of Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and Buffalo. The territory in which an exposition is held provides most of the money and the exposition serves as an attraction for visitors from other states. So far our receipts have exceeded our expectations."

All Pleasant at Exposition.

When questioned about the reports of friction between officials of the Exposition and the Oregon Commission, President Chilberg said that misleading stories had been circulated.

"Mr. Wehrung, president of the Oregon Commission, has been sustained in every point he has raised. Had he not been right in his contentions he would have had to recede. Every matter of difference is now adjusted and a friendly spirit exists. Only yesterday I received a communication from Mr. Wehrung offering the Oregon Building Ladies' Orchestra for any function at which its services might be desired.

"That poster story was wholly without foundation. I personally know that Manager Sweeney, of the Hotel Savoy, where it was related one of the posters was shown, offered $1000 for a copy of it and the poster was not forthcoming."

"Aside from considerations of the friendships that exist between Seattle and Portland business men, Seattle hotel men could not afford to permit such a thing to be shown in their establishments. The hotels get too much business from Portland people to risk giving offense to regular patrons."

The delegation from Seattle, in addition to Mr. Chilberg, includes John H. McGraw, ex-Governor of Washington, and Mrs. McGraw; L. A. Nadeau, director-general of the exposition; Mrs. Nadeau; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Moritz Thomsen, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rhoades, C. J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Prosch, Clark Davis and W. L. Buckley. The party was met at the Northern Pacific train by officers of the Rose Festival Association, and afterward calls were made by the Seattle delegation upon President B. W. Hoyt and other officers of the Rose Festival.

In the morning the party was taken to the rose show at the California building. The afternoon was entertained at luncheon at the Commercial Club by President B. W. Hoyt, of the Rose Festival Association. In the afternoon seven of the Seattle Club were guests of Mr. Leadbetter, and were entertained at dinner by Manager H. C. Bowers, of the Portland Hotel. In the evening the visitors again occupied seats in the reviewing stand during the parade. They returned to Seattle on the midnight train.

DECLINES BIG WELCOME

AMBASSADOR JUSSERAND TO BE PRIVATE GUEST HERE.

He Declines Other Engagements Prevent Public Reception—Mrs. C. A. Dolph, Hostess.

Ambassador Jusserand, of France, is to be taken in charge by private entertainers upon his arrival in Portland at 7:45 o'clock this morning. The distinguished statesman declined proffered attention by the Commercial Club and the Chamber of Commerce, explaining that his engagements at San Francisco and Seattle would tax his ability to respond to public greetings.

Ambassador Jusserand will be the guest, while in Portland, of Mrs. C. A. Dolph, who has issued invitations to a few of the principal residents of the city to meet him at her residence this evening.

Officials of the leading clubs of the city had been in communication with M. Jusserand with reference to his entertainment, but all had been informed that he preferred to omit any public function, and his wishes in this regard have been respected.

The East Side Business Men's Club, with the assistance of public-spirited citizens, has spared no effort or expense in making the event of tonight one of the features of the entire festival.

At 2 P. M. the daylight fireworks will be set off at East Sixth street, between East Stark and East Oak. During the afternoon the Peninsula Band will give a concert at the East Side bandstand.

Rose Train for Seattle.

J. H. Nolte, manager of the Peninsula brass band, says that he will be glad to take the Peninsula band to Seattle and to distribute roses there to show that Portland can grow real roses. "I am willing to give my time to taking the band to Seattle," said Mr. Nolte yesterday, "and distribute roses on the streets. But if we do this the expense must be met. If the progressive people of Portland want to provide for the expenses we will do the rest and give our time freely."

Crew Signed for Amaranth.

ASTORIA, Or., June 10.—(Special).—A crew was signed this afternoon on the American barkentine Amaranth, which has completed the loading of a cargo of lumber at the Hammond Lumber Company's mill for Sydney, Australia. The vessel will probably be ready to go to sea on Saturday.
