

SLAYDEN FORCES COUNT MEIGS OUT

Confident Pierce County Man
Will Be Speaker at Special Session.

HAY HAS NEW SCHEME

Table and Room Provided for Adoption of Cabinet Form of State Government—Plan Doomed. It Is Predicted.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 13.—(Special.)—In all probability when once the Speakership fight is settled, the special session of the Washington State Legislature will result in one of the shortest assemblies ever known in the history of special sessions. In the first place there are few legislators who care to remain at Olympia for any length of time during the month of June; in the second place, many of the legislators from Eastern Washington are now in the first throes of fruit harvesting and wheat growing and complain bitterly of being called away from their business pursuits to serve the state. Third, it is generally admitted and generally believed that the only thing of importance to attend to is the determination to be reached in the Schively matter and with this one out of the way it is likely a motion to adjourn will find no opposition.

Generally well-informed politicians here profess to believe that J. W. Sladen will be chosen Speaker over Leo O. Meigs, in spite of the claims put forth by Meigs that he has pledged sufficient to give him nine votes to spare. But since Meigs' announcement of his strength he has lost five members of the Pierce County delegation and several from King County. The King County Republican central committee has gone on record for the Pierce County candidate, and Pierce County evenly divided. Last Friday, Sladen pledged itself to Slayden, forcing Meigs to take a recount in the situation as it applies to the Speakership.

Slayden Will Have Contest.

That Slayden will not get away with the plum without a struggle is admitted, for the Meigs supporters intend to tie the Royal Arch support to him and defeat him with the aid of the anti-liquor element. Slayden's support in King County was not won without considerable effort, for Frank C. Jackson, one of the leaders of the King County delegation, has been an ardent supporter of Meigs and has been handling Meigs' campaign here. As the count now stands, Slayden claims two votes more than necessary to elect.

During the last few days there has been a tendency on the part of several legislators to introduce new legislation into the session, but this has been frowned upon by a majority, and it is not likely that any effort will be made to prolong the session longer than necessary. Slayden's charges. Legislators, however, cannot be depended upon to do but one thing, and as long as a call for the session is made broad enough to take in almost everything usually done by legislators, the people of the State of Washington may find themselves facing a long and expensive session.

Palmer Has New Bill.

Immediately upon the report of the investigation committee, Leg. J. B. Palmer, of King County, will introduce a bill asking for the abolishment of the State Insurance Commissioner's office. What the committee has to do as far as a report recommending a change in the Schively matter is concerned, is not known. Members of the committee are quiet on this subject and may or may not recommend impeachment proceedings.

That Governor Hay did not have the impeachment alone in mind is now generally admitted, and that he made the scope of the call broad enough to take in his plan for a cabinet government is one thing, and that he has been forcibly called to the attention of the legislators. This is one of the Governor's pet schemes, and he has been busy for weeks whipping it into shape.

Hay's Scheme Likely to Be Downed.

Although it has not been so stated in the press, it is known that the Governor has set aside a room with a long table in it, at the head of which he proposes to sit and there, gathering other members of the state government about him, deal out and receive advice concerning the way to run a state. The legislators, as well as state officers, have resented this centralization, resembling the court of a king, and when Mr. Hay's pet scheme comes up for consideration it is due to be hit pretty near the jugular vein and be permitted slowly to bleed to death.

Whatever is the result of the Speakership fight, it is not believed that the rest of the House session will be seriously affected, and perhaps not more than a day or two at most will be consumed in getting down to business for which the session was called.

The World's Greatest Reference Library
At About Half Price

Few of us have the time or facilities for making careful comparisons and coming to a right decision as to which work of reference is the best—the very best. We are all safe, however, in accepting the testimony of those who know—of men whose words carry weight, and who vouch for its authority, completeness and reliability. There are over 200,000 sets of the "Century" in daily use. Nearly 1000 of these are in Portland. Ask any one of their owners. Every "Century" owner is glad he bought the work—even at the former high prices! It is better to have just the right one reference work than to have a half dozen others not just right. No one need hesitate a moment in choosing once for all—and quickly—that great home library, the

Century Dictionary & Cyclopaedia & Atlas

It is owned and used daily by hundreds of lawyers, clergymen, physicians, business men, students, artisans; in fact, people in every walk of life who know that it is the "one supremely useful reference work." Among the many prominent Portland "Century" owners are those whose names are printed to the right and left and who join in the praise of

A Rapid-Firing Knowledge Gun!

The "Century" is always in active service; always right on the firing line; always at hand for quickly supplying just the information needed in every department of knowledge. It has been likened to a rapid-firing knowledge gun. It goes straight to the mark. The more you have used other reference works the more fully you will appreciate the "Century." Its information is not buried under general headings and in long and highly scientific articles, but is so distributed under separate headings that every desired fact is at once accessible. If, for example, you want some facts about "turbine engines" (the kind of engine used by the Cunard liner Lusitania), you do not want to have to look through a long encyclopedia article on engines to find a more or less incomplete account of "turbine engines"; you want to turn right to the word "turbine"—as you do in the "Century."

If you want to find out in which one of Dickens' books appeared the character "Little Nell" you do not want to read through a long article on Dickens; you want to turn right to the entry "Little Nell"—as you do in the "Century." The same plan is followed with reference to information of every kind, whether in biography, history, geography, electricity, mechanics, business, etc. The "Century" posts you quickly and thoroughly and keeps you posted.

Sets Are Going Fast! Secure Yours Now!

The World's Work is making this great offer through us as a means of quickly securing thousands of high-class readers in the big cities. We are conducting the distribution for them at merely a nominal charge to cover the cost of handling and delivering, but chiefly to popularize our Book Store.

Never before has it been possible to secure so easily the one set of books that will equip you quickly on all fact knowledge—the one supremely useful library of universal reference—The Century Dictionary & Cyclopaedia & Atlas.

Since the volumes were first shown in our Book Store, many persons have sent for specimen pages and are considering its purchase. To these and others who expect to avail themselves of this splendid offer we give this word of warning. Our allotment of sets for Portland was limited and is diminishing fast. Of one binding the supply is nearly exhausted. If you want the "Century" or have intended to come in and look at the work, do so now, because there is little time left in which to make a selection of bindings. Delay will surely mean disappointment here, as it has in other cities where these distributions have been conducted. Out-of-town people should send $1 by first mail to make sure of securing a set.
